Lines, Miss Isabella Gauld, Miss Hazel Crocker and Miss Bertha Tongue.

George W. Hazen Elected Supreme Lodge Delegate.

Mrs. Sheldon Returns.
Mrs. William Sheldon, Jr., with her little daughters, Ruth and Peggy, will leave today for her home in Seattle. Mrs. Sheldon has been the much feted visitor of Mrs. Charles George Arndt, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at a luncheon of six covers in her honor, and yesterday she gave an informal card party. Five hundred was played, highest honors falling to Mrs. E. W. Stewart. A pretty guest prize was given Mrs. Sheldon.

FRATERNAL NOTES
George W. Hazen Elected Supreme Lodge Delegate.

For Mrs. Treat.
Last evening the Delta Gamma sorority entertained with a delightful dinner at the University club for Mrs. P. J. Treat, grand president. Covers were laid for Mesdames George Bright, Ben Day, J. B. Kerr, J. C. Elliott King, R. A. Letter, George H. Marsh, Donald Fague, Misses Louise Boyd, Louise Brace, Pearl Cady, Nettie Drew, Clara Heisler, Elizabeth Lavelle, Agnes Murdoch, Mildred Lawrence.

First Picnic of Season.—For the past three years Kirkpatrick council, Knights and Ladies of Security has been the first fraternal order in Portland to give a picnic, and 1916 is to be the fourth grand opening celebration of that kind. Crystal Lake park has been engaged for Sunday, May 7, for the picnic. The picnic will be headed by Fred J. King, is preparing a program of sports and games that will undoubtedly attract the large crowds expected.

Society Notes.
Joseph A. Finley, well known Portland singer, is expecting a visit from two sisters whose home is in Boston. The Misses Finley will be entertained during part of the summer by their aunt, Mrs. Robert W. Finley, at her Market street home.

To Initiate 100.—The degree team of Kirkpatrick council, Knights and Ladies of Security, is putting in extra time drilling in preparation for the joint meeting next Tuesday night at Moose hall when a class of 100 will be initiated before a large number of visitors and members. Creating Beauty.
IT IS delightfully refreshing to read many of the large number of letters I receive from unknown friends. In my mail today I received an especially interesting letter from a young girl. She wrote to inform me that she is finding great pleasure in creating beauty.

Mrs. Gilman Returns.
Mrs. Luthene C. Gilman and her daughter, Miss Alice Gilman, have returned home from Chicago, where Miss Gilman has been visiting for the past eight weeks, studying piano with Harold Wells, her former instructor at Berlin. Mrs. Gilman went east to accompany her daughter home. Miss Lee Gazzam of Seattle is passing the week at the Gilman home.

Left to right—Mrs. A. C. Holmes and Mrs. M. D. Alger, prominent and active members of the Club.

Grand Lodge Not Postponed.—The grand lodge of the I. O. O. F., to meet at Roseburg, May 18 to 19, will positively not be postponed, rumors to the contrary notwithstanding. John F. Hall of Marshfield, grand master, declared yesterday that he had no authority to postpone it. The Roseburg dates interfere with the state wide primary election on May 19, but that cannot be helped, although it was an oversight in the first place. The Roseburg people will have their famous strawberry festival that week, and have planned to hold the delegates over until the twentieth.

Bed Time Tales

BY CLARA INGRAM JUDSON

The Joke Is on Tommy Tittle-Mouse.
THE day after Tommy Tittle-mouse had so carefully hidden a good many grains of corn under the big boards of the lily bed, he wakened with a pleasant feeling that he was going to have a very good day.

Mrs. Tommy followed close at his heels.

"Just as soon as we get through our breakfast and have our house tidied up," he said to himself, "I'll take Mrs. Tommy out to the lily bed and show her what a nice start I have made on our rainy-day stores."

"What are you smiling about, Tommy?" asked Mrs. Tommy, who noticed Tommy's pleased expression and wanted to share the joke—if there was one, as she quite suspected.

"Nothing at all," replied Tommy. "Oh, nothing at all!"

But that answer didn't fool Mrs. Tommy—not one bit. "I do hope Tommy hadn't been doing something foolish," she thought to herself; but, being a very wise and kind little lady, she said nothing. She just waited and kept her thoughts to herself—a very safe place to keep thoughts, by the way; thoughts that are carefully kept do no harm to anybody.

In a very short time the two mice had eaten a nice little breakfast and had tidied up their tiny house.

"Now," thought Mrs. Tommy (all to herself, of course), "I'm going to find out what he's been smiling about!"

So they went out toward the yard.

Tommy led the way, of course, and Mrs. Tommy followed close at his heels, though it must be admitted that she watched out for danger all the time. She had not been running around the barn all winter as freely as had Tommy, and she was disposed to be watchful.

"You're going to be very happily surprised!" warned Tommy, as they slipped out of the hole they had made near the barn door.

"That's good," said Mrs. Tommy, and she blinked her eyes and drew a long breath of fresh air.

"Right—here—under this board," began Tommy—and he nosed under the board to show Mrs. Tommy where to look—"you'll find some nice—fresh fat—juicy—tasty—why, where is it?" he demanded, as he found nothing.

"Where's what?" asked Mrs. Tommy. "You didn't say what the fresh fat, juicy was."

"Corn," replied Tommy. "Where's the corn I hid under here ready to take to the log?"

Just then Yellow Puff, in search of more goodies, cheeped a "Good morning" from the barn door sill.

"Didn't I tell you to put the corn 'way back in the log'?" demanded Mrs. Tommy. Then she turned to Yellow Puff: "There's the corn thief! And next time, Tommy, that you want to surprise me, just do what I say! I'll be surprised—and you'll have the corn!"

Tomorrow—Mary's Four-Poster.

Alaskans to Strike If Report Is Delayed

Seward, Alaska, April 21.—(P. N. S.)—Unless the commission appointed by Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson to fix a scale of wages for men employed on the government railroad has reported its findings by Saturday, 900 members of the Federal Labor union, at Anchorage, will go out on strike. At a meeting of the union here Thursday the members voted in favor of the strike if the wage commission continues to delay its decision.
