HON. SENATOR-CITY JUDGE LANGGUTH HOLDS MANY JOBS

attorney of Portland, held the land board attorneyship, had held it for a number of years and had performed the duties of the position to the entire satisfaction of the board. But Mr. Thomas had not been an ardent supporter of Governor Withycombe and the job was given to Senator Langguth, who was, and is, a good sup-porter. Now Multnomah county, becity property over country or farm very rich pickings to the attorney for the land board, who gets a commission of $10 for each loan, with an adloaned. During 1914 Mr. Thomas, who did not go out after the business, received between $90 and $100 in com-

In a spirit of thrift, however, Senator Langguth, when he got the job. prepared and circulated, where it would do the most good, a statement to the effect that the state land board had money to loan at 6 per cent; that he had been appointed attorney for the saw it, said not. He said that the atboard: that he passed upon the titles, had something to say about the loans being made, and that he was doing appointment." He was simply the business in the McKay building, or agent of the land board, he said, and locked him up. The prisoner is Brumming Up Trade Disapproved.

This made business better and Attorney for the Land Board Langguth drew down during 1915 the sum of $575, and did not work for a whole year, either. Some of the circulars circulated up into the possession of the state land board, however, and is is understood they did not meet the approval of that body. The board held that its attorneys had never advertised nue, was a resident of Oregon for 45 and Washington streets, tomorrow before and that it was an innovation not desired. Then John H. Stevenson decided to retire to private practice and handed but when that happened he stayed his resignation as municipal judge to at Second and Oak until noon. He his resignation as municipal judge to the mayor. officio justice of the peace. When Mr. Langguth ascended the municipal woolsack, he did not resign as state senator, nor as attorney for the state land board, and he did not give up his private law practice. The city charter, like the Oregon constitution, was violated, for, among other things, it specifically provides that "all officers and employes receiving pay from the city shall devote their entire time during business hours to the interests of the city." Interprets Laws to Pit Case. Judge Stevenson, who was a good judge and conscientious, held during his incumbency that "business hours" meant from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 in the afternoon. When he wanted to attend to private law business, he gave up the job, resigned and knew, when he appointed Judge Langproperty, does not, ordinarily, furnish guth, that the appointee did not inother circumstances. Anyway, he is still doing business privately at his offices in the McKay building, while at the same time he is doing business judicially down at Second and Oak, and is taking his "pay from the city" readily and regularly. Senator Langguth, when asked whether his five jobs conflicted with the constitution and the charter, as he was neither an office nor a "lucrative passed on the loans. It did not carry any compensation, but the man who got the loan paid him a commission for getting the money.

Court Comes First. Judge Langguth, discussing the charter provision, said that the court came first and his law practice second.

He attended to court business during business hours, and stuck on the job every day until he had gone through the docket. When he adjourned court the business hours were ended. Some days that was 10:30 in the morning not going to give up all of my private practice," said Judge Langguth. "i could not afford to do that. But I am going to give the city good service, and the work of the court comes first. As long as there is anything on the docket. I intend to stay and give it attention; but when the docket is cleared, then court is adjourned, and that is the end of the day. There has not been a day since I went on the bench that I have not been down there during the afternoon.'
