TELLING A GIRL BY HER That there is character to be displayed in the choice and manner of wearing a hat will doubtless be a revelation to many girls. But a girl who is at all observing can tell you from the hat another woman wears what manner of person it is with whom she is dealing. There is a little round black hat, with scarcely any attempt at trimming, except a flat, black bow. This hat is sure to be worn by a little old maid, one who is sweetened rather than soured, by her single lot. She is one who is absorbed in other people's children.

A simple little toque worn with a veil indicates the girl of great commonsense. Nothing specially startling or original about her. Just a good The girl who chooses a hat with abrupt angles, who always has wings or stiff, conventional triming on her hats, and who never wears flowers, is another kind altogether. You may always know her to be determined, independent, and if given half a chance she would be domineering.

There is a sort of soft, clusive, feathery kind of a creation that is worn by some women. A man would say she was distinctly feminine, womanly in all she did. But she is more than this—she is subtle, elusive, charming. She is the girl all men think they would like to marry, but there are not enough of this sort to go around.

Did Dr. Rainmaker reach down into his carpetbar, seize the right pair of pincers and yank out the offending molar, telling Ouch-in-the-Face that this was a simple piece of tooth-carpentry, requiring precious little skill and almost no scientific training? No, no, Ouch-in-the-Face was strung along with a complicated diagnosis, mostly in grunts and wise wags of the head. He was told to call tomorrow, meanwheld his place as autocrat of the tribe with one big bluff. Bluff and an absolute refusal to give up one secret in all his store house of "wisdom"—these two principles were his stock in trade.

Successful? Why didn't he have a right to be the Big Noise in his tribe, when his educated and refined descendants in this modern age can use the same two principles and make themselves both reverenced and rich? The interesting thing is that the modern medicine men haven't improved one bit on the brand of goods which Dr. Rainmaker would assure out-in-the-Face that his was no cinch of a job; that it was highly important that he followed directions; that it was fortunate that he had come to the interesting thing is that the modern medicine men haven't improved one bit on the brand of goods which Dr. Rainmaker handed out to the right specialist, etc., etc. Ouchin-the-Face made that he had come to the sight specialist, etc., etc. Ouchin-the-Face made to the right specialist of the reductions; that it was fortunate that he had come to the sight specialist, etc., etc. Ouchin-the-Face made the repair of propeyed than the ordinary patient leaves a modern "ethical" dentist's office today.
