KEEN INTEREST TAKEN IN DOLLAR DAY, NOW

Shoppers Eager to Ascertain Actual Purchasing Power of Coin.

THURSDAY IS THE DAY

Unusual Bargains Will Be Offered, Say Merchants Who Have Joined Popular Movement.

Two days more-then Dollar day. The Chamber of Commerce this floor. Mr. Jones is a son-in-law of morning predicted that Thursday would ex-Congressman M. C. George. see the largest crowd of shoppers or the streets of Portland that eve: turned out in the bistory of the city Information at the chamber is that tre mendous interest has been aroused through the publication of the names merchants who will participate and the announcement of the various lines of goods that are to be offered. It was predicted that crowds of city shoppers would be downtown early and stay late, and that every interurban train would be loaded to capacity during the forenoon.

J. P. Jaeger, chairman of the "Greet 'Em" committee, is ready for the fray "We are working out plans to care for the crowd and to be of assistance to any shopper who will want our services," said Mr. Jaeger today, "We will be able to tell shoppers just where to go for the bargains they may be hunting for, will be glad to help them to the trains and to assist in the delivery of their parcels."

Curiosity Keenly Aroused.

Merchants from all over the city patrons as to what will be offered on rest of the cycle riders. Dollar day in real bargains.

The Chamber of Commerce has a "through wire" connected up between central and the office of the secretary of the Retail Merchants' bureau. Dollar day is being talked about on streetcars litney drivers are discussing it with their patrons. Dollar day is in the air.

"It would be difficult to attempt prediction as to the amount of bustness that will be done on Dollar day. said W. F. Woodward, "We hope to make it so successful that merchants and shoppers Will be glad to repeat next season.

'The unusual bargains that are to be offered by participating merchants make the day of interest to every shopper in the city-to men and women alike. It is certain that a dollar will buy more of the article next Thursday than at any other time in the year

Chance to Save Money. "It is certain that Jollar day is going to remind a good many people of the fact that they need certain things and that they can get more of them for the money that day. And my experience is that no matter what the station of the customer may be in the social scale they like to get next to a good bargain.

"All our millionaires, with the exception of a few who got in the way of good luck, have accumulated their money through making a dollar buy a little more than the other fellow's dollar would buy.

"That's why shoppers will be taking advantage of Portland's first Dollar

Eleborate preparations have been made for taking care of the crowds. They will be handled at every store by extra forces of clerks and every aid given to help the customer secure the bargain wanted.

High Tribute Paid To Pioneer Preacher

B. F. Irvine, Samuel Connell and J. D. Lee Speak at "Father" John Plinn Memorial Services.

Memorial services for the late "Father" John Flinn were held yesterday morning in the First Methodist Episcopal church, when many speakers paid tribute to the man who has so much to do with the Methodist churches of the northwest. Services were also held in the street before the old Taylor Street church.

B. F. Irvine, associate editor of The Journal, told of his close acquaintanceship with "Father" Flinn. He took his listeners back to his childhood days, when he sat on the rude benches of the little Methodist church at Scio, Linn county, and listened to the preachings of "Father" Film.

"Few are left of those who knew Father Flinn in the early days," said Mr. Irvine, "so far did he outstrip them all in the race of life. His works were far-reaching and his personality spread a feeling of warm fellowship among those who knew him."

Bishop R, J, Cooke also spoke at the First Methodist Episcopal church. Samuel Connell, who became acquainted with "Father" Flinn 40 years ago, told of some of the trials and tribulations of the late Methodist minister during the earlier days. He spoke in front of the old Taylor Street church, as did J. D. Lee, who was intimately associated with

Jitney Bus Turns Over; Five Hurt

Flinn during his residence in Portland

Five were hurt, one seriously, when a jitney bus overturned at First and Holladay streets early last evening. Those injured were Mr. and Mrs. T H. Bradshaw and daughter, Hilda, of $23 Williams avenue, Jake Goldle of $87 Alder street, and George Vak, driver of the machine, Goldie's hip was fractured. The others were bruised. The Bradshaws and Mr. Goldie were sent to the Good Samaritan hospital. Vak-was treated at the city emergency hospital. He was afterward arrested by Motorcycle Patrolmen Ervin and Morris on a charge of reckless driving. He was released on $100 bail.

Vak is said to have been driving north on the wrong side of the street and turned abruptly to avoid collision with another car on Holladay avenue. The quick swerve upset the car.
