Man Who Saved Frank From Legal Hanging Declares & Ohio railroad, collapsed today while State Will Punish,

San Francisco, Aug. 17.-(U. P.)-My horror is inexpressible. There is no language at my command which can convey my sentiments over this former governor of Georgia, who commuted the sentence of Lee M. Frank from death to life imprisonment, when told early today by the United Press covered.

"Attack on Civilization."

"The abduction of Frank was a cowardly attack upon civilization," said Slaton, "I know the people of Georgia well enough to say without qualification that the entire state will resent this outrage, and that nothing will be left undone to punish the male factors who have disgraced the commonwealth.

"I am so appalled at the horror of it all that I find myself groping for language strong enough adequately to condemn this crime."

Georgia Will Punish Them. When told that public feeling in Georgia was aroused to a fever heat in bitterness against the mob that lynched Leo M. Frank, Slaton declared that this was exactly what he expected. "I would have the people of this country know that the citizens of Seorgia, will be the first to insist that the men who lynched Frank be pun ished," said Slaton. "I know and love the people of Georgia and am confident that they will express their hor-ror over this awful crime."
