

WILSON DAY TO SHOW PRESIDENT HE HAS SUPPORT OF COUNTRY

Encouragement to Chief Executive in His International Policy to Be Given.

FLAGS TO BE DISPLAYED

National Emblem to Fly From Public Buildings and Business; Citizens Asked to Wear Flags.

Patriotism is the keynote for Wilson day. As set forth by proclamation by Mayor Albee, Wilson day will be next Thursday.

Its purpose is to make a display of the patriotism which fills the hearts of the people of Portland, and in that way give encouragement to President Wilson in his dealings with the momentous international questions now confronting this nation.

It is purpose is also to show that the people, regardless of political parties, are sustaining the president at this time of great stress.

That day the national emblem will fly from the public buildings and business houses of the city. The flag will be displayed from hundreds of homes.

"Observance of Wilson day is a fine thing," said School Superintendent J. J. Gill, chief of the schools, and in that way of the schoolhouses, next Thursday we will have an extra number, and we will have flag salutes in all the schools.

Both are citizens and taxpayers and they have never accepted one cent from the government. Chief Fern was a close friend of Robert Booth and his friends among the whites in the region where he lives are legion. Both chiefs are high minded, intelligent men whose virtues mark them as conspicuous and worthy citizens.

John Gill declared it was a wise thing to do. "It will do the country good. It will do everybody good," he said.

Mayor Albee, in his proclamation, suggested that citizens wear button-hole flags on next Thursday. The stores, and it is expected that thousands of them will be in evidence.

Credit Men Give City Much Credit

Easterners Enjoy Visit, Mosses and Baked Salmon, Which They Feast Upon Freely.

Eastern credit men, having been entertained by Portland credit men Saturday, are entering the city today having the finest roasts and best baked salmon they ever saw or ate.

The train was met at the Dalles by J. J. Sayer, chairman of the Portland credit men's entertainment committee. Here they were given chairs. The other members of the committee met the train at Bonneville, laden with roasts.

A. H. Allen, F. Barringer, P. L. Bishop, E. T. Chase, Frank Duester, S. L. Eddy, J. A. Jamieson, D. L. McFiee, W. J. Mitchell, F. C. Moore, D. J. O'Neill, Dell O'Hanlon and J. M. Morrison are the other members.

The visitors were entertained at luncheon at the Portland and taken for a trolley trip to Council Crest and an auto tour of the city in the afternoon. Mayor Albee and President C. C. Colt of the Chamber of Commerce assisted in welcoming them to the city. They departed for Seattle at 11:30 p. m. Saturday.

Upper Columbia Highway Inspected

Frank C. Riggs and Party Walk From Hood River to Warrendale and Come Home Filled With Excitement.

Frank C. Riggs and party of four are highly enthusiastic over their trip along the Columbia highway from Hood River to Warrendale, a little walk of about 10 miles. They took yesterday from 10 in the morning till 7 in the evening. "A beautiful trip," he remarked, and then added: "But we had a little of the morning."

The other members of the party were W. B. Frouye, Robert McGill and E. J. Clendinning. They were inspecting on foot the work of the highway, and are highly elated over it. The whole road, from here to Hood River and The Dalles, will be open by July 15.

Calls Wife's Death "Beautiful End"

B. T. Dana, College Professor and Grandson of Longfellow, Defends Right of Person to End Life.

Boston, Mass., June 21.—(U. P.)—Defending the right of a person to take his or her own life, Edward Trowbridge Dana, grandson of the poet Longfellow and assistant professor in the University of Minnesota, declared today that his wife's tragic death last Thursday in the Atlantic ocean was an act of her own will and not an accident, as had been stated.

"Our life together has been a beautiful comradeship and has now had a tremendously tragic but beautiful end," said Dana.

INDIAN CHIEFS VISIT CITY AND MEET SENATOR LANE

Chief Jake Fern.

Sam Fern, son of chief.

Two of the most distinguished Indian visitors in Portland during Rose Festival week were Jake Fern, last chief of the Callapooa tribe, and Nascha, Tipton, chief of the Molalla. Jake Fern is living a quiet life among the white people seven miles north of Drain and Tipton resides on the North Umpqua, 25 miles north of Roseburg. They are cousins.

Both are citizens and taxpayers and they have never accepted one cent from the government. Chief Fern was a close friend of Robert Booth and his friends among the whites in the region where he lives are legion. Both chiefs are high minded, intelligent men whose virtues mark them as conspicuous and worthy citizens.

Schaeffer's Body Taken From River

The body of W. B. Schaeffer, who was drowned in the Willamette river on Monday, June 14, was found Saturday afternoon about 200 feet below a point opposite Jennings Lodge where the canoe he was in capsized.

His comrades of Company C, Third Regiment, O. N. G., had kept up a continual search for the body ever since the accident. It was found by C. E. Williams, a fisherman.

Mr. Schaeffer was 21 years of age and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Susan Schaeffer, residing at 122 East Sixteenth street. Company C, under Captain Daniel E. Bowman, attended the services and escorted the remains to Rose City Park cemetery.

The pallbearers were Sergeant U. S. Howard, Corporal R. De Morse, Musician A. A. Mitcher, Privates E. Rhoad, M. S. Hunt and W. McCormack.

Warrior Carried Live Eagle into Battle Veteran Recalls Stirring Times of War

Thomas J. Hill is a youth of 21—when he is talking about the Eighth Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry—and a veteran of 75 years in fact, although he seems to bear the age well. He enlisted in Company C in 1861 from the then small town of Eau Claire that furnished more men in proportion to population than any other place in Wisconsin. His was the famous "Eagle Regiment," because of the native eagle carried as a mascot by the regiment through 42 battles.

"I carried him from May 21, 1861, to August 17, 1862," said Mr. Hill, "and then I was made wagonmaster of the regiment. We went through 14 battles together, and Old Abe set well on his perch."

Mr. Walker was born in Newfoundland, but went with his family to Wisconsin in 1855. He has been in Portland since last February visiting his sister, Mrs. J. H. Blake, of Lentz, and expects to return shortly to Eau Claire.

"There are 10,000 veterans left in Wisconsin yet, and if any of us are wanted any time every last man is ready; but I guess we are not likely to be called on," he said.

Mr. Hill spent last winter in British Columbia, but got tired of being away from the United States and came to Portland. With considerable pride, he carries newspaper clippings telling of "Old Abe" and the Eighth Wisconsin, and shows his name in the scanty list of survivors.

Old Abe was sold by an Indian when a fledgling for a bushel of corn, and afterwards the members of Mr. Hill's company took up a collection and paid $5 for him. It is said that whenever there was a battle on "Old Abe" would scream and spread his wings, and when a charge was ordered greatly encouraged the men by his behavior. He became an honored charge of the state of Wisconsin when the regiment disbanded, and until 1881 was the most famous eagle in the United States.

Mr. Hill indignantly scouted the theory that "Old Abe" was of the feminine gender.

Former Banker on Way to Prison Cell

Henry Siegel, Who Stole Thousands of Dollars From Department Store Employees, Must Serve 10 Months.

Genese, N. Y., June 21.—(U. P.)—Henry Siegel, banker and "merchant prince," left for Rochester today to begin serving 10 months in the Monroe county penitentiary for bank wrecking.

Siegel was convicted of wrecking the private bank operated in connection with one of his big department stores in New York. The greatest number of his victims were working girls, who deposited their savings in the institution, only to have them diverted to Siegel's private enterprises.

Germany Prepares For Winter Battle

Already Clothing Manufacturing Centers of Empire Busy Lining Overcoats With Fur for Cold Weather.

Berlin, June 6.—(By Mail to New York).—(U. P.)—Germany is preparing for another winter campaign. Almost every day on Simmerstrasse, the center of the clothing manufacturing district, truck loads of heavy field gray overcoats are carted to a local fur store. These coats are being lined with fur by hundreds every day.

Wagon loads of heavy leather boots pass through Charlottenstrasse every day. They are of the kind worn by the German soldiers campaigning in Poland last winter.

ABUSE OF U. S. FLAG BY ALLIES, IS CHARGE MADE BY GERMANS

Flying of Other Neutral Flags Is Also Alleged Against the British.

By John Edwin Nevin, Washington, June 21.—(U. P.)—Serious charges of abuse of the American flag by the allies have been made to the state department by Germany, it was learned today.

The charges filed covered at least six instances in which use of the flag was abused within the past two months. A report has been asked from the American embassy in London, but nothing has yet been heard from Ambassador Page.

It was learned authoritatively today that Germany has also cited the flying of other neutral flags by disguised British ships, and the use of the German flag by German submarines. These charges, it is expected, will figure in Germany's reply to President Wilson's latest note regarding the submarine warfare.

The state department has already been informed of Germany's charge that the submarine U-29 was rammed and sunk by a British tank steamer.

Farmer Is Kind to Sick Ward of the Juvenile Court

An act of real charity was reported by Mrs. Margaret Thorman of the juvenile court, who returned this morning from Marion county where she went to investigate the condition of wards of the court placed with families.

A 14-year-old boy had been sent to a family living in the foothills about 18 miles from Silverton. On the day of his arrival the boy was attacked by rheumatism. The farmer, though in poor circumstances himself and very much in need of the boy's help, gave the boy every attention that he would have had from his own parents.

The boy is improving now and proudly rode away to bring in the cows while Mrs. Thorman was there. The family consists of the farmer, his wife, and three small daughters.

Convicts to Have Vocational Training

Captain Howland, Commandant of Prison on Alcatraz Island, Wants Men to Be Useful After Release.

San Francisco, June 21.—(I. N. S.)—Vocational training for prisoners is the latest humane addition to the disciplinary barracks at Alcatraz island.

Captain Charles R. Howland, commandant of the institution, is responsible for the order which becomes effective today. A military prisoner hereafter may choose one or several trades and make himself proficient in any one of them while serving sentence. The list includes printing, tailoring, masonry, or, in fact, almost anything which does not require a college education. Heretofore any prisoner sentenced for a felony or even a misdemeanor left the disciplinary barracks exactly as they entered and added to the disgrace of a dishonorable discharge, had to make their livelihood as day laborers because most of the men who take up arms as a profession have no vocational training.

Captain Howland recently was transferred to San Francisco from Vancouver barracks.

The chief of police at Southampton, England, is advertising for policemen at a salary of from $7 to $9 a week.

Receives Big Pay For Cotton Cargo

British Government Sends American Owners $285,000 as First Installment of Price of Cotton Detained.

London, June 21.—(U. P.)—A. G. Hayes, representative of the American owners of the cotton cargo on the Danish steamer Kina, has received from the British government the first installment, amounting to $285,000, of the cotton's price. The Kina left Savannah, Ga., on April 15, bound for Rotterdam, and was seized in the belief that the cargo was destined for Germany.
