

WHAT EFFECT WILL COURT RULE HAVE IN OTHER LAND GRANTS

Question Looms Following Decision of Judge Wolverton in Coos Bay Case.

SITUATION IS REVIEWED

Ruling that Company's Equity Is But $2.50 an Acre, May Be Factor in Three Other Grants.

What effect will the decision in the Coos Bay wagon road land grant case have on the other wagon road land grants that have been made in this state?

This question has been raised since Federal Judge Wolverton rendered his decision that the Southern Oregon company has no more than $2.50 an acre equity in the 100 acres left in the Coos Bay wagon road grant, and in the values in excess of that amount belong to the public, subject to disposition by Congress.

Attorneys Give Views.

Attorneys who have given some consideration to the matter, however, express the opinion that the title to these acres has been definitely settled by suits for forfeiture brought in the late '80's by the government and won by the defendants.

The three other grants were known as The Dalles military road grant, the Oregon Central military road grant, and the Willamette Valley and Cascade Mountain wagon road grant.

Each of these grants were made to the state, and from the state to the companies, which agreed to build the desired wagon roads. The grant for The Dalles road was made by Congress in 1867, and the Oregon legislature the next year granted it to the Dalles Military Road company, of which James K. Kelly was president and C. N. Thornbury was secretary.

The land now remaining in the grant is owned by the Eastern Oregon Land company. This grant was made for the purpose of having a wagon road built from The Dalles by way of Camp Watson, Canyon City, and Horn, to Humboldt basin to a point on the Snake river opposite Boise, Idaho.

Terms of Grant Stated. The grant comprised about 685,440 acres. It provided that the land could be sold only as the work on the road progressed. When 10 miles of road was completed the company would be entitled to sell 30 sections of the land.

If the road was not completed in five years the land remaining unsold was to revert to the government. In 1899 the government brought suit to have all three grants forfeited, on the ground that the roads had never been built, but that the companies had made false representations to the effect that the roads had been built, and the then governors had made false certificates for the companies.

Before these suits were brought the lands had changed hands a time or two, and the government lost largely because the courts held that the lands were then in the hands of innocent purchasers, who had relied on the certificate of the governor and the acts of Congress for their title and had bought the lands in good faith.

In 1876 The Dalles Military Road company sold the land to Edward Martin for $125,000, and he later sold the land to the Eastern Oregon Land company, a California corporation.

Alternate Sections Included. The road that the company pretended to build was 357 miles long, and was largely through non-forested country in eastern Oregon. The grant included alternate odd sections through a strip three miles wide on each side of the road.

Congress made the Oregon Central grant in 1864 to induce the building of a road from Eugene to the southeastern corner of the state. In the same year the state granted the lands to the Oregon Central Military Road company. This grant comprised about 845,338 acres. In 1874 a group of California people contracted for the purchase of the land, and in 1877 they organized the California Oregon Land company and bought the land for

Oh! Such Lovely, Dainty Uppercuts In Society Bout

New Orleans, La., July 15.—(U. P.)—Working a tantalizing next job, Miss Ada Eline out-punited Miss Mary McDonald in a fast three round boxing bout with ten ounce gloves last night before an audience of five hundred society women. Once more man saw the bout. He was Professor Hansen, physical director of the fashionable summer school of Tulane college. Both of the contestants are students of the school. Another bout is being arranged between them.

Miss McDonald fought a rushing, lunging battle, hoping to offset Miss Eline's superior footwork and boxing. Her rushes, however, were met by left jabs and choppy rights to the jaw. Miss McDonald cornered her opponent occasionally and pumped blows with both hands to the body.

$200,000. The present owners, so far as is known, are as follows: Oregon Land & Livestock company, 135,000 acres; Booth-Kelly Lumber company, 40,000 acres; Oregon Valley Land company the balance.

In its suit for forfeiture against the owners of this grant, the government alleged that the owners, when they wanted the certificate of Governor Gibbes that the first 50 miles of the road had been completed, took him out and showed him a county road which they had nothing to do with, representing to the governor that it was the road they had built.

376,480 Acres in Grant.

The Willamette Valley & Cascade Mountain wagon road grant was made by Congress in 1866, and the same year the state granted the land to the Willamette Valley & Cascade Mountain Wagon Road company. The road was to be built from Albany to the eastern boundary of the state. The grant comprised about 376,480 acres.

The present owner of 300,000 acres of the grant is the Oregon & Western Colonization company, which was organized by Louis Hill, the railroad magnate. His company acquired the 300,000 acres in 1910 from Charles Altschul, trustee for Lazarus Freres.

REVOLVER ORDINANCE IN VANCOUVER URGED BY JUDGE STEVENSON

Measure Advocated in Order to Make More Effective the Ordinance Adopted Here.

LAW IS EASILY DODGED

Parties Wishing to Secure Deadly Weapons Only Need Go to Washington for Them.

Contending that the effect of Oregon laws restricting the sale of revolvers is neutralized by the unrestricted sale of the dangerous weapons in Vancouver, Wash., John H. Stevenson, municipal judge, is advocating adoption of an ordinance in Vancouver which will prevent the sale of revolvers in that town.

Judge Stevenson discussed the matter with Judge Elwell of Vancouver, yesterday, and his suggestion for a city ordinance exempt to those who offered to make a personal plan before the Vancouver city council for the adoption of such an ordinance.

Judge Stevenson suggests that the town across the Columbia river adopt an ordinance prohibiting the sale of a gun and go to Vancouver, purchase a gun and return with it to Portland. He points to the Tronson murder as an example of how the guns are obtainable in Vancouver.

City Attorney La Roche is also interested in the plan to have Vancouver adopt an anti-revolver ordinance and the suggestion of Judge Stevenson has his indorsement. Other city officials are also indorsing the scheme.

To Overcome Sunburn, Tan, Freckles, Wrinkles

If your skin is usually reddened, freckled or tanned, dab a liberal amount of ordinary mercuric iodine on the face and allow it to remain over night. When you wash off the wax in the morning, the freckles, almost invisible particles of cuticle come with it. Repeating this daily, the entire outer skin is absorbed, but so gradually there's not the slightest hurt or inconvenience. Even the stubborn freckles are affected. The underlying skin which forms the new complexion is so fresh and youthful-looking, you'll marvel at the transformation. It's the only thing known to actually discard an aged, faded, muddied or blotchy complexion. One ounce of mercuric iodine, procurable at any drugstore, is sufficient in most cases.

If sun and wind make you squint and frown, you're bound to cultivate wrinkles and crow's feet. To overcome these quickly, bathe the face in a solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered salicylic acid in a pint which
