Measure Fixing Districts Wherein Dairies May Operate Is Unsatisfactory.

ity in Hands of City Council; Bigelow Prepares It.

Believing an ordinance fixing a district wherein dairles could be run li Portland would prove unsatisfactory an entirely new ordinance regulating dairies within the city has been pre-pared by Commissioner Bigelow and will be introduced before the city council, probably tomorrow.

The new ordinance provides no districts but requires that all owners of barns or dairies where more than two cows are kept shall secure a permit from the city council to maintain the places. This will leave it entirely in he hands of the council whenever lairy is sought to be established. The roposed ordinance affects existing fairies although to give them time to comply with its provisions the measure will not become effective for six months after its passage.
