Sympathies Extended.
Sympathies are extended to the family of Mrs. Rose Bloch Bauer, whose death came as a great shock to both her relatives and close friends. Her passing came a shadow over things social, where her beautiful voice and charming personality have been leading factors in Portland for many years.

Pretty Home Wedding.
A pretty though simple wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Conway, 425 Anawalt avenue, on June 5, when their daughter, Celestial A. Newman, and Francis Edward Monica were married. The couple was attended by Marguerite Gran and Roscoe Conway, brother of the bride. Rev. L. Thomas of Woodlawn M. E. church performed the ring ceremony. The bridal couple stood before a bank of white roses and ferns. The bride was gowned in white silk embroidered with a delicate pink shade bouquet of lilacs and pink roses. A wedding luncheon was served, after which the newly married couple left for their home, which was all ready for them at Twenty-fourth and Halsey streets.

Nothing was made, and those who took part are out their time, trouble and labor.

SUNDAY SERVICES

Conception of Christ Changing.
"There was a time when our God was a provincial God in the conception of the people; now he is a cosmopolitan God and in the near-future he will be universal," asserted Rev. L. K. Grimes of Central Presbyterian church, speaking yesterday morning on "The Future Christ." Mr. Grimes declared that the world's conception of Jesus Christ is changing in that it is becoming broader and broader. The time will come, he predicted, when the power of Jesus Christ will be such that the politics and social life of the world will be governed by the standards of the Nazarene. "When that time comes," he asserted, "there will be no more war."

Addresses Graduating Class.
"To take the life to follow by God, to cultivate it to the full and carry out his purposes, and then to return that life to the father, is the divine purpose of humanity," said Rev. H. S. Ramsey, dean of St. Stephen's Pro-Cathedral, in his baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of St. Helen's hall yesterday. There are 14 in the class and Dean Ramsey impressed upon them the seriousness of life.

Tell as a Toss.
"The best things we enjoy only through toil" declared Rev. J. J. Staub to his congregation at Sunnyside Congregational church. And it is through toil only that advancement is made.

Germany Is Theme.
Landing German as the greatest industrial nation in the world, Rev. John H. Boyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, had as his first theme yesterday, "The German Side of the Present War." He found much to praise in Germany and declared Kaiser Wilhelm to be the greatest leader of humanity he has seen. Since Frederick the Great, yet he said, was unable to approve of all that Germany is doing.

Others needing assistance are:
1. Man, wife and six children; man can get steady work; wife sick all winter.
2. Man has heart trouble and unable to do heavy work; has wife and three children to support; family now in need.
3. Man out of work; is a widower and has an old mother, 70 years and son 12 years old to support; family needs food.
4. Widower with little child; sick and unable to work; needs temporary help.
5. Cripple trying to support his family; lost his leg; is behind in rent on candy stand; must pay at once or landlord will put him out and is in danger of losing his little business.

Open Air Services.
Yesterday's open air services in front of the Taylor Street Methodist Episcopal church, conducted by the "insurgent" wing of the First M. E. church, were in form of a memorial for Captain William H. Pope, who died last Wednesday, and who was a member of Taylor Street church for nearly 50 years. B. Lee Paget, Samuel Concord and W. C. Thurlow made short addresses and Messrs. Boyer, Hansen, Stansbery and Idleman furnished special music.

Children's Day Observed.
Children's Day was celebrated in many of Portland's churches yesterday. Sunday school graduation exercises, presentation of prizes and special children's programs were the order of the day.

Universal Peace.
That the "hope" of universal peace depends largely on the training of the children of today and the future to the realization of the horrors of war was the message of Miss Grace De Graff, principal of the Kenton school, who recently returned from the women's peace conference at The Hague. She spoke before the Berean Bible class of the First Christian church and the congregation of the Rose City Presbyterian church yesterday. Miss De Graff told her hearers that woman's work should now be directed toward changing the thought of the world toward other things than war.

Factor to Remain.
Rev. Henry Marcotte, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, told his congregation yesterday that his resignation would stay with them indefinitely instead of accepting a call to become secretary of college church extension of the Presbyterian church. In announcing his decision to stay he made it plain, however, that he did not intend to remain a fixed period of time.

Glasses Are Confirmed.
Large classes were confirmed yesterday at the Church of the Madeleine, Holy Redeemer church and St. Rose church. At the Church of the Madeleine, East Twenty-third and Siskiyou streets, Archbishop Christie delivered the sermon in which he announced confirmation to those receiving the sacrament of confirmation, Rev. George Thompson, rector of the parish, celebrated the mass, being assisted by Rev. O. J. Campbell, Rev. W. A. Daly and Rev. George Marr. D. D., Columbia university, as deacon and sub-deacon. The solemnizing was Miss Nona Lawler, Mrs. Petzel, Mrs. M. C. Mitchell and Mrs. Madson. Mrs. Donnerberg served as organist.

Confirmation Given.
Archbishop Alexander Christie gave confirmation yesterday at the Church of the Madeleine, St. Rose, and to an invalid boy privately.

Special Agent Has Clew to One of Bandits

From the first after he had gathered in the loot he could. He then repeated the operation in the same manner. When the train had reached Glen Echo, the robber swung off, firing a shot and ordering the motorman to go ahead at full speed.

Motorman Tom Berland proceeded as rapidly as possible to Oregon City, where the officials of the company were notified of the holdup. Sheriff Wilson of Clackamas county also was informed and he started out at once with a posse. Special Agent Wagner and Deputy W. P. Lillis went out from Portland, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Robert Phillips. Lillis and Phillips worked the west side of the river between Oswego and Portland for traces of the robbers, getting back to Portland about 5 o'clock this morning without success.

Cite Is Obtained.
Wagner and a posse worked the east side of the river. Although their men were not found, Wagner stated this morning that he had secured valuable information, which may lead to the capture of one of the robbers.

Some street car officials believe the chief robber was a former employee of the company, their theory being based on his evident familiarity with the line and the operation of the cars. The chief robber was about 25 years old, dressed in a light suit. His companion was younger.

Realistic Train Wreck Feature

A realistic train wreck, with a real locomotive and cars, is the feature of "The Juggernaut," the first of the "Big 4" series of films shown at the Orpheum theatre yesterday.

The picture shows a train crashing through a wooden trestle and falling into the waters of a lake. It's one of the best train wreck scenes ever shown in Portland.

Anita Stewart and Earle Williams have the leading parts in the play, which is staged by the Vitagraph company. The story tells of two college chums, one of whom becomes district attorney and the other president of the railroad. An automobile and motorboat are used to furnish other thrills besides the train wreck. The picture has an unusual number of scenes, "Bud Blossom" and "Unwinding It"

Car Operated Stopped.
The robber ordered the conductor to stop the car. As the robber swung off the bullet shattered a pane of glass of the holdup was over, but instead the robber caught the front end of the rear car. He fired a shot through the ceiling of the car and the conductor came forward and turn over his money, which amounted to about $15. Next he ordered a passenger to pass the car. The robber said it had gone but the conductor's stomach as he ordered him to turn over the money he had. Tye turned over about $35. Tye said the robber ordered him to take off his cap and pass down the car taking up a collection from the passengers. The robber fired three shots to show the passengers the his gun was loaded. Tye says the passengers contributed between $3 and $4, and no jewelry.

"You're a damn poor collector," said the robber, and he laughed.

Robber Appeared Reckless.
Many of the passengers commented upon the apparent recklessness of the man, who appeared to be no excited man, in the least. He stood with his back to Motorman Berland and any of the passengers who might have been in shooting him.

Conductor Tye said this morning that when he "peaked" the hat" on his sengers dropped in pennies, nickels and dimes. No attempt was made to search the passengers and many who would have had no difficulty when they contributed nothing.

One young man slipped $25 to the young woman who was accompanying the robber did not notice it.

Dr. Wolfe Is Better.
Dr. L. J. Wolfe, chief medical inspector of the city health bureau, who is ill at St. Vincent's hospital, was reported to be greatly improved this morning.
