FRATERNAL NOTES

Multnomah Camp to Spend Money for Improvements.
Big and Rich Multnomah.

Multnomah camp, Woodmen of the World, has begun the work of enlarging and improving its home at East Sixth and East Alder streets. It is expected that the improvements will cost at least $3000 before completed and equipped. There will be four bowling alleys, three billiard tables, two pool tables, a well furnished reading room, and a smoking room added to the large hall and banquet hall now in use. Multnomah camp has over 3100 members and over $25,000 in its own treasury, claims to be the largest single fraternal lodge in Oregon, the largest camp in the Pacific jurisdiction, and the richest. Its remarkable success dates from the time over 20 years ago when it began to build on its present site, and to receive rents instead of paying them.

Well Attended Session.
Webfoot camp, Woodmen of the World, Friday night was surprised by the visit of 250 members of the Multnomah camp. The big east side camp adjourned early and surprised the big west side camp in the act of initiating 12 candidates. The work of initiation was continued with a hall packed to the seating capacity and allow any room for degree work. The Webfoot degree team, under Captain P. McCall, with J. H. Ponnay, consul commander, Nate Caster, advisor and William Reid, acting past consul, surprised the Multnomah neighbors with the excellence of their work. The degree team of Multnomah camp, under command of Captain Harry Cooley, was received by the degree team of Webfoot with full honors. After the ceremonies several speeches were made by leading fraternalists of the two camps. Webfoot camp now has 1816 members, with 46 certificates waiting to be taken up.

Foresters of America Campaign.
Last Friday night delegates from nine different local courts of the Foresters of America met at their hall, 29 Fourth street, and elected I. Jacobs, of Court Multnomah, president, and James Baine Jr., secretary of a special campaign committee which will work with the executive committee of the grand court and endeavor to secure a revival of interest and a thousand new members for the order in Portland.

Kirkpatrick Council Social.
Moore hall was crowded to the limit on Friday night last, when Kirkpatrick council, Knights and Ladies of Security, opened its doors to all visitors and friends and gave a card party and dance. The superbly uniformed members, with of the lodge under Captain John Bellman put on an original and difficult series of evolutions with eight women and eight men that won round after round of applause from the spectators.

F. of A. Annual Dance.
Court Multnomah, Foresters of America, will give its annual dance on the night of Wednesday, February 2, at W. O. W. hall, No. 128 Eleventh street. The committee in charge is H. S. Aaron, I. Jacobs, H. Carp, J. Rusensky and M. Goldstein.

Was Enjoyed.
The social and dance of Clan Macleay, Scottish Clans, and its auxiliary, given in K. of P. hall last Friday night, was a merry success. After dancing a supper was served in the banquet room.

Kassala Gives Initiation.
Hassala lodge, I. O. O. F., on Friday night put on the initiatory degree with the aid of officers and teams. The work was given in the most impressive manner, in the presence of a large number of visitors and members.

Elks Band to Give Dance.
The Elks band will give an informal benefit dance on the night of Tuesday, February 8, to which members and friends are invited.

A New Council at Beaverton.
Mrs. F. M. Saltmarsh, district secretary, visited Cottage Grove last Wednesday and made an arrangement with the new council there to start a campaign right away to double the mem-hood, which is the one playtime of a woman's life. And if she misses that, she goes through the world unsatisfied, hunting it.

If you will notice, you will see that the middle-aged women who are mad about pleasure, who can never get enough dancing and running around to restaurants, and who are making eyes at every man they meet, are almost invariably women who married when they were young.

Danger in Waiting Too Long.
The women who waited to marry until they had had their fill of amusements and beaux are glad enough to settle down quietly at home, and the love and admiration of their husbands satisfy them.

On the other hand, if a woman waits to marry until she is well in the thirties, she loses the pliability of youth, and finds it harder to adapt herself to her husband's ways. Also she has gotten the habit of independence, and is accustomed to live her own life in her own way, and this makes for personal selfishness, which doesn't add to the peace and harmony of the family circle.

All of these reasons make it seem to me that 25 is the ideal age for a girl to marry. Then she is old enough to know her own mind, but not too old to change it. She is still romantic, but not foolish, and she is ready to enter upon the business of life with a clear head and a strong heart. I intend to marry when I am 25 provided, of course, Mr. Right comes along then.

Are Hips Going to Slump?

By Mme. Qui Vive.

(Copyright, 1915, by J. Keeley.)
Is the hip hoop going to slump? That is the question of the moment. Certainly, it is dropping slightly. From its supposedly proper line directly at the hip it has gone down now almost to the knee. There is a chance that it will continue until the hips are small again, and the hoop goes whooping around the hem. The first idea of the hip extension was to hold away from the body the flimsy, transparent silks of yore, as to display the drop skirt with its glistening and decorative bands of silver or gold lace. The effect was piquant, but stinky, and suggestive of apoplexy at the sight. The idea was born in the lamp shade tunic designed by Bakst for the Russian ballet and afterwards adapted by Dore for the general trade.

If mid-season styles change at all, they will probably be a return to draperies. Individuals who are authorities claim that the snug waist, the narrow shoulders and the extreme full hips are only for the time being. Therefore they cannot ever be decidedly popular. The accepted style must be suitable for all figures.

What Is Right Age to Be Married?

By Anita Stewart.

(Copyright, 1915, International News Service.)
At what age should a girl marry? That question that we girls discuss a lot in the long hours in the studio when we are waiting our cue to go on in the picture. And it's a question that girls discuss a lot everywhere, for every woman either married, or is going to be married, or hopes to be married.

Some of the girls think it is just terribly romantic to be married when they are very young, while others think that a woman should put off marrying a long, long time. If the longer you put it off, the better off you will be, some say, eyed, and these days in hygiene and general house sense to make themselves uncomfortable. As large waist was as exaggerated as has been the smallest in the one that is merely trim.

HINTS FOR WOMEN

The fur collar which conceals the ears is still very smart, although the shawl collar is also worn by the well dressed.

There is economy in the present vogue of chiffon gowns. One may have two or three dresses designed to be worn under a single coat.

Charming and inexpensive are the evening frocks made of white and a colored tulle. The skirt is very simple, being a full white skirt with the full overskirt of colored tulle.

A novel and becoming way to trim a child's straight dress is to pretend to button it straight down both sides, from shoulder to bottom of hem, and set buttons close together with imitation buttonholes made of braid.

Sleeves are an interesting feature of the gown, and there are sleeves pointed, sleeves which fit closely at the wrist and flare to the top, full sleeves rather small at the top and full at the bottom; and some of the newest sleeves are puffed at the top, fitting the arm to the wrist, then they spread into a flaring ruffle.

FOUR GENERATIONS HERE

Four generations are here represented. Below is Mrs. R. U. Baldwin of Elma, Wash., holding her great-granddaughter, Evelyn Ogilvie. Above are Mrs. Baldwin's granddaughter, Mrs. Walter Ogilvie, and the latter's mother, Mrs. Fred Patterson, both of Portland. Mrs. Baldwin is a descendant of Washington Irving, while Mrs. Ogilvie is descended also from Daniel Boone on her paternal side.

Cause of Typhus Fever Is Laid To Bodily Filth By Medical Man

Greatest Permanent Advances in Sanitation Have Been Made in Fights Against Some Fierce Pestilence Says an Authority.

By Woods Hutchinson.
Former Portland Physician and Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects.
It's an ill wind that blows nobody any good.
Our greatest permanent advances in sanitation have been made in the fight against some fierce epidemic of pestilence, and even the savage whirlwind and hurricane of war may be followed by healing showers.

Recent dispatches from Mexico announce that General Carranza finds that one of the dragons in his path is our ancient and indomitable enemy, typhus fever.

There is nothing surprising about this, because up to about 50 years ago this disease was as common as pneumonia is today all over the civilized world.

How common may be judged by two significant facts, one that our common and still disgracefully prevalent typhoid is a namesake of the older disease, its name being derived from it by the simple process of adding the Greek suffix "oid," meaning "like," and when first separated by Murchison was regarded as a variety of typhus.

The other that there is in one European hospital, that of Edinburgh, a memorial tablet erected about the middle of the last century commemorating the death in discharge of their duty of 45 doctors, nurses and other members of the hospital staff within the last 30 years by typhus alone!

The disappearance of typhus from Western Europe has been so sudden and complete as to have something almost uncanny about it.

enough material for proper investigation by laboratory methods.

To do this we had to equip expeditions and pursue it into tropical regions where it still held out, among them, Mexico, where we have just heard from it again.

In fact, we are entitled to take a national pride in this discovery, since it was chiefly due to the work of American scientists, Dr. Ricketts, of the University of Chicago, and Dr. Goldberger and Anderson, of the United States marine hospital service. All of them risked their lives in the service of humanity, as the disease is frightfully contagious to all who come in contact with its carriers, and Dr. Ricketts, also, actually laid down dying from the bite of an infected insect only a few weeks after he had announced his discovery of the cause of the fever, thus literally, in the language of the earlier martyrs "sowing his testimony with his blood."

The thing that the soldiers in the trenches on both sides complain of most bitterly is not the shells, nor the bayonet attacks of the enemy, but, first, the mud, and, second, the swarms of vermin which infest them. The reason is plain, trench fighting, in other words, trench warfare, means that the soldiers on the first line are compelled to stand and fire or crouch down and sleep day and night for five days, ten days, two or three weeks at a stretch, without a single opportunity of changing their clothing or getting a decent wash.

Even when they are laid off for their term in reserve to sleep and wash and clean up; washing of their clothing is extremely difficult, because the display of it in drying will instantly catch the eye of hostile air scouts and draw a shower of shells.

The result is that all imaginable vermin riot through the trenches as they did in the dark ages.

And as a natural, logical consequence of the months of the declaration of war typhus had broken out furiously along the southern parts of the eastern front, raged all through Serbia and Austria and even made several outbreaks in the German camps.

Although, for the most part, the superb sanitary service of the medical corps of the northern armistice both in Germany and in their ranks or stamped it out promptly when it did appear.

NATIONAL GUARD NOTES
Junior Boys Expect to Be Instructed and Enjoy an Outing.
Like to Last Five Days.

The Oregon Junior National Guard expects to hold a "hike" for five days beginning Easter Sunday. They will camp near the U. S. Post at Vancouver and expect to be drilled and instructed by some of the officers of the post. There are two companies of the boys with a battalion formation, commanded by Major H. B. Miller. In Company B there are seven vacancies in the ranks of the non-commissioned officers to be filled. Boys of from 13 to 17 are accepted whether experienced or not.

C Company Meets.
The members of C Company, Third Regiment, held their annual meeting at the Army last Thursday night. Corporal R. De V. Morse was re-elected treasurer, which is the post of danger and responsibility. Sergeant E. Collins and Private Otto Miner and Fisher were elected on the council of administration.

Return From Corvallis.
Adjutant-General George A. White, Colonel Cleland McLaughlin, Major L. H. Knapp and Lieutenant K. E. Williams returned yesterday from Corvallis, where on Friday night a military tournament was given by members of Company K, Third Infantry.

Within ten minutes after an application of Dandruff you can not only get a single tuft of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first, yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Dandruff immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and average. Just rub a cloth with Dandruff and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy and have an appearance of abundance and incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Dandruff from any drug store or corner counter, and carefully draw your hair as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair—occasionally if you will just try a little Dandruff. CUT OUT MEATS IF KIDNEYS ARE TROUBLING YOU

Uric Acid in meat excites Kidneys and Irritates the Bladder.

Noted Authority says we must flush Kidneys with Salts if Back hurts.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night, when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders. Let's be sure it is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.
