Gladstone Park, Or., July 13.—Rural credits, the third step to be considered by congress in its constructive legislation for farmers, was discussed by Congressman W. C. Hawley during forum hour at Chautauqua this morning.

Before outlining the proposed rural credits bill, Congressman Hawley outlined the two steps that have been already taken—creation of the bureau of markets and the agricultural extension bill.

The salient feature of the bureau of markets, the speaker said, is to eliminate the great expense of marketing products and cut down the large profits of the middleman. The intention of the agricultural extension bill is to put into each county in each state in the union a scientific agriculturalist who has been a success as a practical farmer to assist in increasing the crops.

Will Prepare Measure.

"The third step in this legislation is the rural credits bill," said Congressman Hawley. "The last congress appointed a committee of 12, of which I am a member, to draft this bill. We shall meet 30 days before the session opens and prepare the measure. Briefly speaking, the legislation will provide a means by which the farmers can get money at a low rate of interest and for a long time. The bill will be such modifications of the practices which have been successes in Europe as will be suited to the United States."

Yesterday was Patriotic Day at the park and the old soldiers held full sway. They were there in force, with the Veteran Drum Corps, of Oregon and could be heard as well as seen.

Tribute was paid to the veterans of the Civil war by W. H. Head in his patriotic address in the afternoon.

"We owe all in this country to the little brown button and what it represents," he said. "Old Glory waves today only because of the wearers of this button and their comrades who are gone before. I never see one of those buttons, but that I feel the deepest respect for the wearer."

The ideals and aspirations of "The Coming Citizens" were told by Mrs. Lillian Downing at the civic parliament at 3:30.

Mrs. Laura Baldwin Doolittle spoke at the Congressional Union headquarters.

In the first of his instructive talks on the inside of government workings at Washington, W. C. Hawley spoke at 3:30. He said there should be no mystery in the minds of the people regarding the admistration of their government. Public utility corporations are rapidly coming to realize the public should be taken into their confidence.

Program for Youngsters.

The program last evening was especially for the kiddies and they surely enjoyed it. All of the front seats were reserved for the youngsters. The Floyds, magicians, with the assistance of different boys and girls, they called to the stage, furnished the amusement.

This year's program has been abundant in good music. It is the first year a regular orchestra or band has not been employed at the park, but the number of orchestras, concert companies, etc., was so great this year it was not thought necessary to have a regular band. The biggest musical day of the entire program will be Thursday.

Ciricillo's Italian band will give two concerts and the Il Travatore Grand Opera company will give that opera.

TERRORIST PLOT IS SEEN IN PLANTING BOMBS ON VESSELS

British Ambassador at National Capital Guarded by Secret Service Agents.

FACTS KEPT FROM PUBLIC

Learned Today That Several Attempts Made to Blow Up Ships Carrying Supplies to Allies.

Washington, —July 13.—(U. P.)—It was authoritatively admitted today that secret service agents suspect a widespread anti-allies terrorist plot in the east, but sufficient progress has not been made to establish proof of its existence in recent attacks of violence and the discovery of bombs upon numerous ships en route to England and France.

That the plot included an attempt to kill or kidnap Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, as he came from the Morgan home Monday night, could not be verified today. It was denied that the ambassador was being especially guarded, but it is known that secret service agents and police are unostentatiously watching the British embassy. As a result of the threatening letter received in New Orleans Sunday night, more extensive precautionary measures are possibly now being observed.

There is no attempt to shroud reports of bombs having been found on Transatlantic ships in mystery. More attempts to blow up vessels carrying supplies to the allies have been made than have been made public, it was declared today. Most of the bomb planting attempts have been frustrated. But authorities pointed out today that while individual cranks might succeed in planting bombs aboard one or two ships, the great number that have been found suggests a master mind directing a widespread plot. And the theory that Frank Holt, who planted a bomb in the capitol and shot J. P. Morgan twice, may have been a tool to such a conspiracy is being considered.

Reports that sensational disclosures may be expected soon could not be confirmed today, but they are persistent.

FAVORS COTTON TRADE

Berlin, July 13.—(I. N. S.)—Count Reventlow has now taken up the question of the cotton supply, and undertaken to prove that the declaration of cotton as contraband would be a grievous and wanton blow to the United States, Holland, Sweden, Norway and Denmark.

Reventlow declares the increased trading in cotton by neutral states is due entirely to the fact that Germany is not exporting cotton goods. He says: "If England declared cotton contraband it would be a terrible blow for the population of neutral countries and their whole economic system."

Gives His Employes High Athletic Field

John Wanamaker Celebrates Seventy-seventh Birthday by Opening Recreation Center on Top of Store.

Philadelphia, July 13.—(I. N. S.)—An athletic field equipped with every facility for healthful recreation was opened on the roof of the Wanamaker store yesterday in honor of the seventy-seventh birthday anniversary of John Wanamaker. Although Sunday was actually Wanamaker's anniversary, the event was celebrated by the employes of the big store Monday.

One of the high points in Wanamaker's address was when he made the following reference to the American flag:

"The flag of the United States from this day on has got to mean more to the world than it ever did before. This nation is not going to ask permission from any country to travel across the ocean. That belongs to the world."
