THE CHILDREN'S HOUR

By Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

DETWEEN the dark and the daylight, When the night is beginning to lower, Comes a pause in the day's occupations That is known as the children's hour.

I hear in the chamber above me The patter of little feet. The sound of a door that is opened, And voices soft and sweet.

A sudden rush from the stairway, A sudden raid from the hall! By three doors left unguarded They enter my castle wall!

They climb up into my turret If I try to escape, they surround me; They seem to be everywhere.

They almost devour me with kisses, Their arms about me entwine Till I think of the Bishop of Bingen

Do you think, O blue-eyed banditti, Because you have scaled the wall, Such an old mustache as I am Is not a match for you all!

And will not let you depart, But put you down into the dungeon In the round-tower of my heart.

And there will I keep you forever, Yes, forever and a day, Till the walls shall crumble to ruin, And moulder in dust away.
