The first and second rounds were concluded and there now remains four men for the semi-final round, two from California and two from the east. Robin Y. Hayne of San Francisco, E. S. Armstrong of Los Angeles, D. De Windt of the Old Eim club of Chicago, and W. Tuckerman of Cheve Chase.

The first round saw Harold Lamb, who was the medalist in the qualifying round, drop out of the running. Tuckerman was his victor by three to two to play. In the same round A. H. Braly defeated the writer one down. Braly then was matched with Hayne, and the match produced the best golf of the tournament to date. Starting out strong by heling long rutts, both players held up a fast gait to the turn where Haynes' card figured 37. Braly hung on well till the fourteenth, when the San Franciscan's unbeatable golf began to tell. With several threes in the last few holes, Hayne finished with a lead of three and two, and a total of 72 for the eighteen,

Armstrong found his game in fine working order and gave M. A. Mc Laughlin very little opportunity. Their match finished with the California champion four up and three to go. With Armstrong now the favorite at ament the the predictions is Hayne W. Tucker man, whose game was steady through
