MEMORY OF YEAR'S DEAD HONORED BY OREGON'S PIONEERS

Resolutions Committee Remembers Names of Early-Day Folk Now Passed On.

HELP FOR STATE

Historic Champoeg, Annual Commemorative School Exercises.

composed of M. C. George, Charles B. Moores and P. H. D'Arcy, made special mention in one resolution, which was adopted, of a few of the notable pioneers who had died during the previous men mentioned were John Minto, pioneer of '44, whose public services were commended; Richard Williams, pioneer of '51, who served the state in congress; Seneca Smith, pioneer of '47, circuit judge of Multnomah county for several years; E. B. Watson, pioneer of '53, who was a judge of the state supreme court; C. C. Beekman, pioneer Wells-Fargo agent and banker of southern Oregon, and W. H. Pope, pioneer of '51, early Oregon steamboat captain.

Other resolutions adopted were: One urging congress to devote the proceeds of the sale of the Oregon & California grant lands, above $2.50 an acre, the railroad's share, to the state school fund; one commending Secretary George H. Hines for his faithful and efficient services; one asking the legislature to provide care for pioneer cemeteries and to provide an inclosure and permanent buildings at Champoeg; one preserving the route of the old Oregon trail; and one suggesting that Samuel L. Simpson, pioneer Oregon poet, be avenue, Salem. A resolution proposed by Milton A Miller was also adopted, asking that a lay be set apart for the celebration, by exercises in the schools, of Founders' day, commemorating the event at mpoeg May 2, 1843, when the settlers decided to organize a provisional government under American instead of British auspices.

Another resolution thanked Women's auxiliary of the Oregon Pioneers association for the banquet, which the resolution said "surpassed all previous efforts of this character.' Officers of the auxiliary are: Mrs. John W. Minto, president; Mrs. James W. Cook, first vice-president; Miss Kate Helman, second vice-president; Mrs. Herbert Holman, secretary; Mrs. P. W. Gillette, treasurer, and Mrs. Benton Killin, Mrs. D. P. Thompson and Mrs. P. L. Willis, executive board. Thanks were also extended to Mrs. president of the association, and the members of the reception committee: 9 Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway, Mrs. Mar-Deady, Mrs. T. T. Struble Mrs. Robert Porter, Mrs. Thomas Moffett, Mrs. John D. Biles and Mrs. F. O. McCown.

Bozorth Family

ican rights in European relations.

A resolution was also adopted commending the position of President Wilson and his cabinet in regard to Amer-annual reunion of the Bozorth family and the eleventh annual re-union which was held Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Keenan was not an exception. The Bozorth family association has about 300 members and the first settless came to Woodland, Wash., in 1849. An elaborate dinner was given at which Howard C. Bozorth, president of the association, presided. Especially honored was Mrs. Caroline Thyng, the sole surviving sister of the founder of the organization. A number of interesting talks were given during the dinner hour by President Bozorth, Albert S. Wills, vice president; Milton Bozorth, secretary, and others.

The election of officers after dinner resulted as follows: Howard Bozorth, president; Albert N. Wills, vice. president; Milton Bozorth, secretary, and Joan Bozorth, historian, Music and an informal social hour followed the usiness meeting.

"Many of them," writes Mr. Wilson, believing it an injustice that they be retained and made professional sol-diers after the war had closed, returned to their homes. Most of these men had seen upwards of a year of

Mr. Wilson himself, he writes, served several enlistments in the regular cavalry since the Civil war, par-ticipating in the Apache wars in Arizona in 1869-74, the Geronimo cam-paign of 1885-6, and the Sioux uprising of 1890-91, and has honorable discharges for all service except the Civil

"Deserted After War."

Mr. Wilson's letter to The Journal was prompted by a paragraph in one of The Journal's accounts of the pioneers' reunion last week, referring to J. C. Coakley, who lives in the Sunnyside district, Portland, and who will be 90 August 15. He enlisted in the regular army in his native state of Pennsylvania in 1855, and coming to Oresylvania in 1855, and coming to Oregon as a soldier, fought against the Flatheads in the Puget sound country. Mr. Coakley told The Journal that doesn't get a pension, whimsically adding that he "deserted after the war was over."

Mr. Coakley was wounded in the That linchpin wagon With its bucket of tar. wrist, which is stiff and scarred where soft bullet tore through. Mr. Wilson suggests an amendment to the act of congress which provided that the charge of desertion be reteers who remained with their commands until May 1, 1865, so that those men who enlisted as volunteers, but were placed in service as regulars, and left their commands for their homes at the close of the war, may have a increased by about 20,000 men. Owing to the fact that recruiting for the ously in vogue many of these regular We never shall fail organizations had not, at the ending To remember the loved ones of the war, secured their full complenent of men. At the time of President Lincoln's last call for volunteers in 1864, there being no new regiments, many volunteers responding to that call, were as a matter of convenience assigned to regiments in the regular service, the form and term of enlistment being alike for all service, three years or during war.

"The southern cause at this time was considered hopeless and those reeponding to that call were confident their services would not be of long

OLD TIMERS' NOTES

Among the many pioneer Oregon mothers who attended the forty-third annual reunion of the Oregon Pioneer association, none perhaps was more vigorous than Mrs. Mary L. Abbott, of Vancouver, Wash., who is 83 years old, and who crossed the plains in '53. She gave nine children to the work of making the Oregon country a white man's country.

There are many styles of pioneer eards but a few of the men who toiled across the plains in the forties and fifties now appear as clean shaven as a modern matinee idol.

E. B. Coats, pioneer of '53, who lives near Yoncalla, in Douglas county, may stop smoking if he ever finds it

Carson C. Masiker, of Hood River, who wrote the song, "The Linchpin Wagon," which the pioneers are singing this year, is not exactly satisfied with his work. He says when he started to write the song he hoped to make it better than it is. He put it away for a month after it was written and then took it out with the idea of bettering it, but says that try as he would, he "couldn't help it any."

Pay for the care of children sent to the Frazer Detention Home is to be exacted in the future by Judge Cleeton of the juvenile court whenever the parents of such children can afford to pay.

In a letter to Superintendent

White, of the home, Judge Cleeton yesterday suggested that investigations be made as to the financial condition of parents and that they be required to pay all or what they could afford of the cost of keeping the children, even if ft became necessary to prosecute them criminally under the law making willful failure to support children a felony. THE LINCHPIN WAGON AND ITS TAR BUCKET

Attorney Evans for action,

Song written for the annual reunion of Oregon Pioneers by Carson C. Mas-iker, 1853, of Hood River.

Tune-"Wait for the Wagon. Oh, the linchpin wagon
What memories it recalls
Of the days when I gazed
On the mountains afar,
As it ground through the sand

Wait for the wagon
The linchpin wagon,
The linchpin wagon
With its bucket of tar.

How the smell of that tar
In my nostrils still lingers;
How softly, yet firmly,
It stuck to my fingers; How tiresome its jar— That linchpin wagon With its bucket of tar.

When the hot sun beat down

When the red men attack'd us And fired on the train, It made us a breastwork
Again and again,
'T was a bedroom at night
And a refuge in war
That hinchnin wegen

Chorus couch for the sick, The halt and the lame-It carried our grub
And blankets and game,
Our women and children
It brought from afar,
That linchpin wagon
With its bucket of tar.

Chorus— The bed of this wagon clear record.

In his letter to The Journal he says:

Assigned to Regular Regiments.

"During the Civil war, 1861-5, the regular army of the United States was lacreased by about 20,000 men. Owing With its bucket of tar.

We left on the trail.
Their sad, lonely graves
On that journey so far
Were planned in that wagon
With its bucket of tar.

Chorus—
The old pioneers
Will remember the test
That this wagon withstood
In their journey out West;
And always will love it,
Though the time be afar—
This linchpin wagon
With its bucket of tar.

"The war ending in April, 1865, most of the volunteer regiments were at once disbanded, but a few, much to Reunion Will Take Place Today their disgust, were retained till their Peninsula Park—Senator Lane patience was exhausted, and quite number returned to their homes with out the formality of a discharge. Congress has since passed an act removing the charge of desertion from the records of all volunteers who remained with their commands till May 1, 1865. The act applied to volunteers, only, lthough the whole army at that time might properly have been classed as volunteer army. Pew Would Be Affected,

"To amend that act to include all soldiers of the Civil war would affect very few, and principally those reoonding to that last call, as the terms those previously enlisting would would have more nearly expired. A conscript measure had been enacted, every precinct in the land had its percentage of men to furnish, and those old men, leaving their fields and shops, and the very many mere boys who re-sponded to that call, were all credited as part of the quota of the respective ing assigned to depleted volunteer regiments, and others to fill the ranks of regular regiments, These latter men inadvertently or by no act of their own were thus placed in organizations of the regular army. "It would only be an act of delayed justice to amend that act so that these
