

RAINIER CLUB, ONE OF SEATTLE'S FINEST, IS RAIDED BY SHERIFF

Officers Find More Than 400 Quarts of High Grade Liquor in Lockers.

JUDGE HELPED ON JOB

Wet Goods Apparently Was Not Property of the Association as an Organization, but of Individuals.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 18.—The fashionable and exclusive Rainier club in the heart of the city where former President Taft, President Wilson and scores of men of national prominence have been guests, was raided late Monday by a squad of deputy sheriffs, who searched every room, seizing more than 400 quarts of rare whiskey, gin and other intoxicating liquors.

The room of a former president of the club yielded four demijohns of whiskey, a case of champagne, one dozen quarts of gin and one case of beer.

Sheriff Ordway said that $20,000 worth of liquor was stored in the club and ordered the raid.

The raid was conducted under a search warrant, issued out of Justice Robert W. Brinker's court on complaint of Deputy Malone. Malone, accompanied by deputy sheriffs, visited the clubhouse at the corner of Fourth avenue and Marion street, and after stationing men at the entrances began to go through the establishment from top to bottom.

Judge A. V. Brown, president of the club, arrived at the clubhouse while the search was in progress and accompanied the deputies, giving them every assistance possible. Judge Brown expressed himself as amazed at the discovery of the storage room on the fourth floor.

Its existence, he said, was entirely unknown to the officers. He had no idea of whom the liquor belonged.

The deputies assume that it was the property of a number of members who had each brought his own liquor to the club house and that the room had then been used as a storage room.

No liquor whatever was found in the basement of the clubhouse, where the club wine cellar was located previous to the going into effect of the prohibition law.

Nor was anything found to indicate that the club as an organization had any liquor in its possession, that seized being apparently the property of individual members.

The hearing on the confiscation of the liquor will come up in Justice Brinker's court in a week, when prosecuting Attorney Ludin will determine whether he will prosecute the officers and members of the club.

BYRON S. WAFFLE WAS PENDLETON PIONEER

Byron S. Waffle.

Pendleton, Or., Jan. 17.—Byron S. Waffle, pioneer merchant and drayman of Pendleton, died Friday of old age and the grip. He was 74 years old. He was born in Herkimer county, New York, November 14, 1841. In 1861 he moved to Wisconsin and engaged in farming. Ten years later he married Miss Donna J. Wheeler in that state. He served three years in the civil war with the twenty-third Wisconsin volunteers. He came to Pendleton with his family in April, 1866, and engaged in the grocery business. In 1893 he became janitor at the court house and later began a draying business, introducing the first low bed dray ever seen in Pendleton. Mr. Waffle continued in this business to his death, though in late years his oldest son only assisted him. He is survived by a widow and four children, Derward B. Waffle and Mrs. Ida Fowler of this city, Fred F. Waffle of Portland, and Dr. Eldred B. Waffle of Astoria. He was buried in the Masonic order, of which he had been a member for 35 years.

BAPTIST MISSIONARY OF EARLY DAYS WILL BE BURIED AT EUGENE

The Rev. J. C. Richardson Worked in Many Parts of Oregon; Came in 1846.

Eugene, Or., Jan. 17.—Rev. J. C. Richardson, 83 years of age, who died in Salem Saturday, will be buried tomorrow in the cemetery near Eugene, his home for many years.

Rev. Mr. Richardson was one of earliest Baptist missionaries to this coast, having crossed the plains in 1846. Although he traveled all over Oregon in those days, his chief field of labor was in the southern portion of the Willamette valley and in the Umpqua valley. He was considered in those days one of the best evangelists of Baptist denomination on this coast. He and Rev. J. W. Osborne were the first missionaries of the early convention. While Rev. Richardson had no more than a common school education, he was one of the most forceful speakers of the old time school of ministers.

E. C. Comstock Is Injured. Eugene C. Comstock, president of the Portland Fence & Iron Works, was knocked unconscious when he fell from a Portland Heights street car at Fifth and Washington streets last night. He regained consciousness shortly and was taken to his home, 636 Sherwood Drive, by the Ambulance Service company. His injuries consisted of bruises and a cut on the head.

Fear for Elk Herd

Eugene, Or., Jan. 18.—The largest herd of elk in the state numbering between 60 and 75, are threatened with extermination, according to E. C. Hills, deputy state game warden, of this city. He returned today from a visit to the Box canyon country in the Cascade mountains, 60 miles southeast of Eugene, where the elk usually stay in the winter.

CANTINE RECOMMENDS GREAT DEAL OF NEW HIGHWAY LEGISLATION

Annual Report of the Deputy State Engineer in Charge of Roads Is Made Public.

STANDARDIZE, HE URGES

State Bond Issue Is Requested to Meet the Cost of Carrying Out Extensive Road Program.

Salem, Or., Jan. 18.—In his annual report, which was made public Monday, E. I. Cantine, deputy state engineer, who has been head of the highway department for several months, recommends that legislation be enacted for the classification of traffic roads shall be expected to carry and providing for the adoption of standard unit stresses and live loads for steel, concrete and wooden bridges, corresponding to the various classes of roads.

Uniform Designs Desired. He also recommends that it shall be made mandatory that all bridges costing $500 or more shall be designed in accordance with state standards; that the plans and specifications shall be approved by the engineer of the state highway commission; that a copy of plans and specifications and contracts shall be filed and made a part of the public records of the highway engineer and that before a settlement shall be made with a contractor a certificate shall be obtained from the engineer of the highway commission setting forth that the bridge has been built according to contract.

It is recommended that a statute be enacted providing for periodical inspection of all bridges in the state by the engineer of the highway commission, in company with a representative of the county courts, the compilation of data in relation to each bridge and the furnishing of such data to the county court.

Change Gets Results. Good results have been obtained through an order issued that all accounts for payments from state funds and also from funds furnished by the various counties, should be prepared in the central office, instead of by field employes, the report says.

Cantine suggests that legislation be enacted authorizing the commission to lay out highways and to secure rights of way by deed, gift, purchase or condemnation and to authorize the commission to arrange with counties for the maintenance of such roads until such time as a state maintenance program is adopted.

Highways Location Work. When locating parties have completed their work under the law in Douglas, Wasco and Sherman counties, the Columbia river highway will have been located from Seaside to Wasco and the Pacific highway will have been surveyed from Portland to the California line with the exception of a section of Josephine county over Wolf mountain and Sexton mountain, where additional surveys will be required to lay out a five per cent grade.

Cantine recommends a state bond issue to meet the cost of permanent improvements in carrying out an extensive road program, this bond issue to defray the cost of engineering, right of way grading, including drainage, and permanent bridges. A portion of the bond issue should be used, he says, to reimburse counties that have assumed large indebtedness for permanent road construction, the reimbursement to be used for additional road construction or hard surfacing as approved by the state highway commission. He suggests an additional tax levy for the purpose of hard surfacing, maintaining state roads and redeeming the bond issue.

Financial Statement. The financial statement for November 29, 1915, to November 29, 1915, showed $477,355.42 in receipts and $417,017.60 expended, leaving a balance of $60,347.82 on hand December 1.

Marshfield's Wire Service Is Impaired

Falling Trees and Storms Result in Severing of Wires in Mountains Between Myrtle Point and Roseburg.

Marshfield, Or., Jan. 18.—Linenmen returning from work between Myrtle Point and Roseburg on the line of the Pacific States telephone company, report great difficulties in the mountains. Snow was very deep and at one point 40 trees had fallen over the wires. No sooner than repairs were made more breaks would come in. Linemen sent out from this end met a party from Roseburg which had been working 10 days in an effort to keep the line up. Most of the trees have been blown down and it is believed now the long distance line and Western Union can be maintained. Mud is so deep in the stage road that mail wagons sink down to the wagon bed. Mail is being taken through on horseback with great difficulties and only by transferring in short relays.

Men and horses are being exhausted in making the short trips.

Hardware Store Destroyed
