HARVARD MASSACRES YALE ELEVEN BEFORE 50,000 SPECTATORS

Crimson Machine Humbles
Blue Aggregation to Score of 41 to 0.

MAHAN IS A BIG FACTOR

Harvard's Captain Winds Up Gridiron
Career in Blaze of Lasting Glory
—Other Stars Shine.

By Fred S. Ferguson.

Boston, Nov. 20.—(U. P.)—A second Boston massacre was staged here today. Harvard cut up the Yale building into 41 separate and distinct pieces, and tonight said cantine is being served with toast to make a Crimson holiday. In front of the old state house here is an old world to mark the occasion marking the spot where the first patriot fell in the British massacre of revolutionary days. But it would take such a flock of wheels to mark pieces where the New Haven patriots fell this afternoon that historical societies would despair of filling the order.

50,000 Spectators Throng Stadium.
More than 50,000 persons jammed and crammed into Harvard's big stadium, Captain Eddie Mahan led his men to a victory over the Blue. It was the worst defeat Yale ever met at the hands of her ancient foe.

Only once during the long stretch of years since the first Yale and Harvard game in 1875 has the victor pined up such an imposing score against the vanquished. That was back in 1885. Yale then did the snake dance about the goal posts. The score that year was 48 to 0, with the Blue in the long end.

Blue Goes Down Fighting.
Today Yale was willing. Grit, determination and luck cried them through against Princeton, but this afternoon they needed something to fight with besides a determined spirit and didn't have it.

Harvard showed everything that Yale did not have—varied attacks and defense and speed. Not until the third period of the game was a single forward pass tried and then Harvard uncorked it. In the early sections the Crimson worked fake kicks formations, double and delayed passes and shifts that bewildered the Blue. Great holes were opened up in the Yale defense by trick formations and the Crimson backs paraded through Yale's ground at a clip which the Blue defense caught flat footed. In the second period Mahan romped through without even lowering his head. He had dropped as though for a try for a field goal and when he reached the line of scrimmage was going so fast it is doubtful if any Yale man ever saw him.

Harte Scores First Touch Down.
The Harte, the Crimson right end, fell the honor of scoring the first touchdown Harvard ever made against Yale in the Harvard Stadium. It was in the first period. Mahan sent a long punt to Bingham. The Yale back fumbled it. Harte was directly under the ball as it walloped down the field and when it popped out of Bingham's hands, the Crimson man grabbed it. He raced away over the 25 yards to the goal and the Crimson scoring was under way. Mahan put over the first touchdown for the period. Then came his 12 yard dash followed by King's touchdown after the most sensational sprint of the game.

Mahan Plays Last Game.
It was Captain Mahan's last game for Harvard and he won a place in the crimson's lasting hall of fame. He scored a total of four touchdowns in the game. He missed kicking goal but once, that being after Harte crossed the line for the first of Harvard's six touchdowns.

There was no Yale luck today. In the middle of the first period the Blue's best bid for scoring was cancelled. Olin Guernsey made a driving tackle of King as the latter went outside on Yale's 10-yard line and both were thrown against the low board eking in front of the Yale stand. Guernsey failed to get up. Time was taken out and the Blue's great kicker was forced to leave the game with an injured right arm.

Yale's Case Hopeless.
From then on Yale had little hope of a score of any sort. In the last period two forward passes and some sterling running by Walts carried the ball to Harvard's six yard line. Then came a penalty of five yards. Harvard held. Neville tried a drop kick. It failed and the last spark died. In the same period Wilson got away on a forward pass and dashed the length of the field over the goal line but Yale was offside on the play. The ball was called back and the cheer that broke from the Yale rooters quickly died.

After being sent in during the second period Scoville played a wonderful game for Yale. He fought every play to the hilt and the line was struggling and fighting on with five or six Harvard men hanging on or clawing at him. Scoville stuck it out but a half dozen Yale men were hustled to the side lines after being flattened out as they hurled themselves against the crimson formations.

Game Ends, Drab Affair.
As the sun died down and a chill wind swept the field the end was awaited only as a matter of how big the score would be. The game became a drab affair. The big crowd that thronged the quarter backs could even be heard calling for signals. Yale couldn't cheer and Harvard evidently didn't have the heart, considering the anguish just across the way. With a pile of 41 stacked today Harvard has scored 112 points against Yale in seven years against 13 registered by the Blue. This covers the period since Yale won

Gophers Grab Conference Title Without Question, While Cornhuskers' Record Looms Large and Heroic.

By J. P. Yoder.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—(U. P.)—Minnesota and Nebraska have the best football teams in the midwest. Every detail of the dope throughout the season shows that the Gophers have grabbed the conference title is certain. The decisive defeat they administered to Wisconsin today displayed a punch at the finish of a hard fought campaign that ranks them well above anything Illinois or Chicago have shown.

Comparative scores, as well as form displayed on the field, is considered in the ranking. The one blight on Minnesota's 1915 eleven was the 6-6 tie at Urbana against Illinois, which some enthusiastic Illinoisans might point to as an argument. It is a poor one, in view of the Illinois-Ohio State 3-3 tie. Where Illinois beat Wisconsin last week, 17 to 3, Minnesota won from the same team, 20 to 3, and last Saturday the Gophers beat Chicago, 29 to 7, against the 10 to 6 win of Illinois from the Maroons today. There is nothing to it but Minnesota is the conference.

Nebraska has gone through the season with victories in every game. Excepting the 20-19 Notre Dame battle, the Cornhuskers won them all by ludicrously large margins. The one real opportunity to compare Nebraska with

OREGON CITY DEFEATED

Mount Angel, Or., Nov. 20.—Mount Angel college met and defeated the Reds of Oregon City in the final game of the season by the score of 20 to 0.

Outweighed 16 pounds to the man and a soggy field, handicapped the speedy Mount Angel eleven considerably. Solner, right half of the collegians, intercepted a forward pass and raced 50 yards for a touchdown. Mount Angel used the forward pass successfully eight times.
