that Croft was not supporting his wife and three small children. Then in his own defense Croft was placed on the witness stand by his attorneys, Hurlburt and Layton, to testify to the al-leged misconduct of his wife. Deputy

District Attorneys Dempsey and Hindman, representing the state, objected.

Judge Morrow, "is such that he is entitled to divorce her, he should apply for a divorce. If he does not get a divorce he must support her and his minor children, and he can be prosecuted criminally if he does not do it."

"Following your ruling out to its logical conclusion," contended Attor-ney Layton, "it would force men to get divorces."

"I am only following out the statute, which says: 'Any person who, without just or sufficient cause, shall fail or neglect to support his wife or children, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, etc.,'" replied the judge, "The > Edwards Davis Was Minister. Rev. Edwards Davis, who is appearing with Mary Fuller in the photoplay "The Strength of the Weak, at the Strand, was educated to the ministry and preached in the Congrelief that the way to save people's ouses souls is first to get people to come to church. He resorted to a number of spectacular acts to accomplish this; one was dancing in his pulpit. Davis was in Portland a number of years ago and both preached and lectured in the old First Congregational church of East Portland, later the Hassalo Street Congregational church.

Portland Girl at Pantages. One of the best numbers on the Pantages program this week is Anita Heyman, a Portland girl who trained herself for a stage career as the result of advice given her by Madam Schuman-Heink. Madam gave the little girl a hearing at the Portland hotel while here on one of her concert tours. After listening to Anita, the great diva told the girl that she had the making of a beautiful voice and that with proper training she could become a great singer.

Greatest Amateur Performance. Ann Arbor, March 22 .- With a cast more than 200 students drawn from 25 nations of the world, the foreign students of the University of Michigan will stage their first annual "All Nation Revue." The libretto for the produc-tion, which is the biggest amateur performance ever attempted by American university, was written by William H. Fort Jr., a senior literary student from Chicago, and the staging is under the direction of Aubrey Stauf-fer, well known in Chicago as a producer of comic opera.

Other Side of the Laugh. The other night in New York Richard Carle, who has many times made Portland audiences laugh, was merrier than ever in "Cohan's Revue" at the Astor. Even the most blase theatrogoer admitted "you had to hand it to Carle." That same night while the actor went through the ludicrous laugh-making situations, Mrs. Carle sat beside the body of their only son, Lloyd Wheeler Carle, 18, who died just before the father left for the theatre. Having no understudy, the actor was forced to go on with the evening show despite the tragedy.
