REALTY MEN DISPLAY TALENT AS MINSTRELS AT ANNUAL BANQUET

Noodlebaum's Neutral Noodle House Proves Entertaining Feature.

ARCADIAN GARDENS SCENE

Fred Jacobs Heads Committee on Program and Ad Club Quartet Sings New Compositions.

It was on New Year's eve, 1915, at Noodlebaum's Neutral Noodle house. The midnight bells were ready to toll out the old year and booze from Oregon. The realty folk had gathered for a farewell glass-and to bid goodbye to both the year and what was to go with it.

Such was the scene and playlet plot at the Arcadian Gardens in the Hotel Multnomah where the Portland Realty club enjoyed its annual high jinks, and the 250 members present witness'd an entertainment that will go down in the board's annals as one of the best ever "pulled."

From 8 o'clock until 10, when everybody adjourned to Ye Oregon Grille to furnish the evening the fun was fast and furious under the "Auld Lang Syne" song, dance and local "peppered" the footlights by a medley of pretty girls from the Oregon grille cabaret aided by the Ad Club quartet and amateur talent furnished by the Realty club itself.

Committee Plans Stunts.

The playlet was arranged under the direction of a committee headed by Fred Jacobs and the majority of the songs sung were written by Jack Keating, a member of the board who years ago won fame as the author of "Just One Girl" among others. Keating's songs last night included "Down and Noodlebaum's," "Woodbine Bozo," "We Are With You, Uncle Sammy, to a Man," "With a Kickin' Little Chicken Stickin' on Behind," "Be Sure and Keep Your Tail Log a Burning," and the finale, "We Will All Have to Gather at the River," the chorus of which runs:

"Oh, the New Year's bells will soon be ringing, Miss Booze, goodbye!
Just like Rip Van Winkle we will slumber,
When the town goes dry;
We will all be thirsty in the morning,
But we'll snooze, snooze, snooze,
And we will all have to gather at the river,
Goodbye booze!"

They were sung by the quartet and the Oregon Grille girls and provoked repeated encores.

Charles Ringler Leads Cast.

The cast was led by Charles Ringler, who, as the belligerent Teuton, Heinie Noodlebaum, presided over the destinies of the Neutral Noodle house. Frederick Morsetad, author of a dollar ditty, "What's the Use to Worry When You're Broke" which he sung, took the part of Izzie Cornstone, a street really broke; Paul Cowgill, secretary of the board and its champion heavyweight, appeared on the stage as Henry Ford embarked in search of a steady for "The Chinese waiters, Hop Koo and his cousin Ching Lucy, everyday life are Philip Fay and Archie Turlenoth.

Miss Paget and Mr. Dana danced several graceful numbers and Miss Bonita entertained as a spanish dancer while W. H. Scott recited the "Shooting of Dan McGrew."

Following the high jinks approximately the members of the board attended an elaborate banquet at the Multnomah.

STATION MAN SHOOTS ROBBER AT MULTNOMAH

the first time when the stranger stood before the till. He fired the other shots as the man turned and began shooting. The robber stumbled towards the door leading into the substation adjoining.

Stewart, who is the regular night operator for the company, was seated at his instruments when the brick was hurled through the window a few feet from his desk. Realizing that a holdup was being attempted, Stewart ran from the room through the substation to his home and secured his revolver. When he returned a few seconds later the stranger was in the station agent's room.

Robber Had Opened Till.

According to the story told by Stewart and by W. W. Merwin, the ticket and day agent for the railway company, the man had opened the till and was in the act of taking money from it. Stewart fired at the man, and it is believed that the bullet struck in the right arm.

Then the stranger turned from the counter and started to run toward another door to the substation. As he ran Stewart fired three other shots before the man got out of sight. By this time Merwin, who slept in Stewart's home, was awakened. He ran to Stewart's assistance, and the two of them found the stranger lying on the ground about 20 feet away from the sub-station.

The suspected burglar was carried into the station, and there it was found that he had a gun. He was placed on an Oregon Electric train coming through Multnomah station shortly after 4 o'clock and brought to Portland, and then taken to the Good Samaritan hospital, where he was operated on by City Physician Ziegler.

The stranger is about 28 years old. He has light brown hair and is slightly bald. He has quite a prominent nose and light blue eyes.

Two handcuff keys, four pocket knives and some trinkets were found in his pockets.

Two detectives went to the hospital at noon to attempt to identify him, but they could not remember having seen him before.

Deputy Sheriffs Investigate.

Deputy Sheriffs Phillips and Beckman investigated the robbery and shooting and found that the station at Garden Home was robbed of six cents and the station at Stanton was robbed. They could not learn whether anything had been taken at the latter place.

A report that the robber had a "pal" in a buggy, who escaped, was found to be without foundation as it was learned the supposed "pal" was a milkman who drove along at the time.

After being shot, the robber ran out through the dynamo room of the station, ran about 100 feet north and 50 feet west, falling by a lumber pile behind the station where he was heard to say: "They've got me."

Throws Shells Away When Down.

After he had fallen the man, using his left hand while it was uninjured, broke open his revolver and threw away the shells it contained. Shells were found in his purse which fit the gun. In his purse were also found two keys for handcuffs, and in his pockets were a few three cornered files, four new pocket knives, two candle ends and other articles usually carried by "yeggs."

A notebook contained the name of Dr. S. M. Hamby, a Portland dentist, and Deputy District Attorney Murphy and Deputy Sheriff Christoffersen took Dr. Hamby to the hospital. Dr. Hamby could not identify the man, who said that he had been given the name by a friend whom he refused to name. He said he intended to have Dr. Hamby fix his teeth but had no money and admitted that he had been staying in Portland for several weeks for dental work.

Says He Is Not Afraid to Die.

The man refused to give a name or the name of his mother, saying he had been away from home for years and that his mother probably thought him dead. He said his brother and sister were people of good standing and he did not want to disgrace them. He mumbled Murphy to task later but said he had lived death several times and was not afraid to die.

Mrs. Stewart, wife of the man who shot him, called at the hospital and talked with him. She asked if she could stole to help some member of society ily and begged the man tell her to whom she could send word of his Priest promising to keep the information to herself if such request were refused any information.

At Least.

NO DANGER TROUBLE, AVERS COUNT TISZA, IF U. S. KEEPS COOL

Sheer Nonsense to Think of Rupture Brewing on Account of Sinking Vessel.

TO NAME AN AMBASSADOR

Expresses Surprise at Sternness American Note, But Will Not Provoke Quarrel Between Nations.

German Paper Arrogant.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 21.—(U. P. S.)—The suppression of the Lokal Anzeiger was due to the publication of an article dealing with the American note to Austria. The article was extremely arrogant in tone stating that Germany very soon would settle such questions with America.

By Carl W. Ackerman.

BERLIN, Dec. 21.—(U. P.)—There will be no quarrel between Austria and the United States if Washington keeps cool.

Count Stephen Tisza, who next to Emperor Franz Josef, is Austria's strongest man, gave this assurance to the United Press in an interview at Budapest in the course of my week's visit to Austria and Hungary to ascertain sentiment concerning the American Ancona note.

"To think of trouble between Austria and the United States, is sheer nonsense," said the count, who had just conferred with the emperor at Vienna over the Ancona situation.

Austria Wants No Quarrel.

"I must confess, though, that we were greatly surprised to receive the American note.

"But it is far from our intention to get into any quarrel with America. Perhaps I shouldn't say quarrel, because I know it wouldn't be that, but of course, matters do not depend on us entirely.

"There is no reason for trouble over the Ancona case. It must be settled satisfactorily, not only from the American standpoint but also from our own. The only way to reach a satisfactory is through correspondence, which will suggest the means."

Selecting Dumba's Successor.

Further indications that Austria does not contemplate a break came from Tisza's statement that Austria is now studying the question of selecting a successor to the recalled Ambassador Dumba. Moreover, American Ambassador Penfield pointed out this at Vienna when he said that twice on the day that the Ancona reply was sent to Washington Foreign Minister Burian asked America to use her good offices to obtain concessions for Austria in belligerent countries.

Consul General Coffin at Budapest, who daily meets the Hungarian ministers, said that the cordiality of their relations had not been interrupted by the note. Coffin believes the dual monarchy does not desire a break and will protest one.

Object to United States' Manner.

From persons outside of official circles came the statement that the Ancona note was not objected to because it was a demand for disavowal, as it is to Washington's manner in the case.

It was suggested to Tisza that the Vienna visit is surprised at the manner of the aged Emperor Franz Josef's daily conferences.

"The world has quite a false impression of him," the count replied. "He awakes at 4 every morning and works until 8 every night like a clock. He knows every detail of foreign and military affairs. He has retained his strength of mind, and proves only he is one of the strongest men in the monarchy."

Military Outlook Good.

The count characterized the military situation as more than satisfactory.

"It speaks for itself," he said. "The latest are unable to advance and we hold positions which we chose as our first lines, and really did not expect to hold. The Italians were late in starting, and we were able to improve our defenses.

From Tisza's windows, overlooking the Danube, I could see Bulgarian ships arriving with foodstuffs—the result of the Serbian campaign. Tisza himself is busy with food distribution problems.

"The situation was worse this year," he continued. "Today it is not alarming, of course we have to be sparing of some things and it may be rather hard on the people, but we will be able to overcome difficulties."

American Note Forwarded.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(U. P.)—Ambassador Sharp at Berne, Switzerland, today advised the state department that the American note to the Austria sinking was forwarded to Vienna via Berne Monday.

It is thought that Ambassador Penfield will deliver the note to Austrian Foreign Minister Burian this afternoon or tomorrow. Anti-American feeling in Vienna is reported lessening and no further demonstrations have occurred.

Short Shrift for Robbers.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 21.—(U. P.)—Two bullet-riddled bodies swing from crosses today at Bastinan, near here, according to a dispatch received by Jose Angeles from Tampico. Both bodies were reported to have confessed that they robbed and killed A. M. Batchelder Sunday.

Out of the Mouths of Babes.

Little Elsie entered the parlor one morning, and her quick eye discovered that the slip coverings had been removed from the furniture.

"Oh, mamma!" she exclaimed, "Santa Claus has taken the nighties off the chairs."

Dairyman to Start New Dairy Soon

For five years Werner Weissenfluh operated a dairy at Fairview in partnership and recently he decided to go into business alone. With his capital stowed safely away in the bank he started out to find the kind of farm he wanted and discovered it was not a particularly easy job.

Then he bethought himself of a less tedious and time consuming method—The Journal want ad columns.

In the ad he stated that he wanted between 100 and 200 acres, part bottom and part high land for a dairy and that the farm must have good buildings and plenty of water.

There are a number of farm sites filling such description in western Oregon and those for sale were immediately brought to Weissenfluh's attention, and he was given a wide choice. The ad did it—that is what The Journal's classified do many times daily—bring results.
