Resignation Follows Making of Charges

Colonel Clark Gives Up Command of American Legion of Canadian Forces; Fourth Canadian Division Offered.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 21.—(I. N. S.)—General Sir Samuel Hughes, minister of militia, has announced the resignation of Colonel Clark as commanding officer of the American legion in the Canadian expeditionary forces.

The resignation had been demanded by the American club of Toronto and financial irregularities had been charged. Major Perry has been appointed to succeed Colonel Clark.

Eight hundred native born Americans now residents of Canada have enlisted in the legion, but recruiting has dwindled owing to the controversy which raged around Colonel Clark. Two hundred more men are required to complete the strength of the battalion.

Sir Robert Borden announced he had sent to the imperial authorities the offer of a fourth Canadian division for service at the front. This would make about 80,000 men, two complete army corps, on the firing line.

The action was made possible by the prospect of a satisfactory response to the call for half a million men. Twenty thousand fresh troops are to be sent to England immediately as reinforcements, making the total force of Canadians in Europe 140,000 men.

With Cashier Locked Up Bandit Robs Bank

Masked Highwayman at Noon Forces Cashier Into Vault; Escapes With $500 From Culver City Bank.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 21.—(U. P.)—A lone masked bandit walked into the Culver City Commercial & Savings Bank at noon today, thrust a gun under the nose of Cashier E. G. McHughes, compelled him to walk into the vault, locked him in and made off with $500.

The imprisoned man was not released until half an hour later, when W. M. Bowen, assistant cashier, came into the building. A sheriff's posse left at once for the scene.

Hint of Invasion Is Seen in Nish Speech

Kaiser's Address Is Believed to Point to Beginning Soon of Reported Teutonic Invasion of Egypt.

Amsterdam, Jan. 21.—(U. P.)—With Kaiser Wilhelm returning from Belgrade, officials saw today in his address at Nish a hint that the reported Turko-German invasion of Egypt is about to begin.

"We have been challenged by our enemies, who have envied the peaceful, flourishing prosperity of Germany," he said. "In a light-hearted manner, they have endangered the development of Europe in order to strike at us. We have had a hard fight, which will soon be spread to other fields."

President and Bride Take Yachting Trip

Washington, Jan. 21.—(I. N. S.)—President Woodrow Wilson and his bride will leave tonight on board the yacht Mayflower for a cruise up the Potomac river and Chesapeake bay. They will be gone two days. The president, according to Presidential Secretary Tumulty, will map out plans for his speaking trip in the middle west while he is away.

Deficiency Bill Passed.

Washington, Jan. 21.—(U. P.)—The $12,000,000 urgent deficiency bill passed the house this afternoon with the $2,000,000 appropriation for the Alaskan railroad and the $300,000 to fight citrus canker included.

Light in Places Emphasized by the War

Enos and Artois Both Famed in History

From the National Geographical Society.

The rocky ridge of Enos, where the allies landed troops, is a back door way to the ancient Horn. It lies about 155 miles west of Constantinople, upon the Gulf of Enos, in the northeast Aegean sea. Thirty miles away is the northern shore of the Gallipoli peninsula, around which the allied fleet has been conducting operations for months.

Enos, insignificant, built on a rock ledge, and surrounded by broad marshes, becomes of unusual interest to the world in its new character as a base of land operations against the physical heart of the Ottoman empire. The respectable antiquity of the town is attested by mention in Homer's Iliad. Formerly, Enos was a trading port of some importance, but it has lately lost much of its export to the adjacent seaport of Dedeagatch. The city's harbor is roomy and well formed, but so neglected that it is too shallow for the larger sea going vessels. Its export which it retains today is due to its position on the Maritza river, the great water highway from Adrianople, 80 miles inland, to the sea.

The population of Enos is largely Greek seafarers, commission dealers and merchants. It numbered in 1905 about 8000. Its climate is supposed to be very unhealthy, malaria and swamp-damp being as great obstacles to the city's commercial growth as the drifting sand bars that have filled its harbor. The first part of the way from Enos toward Constantinople is through a level country, but the broken, mountainous regions begin long before the Bosphorus is reached.

The Artois, the region mentioned frequently in the dispatches as that where the heaviest fighting in northern France is taking place, includes the territory of an ancient province of France and corresponds to the present department of Pas de Calais, minus the arondissements of Montreuil and Boulogne.

The Artois is a rich, well watered country, dotted with industrial towns, but chiefly known as a pasture and farm land. Its larger farms produce an abundance of grain and hops, while the smaller holdings grow great quantities of the fancy vegetables for which France is famed above every other land with the exception of Belgium. The capital of the old province was Arras, the name being a corruption of "Artois." Among the important towns in the region are Bethune, Aire, Bapaume, Lillers, Saint-Pol and Hesdin. The great battle of Agincourt, between the French and English, was fought here on October 25, 1415.

The Counts of Flanders ruled the Artois from the ninth to the twelfth century. In 1180 the land was bestowed upon the king of France, Philip Augustus, as the dowry of his bride, Isabella of Hainaut. In the fourteenth century, Artois passed to the house of Burgundy, and a marriage of a daughter of this house to the Archduke Maxmillian brought it under the banner of the Hapsburgs. The French contested the claims of the Austrians, and finally conquered the province from Spain, to which it had fallen in 1634, in 1659. The province has since remained in the possession of the French.

Peace Delegates Are To Cross Germany

Consent Secured for Ford Delegates at The Hague to Return Overland to Stockholm in Sealed Cars.

New York, Jan. 21.—(U. P.)—The Ford press bureau announced today that the few Ford delegates remaining at The Hague with the intention of later establishing a permanent peace tribunal have finally gained the consent of Germany to cross that country to reach Stockholm. As in the first crossing they will journey in a sealed car. They were scheduled to leave The Hague at noon.

James Foss, Civil War Veteran, Dies

James S. Foss, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Robert S. Coe, 611 Mulberry street, January 20, was a native of Maine and served in company G, Twelfth Maine volunteer infantry, during the Civil war, and was a member of the George Wright G. A. R. post of this city.

He was 67 years of age, and had lived in this city for over 30 years. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Coe, and two granddaughters. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. from the Lerch funeral parlors, East Eleventh and Clay streets.

To Get Coal for Greece.

London, Jan. 21.—(I. N. S.)—"The British minister had a long interview with the Greek foreign minister," says a Daily News dispatch from Athens, "and it is said the allies have given assurances to Greece which will prevent a shortage."

(This probably refers to the reported coal famine in Greece). They will also, the dispatch continues, "do everything possible to improve the situation of the Hellenic army in eastern Macedonia."

Negro Is Unshaken On Material Points

Chauffeur Quits Stand Clinging to the Story That Mrs. Mohr Offered Him $5000 to Murder Her Husband.

Providence, R. I., Jan. 21.—(U. P.)—With his testimony unshaken in material points, George Healis, negro chauffeur, left the stand today shortly before noon in the trial of Mrs. C. Franklin Mohr, charged together with two negroes, with the killing of her doctor husband. Healis clung to his statement that she had offered $5000 for the murder.

Healis probably will not be sentenced under his nolo contendere plea for manslaughter until the main murder trial is ended.

Mrs. Mohr appeare nervous again today, though she evidently was less concerned over Healis' statements than she had been previously.

Occasionally she eyed him severely, but for the most part she talked with her attorneys.

British Exchange Is Climbing Again

Rapid Rise of Exchange Rates Results From Dumping of American Securities Held by the English.

New York, Jan. 21.—(U. P.)—England has thrown a damper on America's hopes for maintaining leadership in the financial world.

Wall street believed today England "put one over" on the United States, inasmuch as the Sterling exchage rate, recently down to an alarmingly low level, is now steadily rising.

This rise followed England's action in pouring $20,000,000 worth of American securities into the street, after she had obtained the allied $500,000,000 loan here, though it had been understood that when Great Britain ordered mobilization of securities, they would not be unloaded here.

Sterling was quited today at $4.76¾, whereas at one time it was down to $4.50.

Excess Weight Bars "Freshy" From Drill

Portions of His Anatomy Prevented Others From Keeping in Line, But Poundage Was Asset in Election.

Berkeley, Cal., Jan. 21.—(P. N. S.)—E. S. Ward of Oroville, freshman at the University of California, has been excused from duty as a cadet because his 350 pounds avoirdupois doesn't "dress." When the company tried to execute the military movement to either right or left, Ward obscured the view.

His weight carried the class election, however, and the Oroville student has been installed as president after a three-cornered fight.

"More men on the railroad payroll in La Grande today than ever before in the history of the city," says the Observer.

Two More Teuton Cardinals Planned

Pope to Hold Consistory in March. Understood to Be Another Peace Step; Bavaria to Be Represented.

Rome, Jan. 21.—(U. P.)—Vital importance was attached today to the announcement that the pope will hold another consistory in March.

This is understood to be another step in the pontiff's peace program, though ostensibly it is for the purpose of conferring the red hat upon Monsignors Scapinelli of Vienna and Fruhwirth of Munich.

The Pope, it is believed, desires to inform himself about the conditions and possibilities for peace in Vienna and Bavaria. His action in having representatives from these two points continues his plan of conferring with cardinals from the warring countries in the hope that from these sessions may develop a tentative peace program.

Diplomats of the allied nations view with concern the creation of these two new cardinals, because of increasing the Austro-German representation in the Vatican.

A Gentleman's Rebuke.

Josephus Daniels was discussing a courteous retort.

"A learned scientist was attending a dinner, and, as cigars were being indulged in, one of the guests began to deride philosophy. He went on rudely to express the opinion that philosopher was but another way of spelling fool.

"'What is your opinion, professor?' he asked, smilingly. 'Is there much distance between them?'

"The professor keenly surveyed his boorish vis-a-vis for a moment, then, with a polite bow, responded:

"'Sometimes only the width of a table.'"
