LOCAL SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA GIVEN HIGH COMPLIMENT

Mrs. MacDowell, Widow of Late American Composer, Delighted With Music.

PROGRAM WINS APPLAUSE

rendition of Beethoven's Seventh Symphony Played as Well as Its Done by Nikisch or Muck, Says Critic.

By J. L. Wallin.

Waldemar Lind, conductor, the Portland Symphony orchestra as an organization, and Portland as a city of culture, were paid an exceedingly high compliment at the orchestra's last concert of the season at the Heilig yesterday.

Mrs. Edward MacDowell, widow of the late American composer, who is in the city on a tour of the country in the interest of the development of musical art, was in the audience, and upon invitation from Mose Christensen, president and association conductor of the orchestra, "took the stage" during the intermission and spoke a few words of encouragement. Beethoven's Seventh symphony had just been played, the last two movements exquisitely interpreted and performed.

Nikisch and Muck Mentioned.

"It is under protest that I come before you," said Mrs. MacDowell in her modest way, "but now that I am here, I wish to say that the last movement of the symphony was played as well as had it been done under a Nikisch or Muck. We have been called a material nation, but we are anything but that when we have an orchestra like this."

For the Benefit of those not acquainted with Nikisch or Muck, it may be stated that they are two of the foremost symphony orchestra conductors of the world.

The audience filled the theatre to capacity and enthusiasm was the keener. The applause was sufficient to have induced Conductor Lind to give several encores, but time would not permit of this as he explained after the hand clapping apparently would not cease, when the orchestra had concluded a most artistic reading of the descriptive Bartholdy transcription of the "Song Without Words," Mendelssohn's "Song Without Words."

Whirl of Wheel Is Heard.

The whirl of the spinning wheel was most effectively reproduced by the first violins to pizzicato accompaniment on the heavier strings. This number was the little gem of the program. Volkmann's serenade for strings with solo for cello, played by George Kirchner, was interesting largely from the viewpoint of technique. It contains nothing to stir the emotions.

Michael Ippolitow-Iwanow's Caucasian sketches, a suite of four numbers.

"In the Mountains," "In the Village," "In the Mosque" and "The Procession of the Sardar," will be welcomed any time on a symphony program. It was introduced here for the first time and struck a most popular chord. Its tone colors are delightful and varied, with the oboe, English horn, flute, clarinet, French horns and bassoons taking most conspicuous parts. A charming duet for English horn and viola was the predominating feature of the second number.

Decided Russian Atmosphere.

In the first number the French horn, oboe and flute furnished a seductive picture, while the third number was made decidedly "Mosqueque" when the clarinet oboe and bassoon dealt with the melody to a wierd and sombre syncopated pizzicato accompaniment on the cellos and double basses. The flute and tambourine blended in a vivid description of the final procession scene.

Edward Elgar's "In Hammerbach,"

proved one of the most attractive numbers of the famous English composers ever given here. It was given a most delightful reading. Its most prominent feature is the French horn.

The Daughters of the Confederacy

will meet at the home of Mrs. U. D. Maxon, 1240 Royal Court, Thursday afternoon, March 16, at 2 o'clock. Take Montavilla car to Forty-third street and go three blocks north. A full attendance is requested.

The Wisconsin society will hold its regular meeting Thursday, March 16, at the Arcanum hall, Thirteenth and Washington streets. The ladies of the serving club are to give a play and refreshments will be served.

Hunter Has Exciting Experiences.

Eugene, Or., March 13.—"Jap" Hills, well known hunter and guide, was out in the mountains across the river from his ranch a few days ago. Two of the dogs were tied to his horse and his rifle was on the saddle. The third dog, which was loose, ran onto a big cougar in a clump of brush while Hills was sitting on a log resting, some distance away from his horse and rifle. The cougar started after the dog and ran toward Hills.

Dispatched it with another shot.

He says it was one of the most exciting experiences he ever had. Only a few years ago Hills was compelled to pry the jaws of a bear loose from one of his dogs and after a hard hand encounter, killed the bear, and a year or two ago as he was taking a wildcat, which he had shot, to camp the cat suddenly revived and attacked him. He had difficulty in shaking the animal off his back and killing it.

Guards Will Protect Man's Temperament

Boston, March 13.—(I. N. S.)—Enrico Caruso, who is coming to Boston with the Metropolitan Opera company in April, has engaged 25 rooms, occupying an entire floor at the Hotel Lenox for his stay here. At the entrance to the suite, according to the terms of the agreement an armed guard will be on duty day and night to make sure that the famous Italian tenor's artistic temperament shall not be disturbed.

Message to the Women

No. 2

The idea of cooking or pasteurizing cream is comparatively new. Pasteur, the great French scientist, discovered and established the principle about 1864. In 1898 W. F. Jensen, president of the Mutual Creamery Company, and his brother, perfected the first machine used to apply Pasteur's treatment to cream for butter-making.

WE MADE THE FIRST PASTEURIZED BUTTER IN AMERICA, and have kept in the lead with this treatment ever since. The expense to us is a 1/2 cent on each pound of butter over and above the usual cost of making butter from uncooked cream. With our present output of 8,000,000 pounds of butter from 12 creameries, it costs us $400,000 each year to give the public this guarantee of absolute purity in the butter we sell.

This determination to insure purity has often been a labor of love with us, because the public has not appreciated the protection PASTEURIZATION gives to butter. The heating and chilling of the cream kills all germs. Our Maid o' Clover Butter is made from thoroughly PASTEURIZED cream.

Yours truly,
