A BEAUTIFUL LAWN

Land's summer is probably here to stay and from now on much more care and work will be required to keep lawns beautiful and luxuriant. It is of the greatest importance that the lawn be frequently mowed. If this is neglected the mowing is not only more difficult, but the lawn looks unsightly.

A lawn should be mowed every eight or 10 days, according to the weather. The weather is wet or dry. A lawn that is not mowed frequently, soon becomes thin and with this grass you are sure to have weeds. Of course there will be some weeds in the grass, even with the best of care, as seed is carried about by the birds and wind. But the main cause of this grass and weedy lawns is want of care as to mowing and mowing.

With plenty of sun and good soil where the ground tree roots are given an annual top dressing of ground tons, with frequent and timely mowing, the grass cannot be other than beautiful and green.

Another very important matter is watering, and wherever practical give the grass a watering every second day, at least. It will always respond to such treatment. England is noted for its fine green grass which is due almost entirely to the climate, for there is much rain, especially during the summer season.

Even in tiny city grass plots the lawn should always be cut with a grass mower. It does the work neatly and you always get the grass healthier than where it is cut with hand shears. Be sure to keep the edges well trimmed. This will cut with hand shears. It looks very untidy to see the center well cut and the edges straggling, and such carelessness always reflects on the owner.

When you have finished mowing, rake the cut grass up and carry it to the rubbish pile. If permitted to remain where it was cut it will retard the progress of the growing blades, which try to push their way up through this. Grass will grow for makes an attractive environment for home, but poor grass only detracts from its appearance.

CANNING PEACHES

The first peaches arrived in market Monday. They were small in size and the time is not yet right to begin canning, but it soon will be. Indications point to an unusually large supply of peaches, small sizes and very low in price. The thrifty housewife takes advantage of such seasons to can enough peaches to last for a season or two when prices are high and the housewife who keeps abreast of domestic science advance knows that it is no longer necessary for her to undergo a long period of drudgery over a hot stove to put up her fruit. By the cold pack method much of the work can be done in hours if desired and a dozen quarts can be cooked with less time and trouble than one by the old open kettle method.

First select peaches of good quality, wash them and place them in a cheese cloth or wire basket, then dip them in boiling water for a minute or more. This must be followed immediately by a plunge in cold water to set the color and make the tissues firmer. The skins will remove easily and the fruit is ready for the jars which must be clean but not sterilized. Fill them within a half inch of the top and cover with plain water, sweeten if desired. Place the rubbers and screw the lids on, then give a slight twist back to leave escape for steam. Arrange the jars in a boiler that has a wire bottom of slats or wire, to keep the jars off the real bottom. Fill with warm water to the necks of the jars and start the fire going slowly and with the cover off until the jars are warmed up, then put the lid on and bring quickly to a boil. The boiling should continue for about 15 minutes and time should not be counted until the water boils. The next step is to tighten the lids.

Kenneth Irie, assistant boys' secretary, was in charge of the party, which consisted of Willis Lathrop, Brace Galloway, Charles Allison, Haddon Rockhey, Canfield Beattie, James Spaulding and William Kendall.

WOMEN WILL PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT

Four Organizations Ruled by Them Will Participate in Washington Meeting.

Washington, July 21.—Women will take a prominent part in the forty-ninth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which will be held in Washington September 27 to October 2.

Four organizations of women allied with the Grand Army of the Republic will participate in the encampment. These are the Women's Relief Corps, the Auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans, the Ladies of the G. A. R., and the Daughters of Veterans.

The Women's Relief Corps is the largest organization of women in the world under one eligibility clause and one motto. It now numbers 147,000, with department organizations in 41 states, divided among 2601 corps, as the local organizations are known.

It was organized at Denver, Colo., in 1883, in response to the call of the veterans for the organization of women that would be auxiliary to them, and which would assist them at national encampments, and assist them in the tremendous work which was becoming burdensome to the Grand Army.

At the encampment in Denver, the Women's Relief Corps, comprised of "loyal women who never gave aid or comfort to the enemies of the Union," was organized and accepted by the Grand Army, which had called it into existence and gave it the motto of the veteran body, "Fidelity, Charity and Loyalty," with the right to wear a badge with the medallion center of the G. A. R. badge.

Since its organization the Women's Relief Corps has expended in charitable and relief work for veterans nearly $4,000,000. It built and equipped an army nurses' home in Ohio, where army nurses of the Civil war could be cared for.

for Women Everywhere

THE well-dressed woman of today does not subject herself to the embarrassment of superfluous hair on the underarm.

With the vogue of sleeveless evening gown—the sheer blouse fabrics—and the popularity of the dance—women of nice feeling have, by means of the Gillette, presented an underarm as smooth as the face.

Milady Decolleté Gillette

The continued use of the Gillette—as much a matter of good grooming as good style—and the insistent demand of women everywhere for a Gillette adapted to their own use, has led to this new Model—Milady Decolleté Gillette.

The experience of women who have used a Gillette for years proves that it does not roughen the skin or coarsen the hair in the slightest degree.

Of dainty size, in 14-K gold plate, enclosed in French Ivory case, lined with velvet and satin in Purple, Old Rose, Green or Old Gold—Milady Decolleté Gillette is a most attractive toilet article. It will be found with the toilet goods in department stores, also in jewelry and drug stores and the foremost woman's specialty shops. The price is $5.

What and Why Corner?

I had a whole tub full of chocolates, and I could taste them just as plain as life.

"The reason for dreams is very simple," explained Uncle Ben. "All of the brain doesn't go to sleep at once, especially if some part of our body is disturbed. The higher parts that control the thoughts may go to sleep and some of the lower portions may remain awake. In these parts of the brain are stored all the things that have happened to us, that we have done or read about in the past. When the higher parts of the brain are asleep and do not guide our thoughts, the lower parts work on this material of the past.

"The sounder we sleep the less we dream. The more of our brain that remains awake, the more real are our dreams. When most of our brain is awake, and yet not enough for us to be completely conscious, the dreams are like life and we can remember them when we wake. No doubt we dream millions of dreams we never remember because so little of the brain is awake they leave no impression on the mind.

"Some folks think that when we dream our real selves leave our bodies and go wandering out into space where we experience the things that happen in our dreams. This is wrong. These things do not really happen. They are only pictures that pass through our minds. Souly's friends that not nearly only yesterday or the day before. It is better for us if we do not dream at all, because then our brains have a chance to rest and build up the worn out parts.

"I want to dream about the cream sodas," declared Twinkle with conviction.

"Exactly, and I suppose they were chasing you."

"Uh-huh, and I couldn't run away."

"Uncle Ben, what makes us dream?" asked Sister Bell.

"Once I dreamed
