Beauty Chat BY Lillian Russell

Copyright, 1915, by Lillian Russell.
THE joke-mith has for years founded his jests upon the cold feet of married women. With great regularity he has attempted to paint a verbal picture of the shuddering, shivering figure of the lord and mas-ter when his Frau plants her cold feet in the small of his back as soon as the lights are turned down for a night of comfort and sleep.

Why is it, do you suppose, that this mirthful jester never turns the tables to make the worthy Frau the sufferer when a pair of cold masculine pedal extremities are suddenly brought into contact with the warmth of her back? Man is as ready to seek comfort as woman. Perhaps the reason is that more women than men suffer from cold feet.

If we speak in the vernacular of the day, women never have "cold feet." They are always courageous and brave. But a great many women suffer from actually cold feet. There may be a number of reasons for a misfortune that is prevalent in the feminine world. There are at least

Women are prone to emotional rather than physical excesses. They do not take as much exercise as men. This means that their blood does not circulate with equal freedom. Then also women dress their feet in less comfortable and less sensible shoes than men. One of the frequent causes of cold feet is to be forced in shoes that shut off the flow of blood and trap and squeeze the flesh of the feet. Every woman wants her feet to look neat. Many would rather pinch their toes than wear a larger shoe that fits. I fear that some women in picking their shoes choose the smallest that will slip over their feet and consider only looks and not comfort. If there is no space between the toes and feet and the interior of the shoe the result will be cold feet. To shoes then can be attributed many cold feet of the feminine gender.

Of course, some women have cold feet because they suffer from phys-ical disorders. Some overcoat, others are ill or exhausted. Such women must look some place other than the extremities to ascertain the cause of their cold feet. Usually the cause is quite as evident as the symptom and it should be corrected.

Cold feet are much more than an annoyance. They are often indica-tive of a physical disorder which de-mands immediate attention. Cold feet have been so prevalent in Eu-rope's armies that they have been made the subject of investigation by government physicians who trace the cause to kidneys that are not per-forming their functions, poor circula-tion and other disorders.

To provide for warmth, the feet must be kept dry. Feet that profusely perspire are often the coldest. The blood must have a chance to cir-culate and the feet must not be bound and laced to a point where they be-come numb. Hot water bags and mas-sage provide temporary relief. But if the feet are made cold by the shoes, there should be a change in the shoes. And if physical disorders are the cause, those conditions should be rectified.

If you desire to warm your feet get rid of your leather boots and shoes and discard stockings. Place your bare feet in shoes lined with felt. But if cold feet are signals of distress in some other part of the body, heed the caution. It is far better to wear a little larger shoe than to suffer from cold feet and sleepless nights that are detrimental to your health and appearance.
