

EXPOSITION'S CLOSE WILL BE AS NOTABLE AS ITS BEGINNING

Elaborate Plans Have Been Made for Closing Day, December 4.

WILSON TO OFFER TOAST

Solemn Farewell Will Be Drunk to Panama-Pacific International Exposition at High Noon.

San Francisco, Nov. 20.—(P. N. S.)—Saturday, December 4, will be as great a day as was February 20, 1915, in connection with the Panama-Pacific exposition.

But instead of President Wilson pressing the button which set in motion the machinery and opened the greatest exposition ever held in the world, it will be President Charles C. Moore who will press the button which will turn out the lights and close forever San Francisco's Jeweled City.

Then every flag that has waved for 10 glorious months in the soft wind of the Pacific will come down.

Then "taps" will be sounded from the heights of the Tower of Jewels by a corps of buglers stationed there.

To Sing "Auld Lang Syne." Then will the exposition chorus strike up "Auld Lang Syne" in the Court of the Palaces, and the gathered thousands will take up the sad refrain.

A mammoth salvo of sky rockets will burst against the sky. Art Smith the aviator, in letters of fire, will write into the night:

"Farewell, P. P. I. E." The exposition will be closed. The closing ceremonies will end promptly at midnight.

But from sunrise on the closing day, when the national salute of 21 guns will be fired, until Art Smith writes "finis" on the sky, the day will be thronged with events.

Most momentous will be the drinking of the closing toast, when President Wilson has been asked to write with his own pen.

Solemn Toast at High Noon.

The solemn ceremony will be held at high noon, on the stroke of the clock, and not only over the entire exposition grounds, but also in every section of San Francisco, men and women will pause in their headlong life to repeat the words of the executive "Farewell and farewell, Panama-Pacific exposition."

The plans for closing day were practically completed at a meeting at which a citizens' committee conferred with the exposition officials.

There's a Difference But What Can It Be

Oakland Mothers Approve of One Step But Draw the Line at the Rag—Board in Quandary.

Oakland, Cal., Nov. 20.—(P. N. S.)—The aesthetic difference between ragging and one stepping is completely beyond the knowledge of the Oakland school board.

Not one member knows the difference between the two dances, and therefore, when the subject was brought up at its meeting by the Emerson School society leader, the board side-stepped the issue and referred it to R. F. Waeber, principal of the Emerson school, who was recently married, and therefore qualified, the board decided, to police.

The mothers' group of the Emerson school appealed to the board to stop ragging but permit tangling at the school dances which the young folks have been holding recently.

"What is the difference between a rag dance and a one-step?" one of the directors asked.

None of the directors could answer. "One is all right and the other all wrong," the indignant mothers replied.

Alaskan Miner Says Was Badly Swindled

Paid $5000 to Real Estate Concern for Interest in Scheme Which Did Not Mature to His Satisfaction.

San Francisco, Nov. 20.—(P. N. S.)—The San Francisco grand jury has been asked to investigate the complaint of Charles A. Anderson, a Klondike miner, that he was swindled out of $5000 by S. B. Rose in a real estate deal.

According to Anderson, Rose represented that he had entered into an agreement with the John H. Spring company to dispose of the $2,000,000 Thousand Oaks property in Berkeley.

He offered to sell Anderson a one-third interest in the agreement for $5000.

Anderson declares he paid Rose $750 for a one-third interest in his business in this city, and handed over the remainder of the $5000, according to an agreement. He found out later, he declares, that Rose had entered into no agreement with the John H. Spring company.

Not Perturbed by Black Hand Letters

San Francisco Society Leader Threatened With Death If She Does Not Cease Prosecution of Antone Fodera.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 20.—(U. P.)—Mrs. Francis Carolan, society leader, gives no indication that she had been perturbed by the receipt of several "black hand" letters threatening her with death unless she drops all connection with the case of Antone Fodera, arrested in connection with the death of Hector Zapeda.

Zapeda, a Santa Clara university student, was struck and killed by Fodera's automobile. Mrs. Carolan witnessed the accident and caused Fodera's arrest.

The letters were turned over to the San Francisco police.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CLASS

A class in public speaking meets at the First Universalist church Thursdays evenings. Professor Harrington, of Pacific university, is the leader. A goodly number of business and professional men are enrolled. The methods used are scientific and practical; they are full of ginger, and the training will be evident in the improved public speaking of our city.

Forced To Vacate

Big Clothing Store Ousted—"Get Out" Are the Orders--So Into the Street We Go--But a Desperate, Dying Effort Will Be Made to Unload, by This Store in Distress

News Item in Friday's Oregonian:

STORE LEASE IS SIGNED

SAMUEL ROSENBLATT TAKES SPACE FOR STOCK IN YEON BUILDING.

Company Proposes to Have One of the Most Modern Salesrooms on the Coast at Cost of $130,000.

Samuel Rosenblatt yesterday completed arrangements for the leasing for a term of years of the ground floor of the Yeon building, at the corner of Fifth and Alder streets. This place, that will be occupied by the clothing and haberdashery store of Samuel Rosenblatt & Co., is now occupied by Baron-Pulop clothing company and by the Electric Baseball company.

Mr. Rosenblatt intends to close the entrance to the basement and to the stores on Alder street and make the main Alder street entrance to the new store where that to the basement now is.

The new store will be thoroughly modern and workmen will be engaged at once to remodel the interior of the building.

Approximately $10,000 will be spent in the remodeling of the interior, and new fixtures aggregating an outlay of twice that amount, will be installed. Mr. Rosenblatt proposes to make the new store "one of the best clothing houses on the coast." He will carry a $100,000 stock in his new location.

Beside the floor space, the store will use the balcony for reserve stock, advertising rooms, offices and a tailor shop.

J. W. Birrell, advertising manager, announces that the clothing company will be ready to occupy its new quarters by January 1. It is now located temporarily on Morrison between Third and Fourth streets, where it was forced to go after the stock was destroyed by fire in the Allisky building in September.

THE DOORS SWING OPEN TOMORROW (MONDAY) MORNING AT 10 O'CLOCK--T'WILL BE THE MOST WONDERFUL SALE EVER KNOWN

Read! Behold! Then Act!

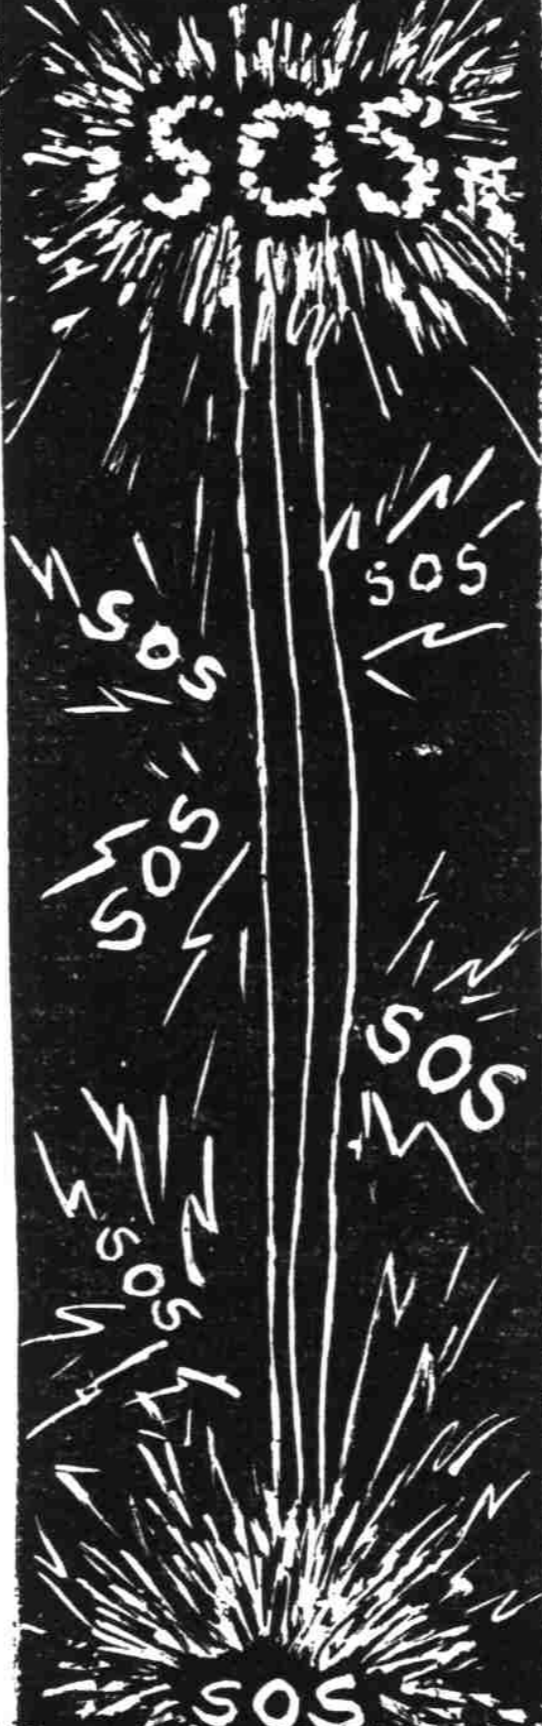

—Listen, Folks—I want to talk to you just a minute or two. I want to tell you a few inside facts about the sale, that tomorrow will be the talk of the town.

—My name is J. V. Roberts. I am the sales manager in charge of this store. For two days now I have seen the owner walk the floor. He had told me he must vacate. Said bills were coming due, and it looked mighty bad for him.

—Yesterday (Saturday) morning at 9 o'clock he came to the store, and said: "Roberts, I haven't slept a wink. I am going back home now, and I place the entire situation in your hands. If you can get me $10,000 for my $30,000 stock by winding up this affair, get it and I don't give a ——— how."

—Now that's the prelude in part, and part of it's here in this ad. We have gone through the stock, and you can believe me, folks, if there ever was a sale, this is one, and if the people don't break in those large plate glass windows of ours tomorrow I'll be surprised.
