One Hot Toddy Cures Hetty Green's Cold

World's Richest Woman Returns to Health When Old Fashioned Remedy Is Administered; Conducts Business. New York, April 27.—The hot toddy, standard remedy of a passing generation, was the principal "medicine" in the cure of Mrs. Hetty Green, octogenarian financier, who was reported to have suffered a paralytic stroke at the home of her son, Colonel E. R. Green.

Mrs. Green was back at her desk today attending to business as usual. It appears, according to her son, that she suffered a chill after an automobile ride on Sunday and developed a cold.

"We gave her a hot toddy," said Colonel Green, "and called a doctor. If we had given her a bigger toddy, it would have turned out we would not have needed the doctor. She is in better health today than I am."

WANTS TO GET BACK $800 CASH PAID FOR COIN MACHINE STOCK

C. W. Field Files Suit, Alleging That Company Was Formed to Defraud Public.

On the grounds of fraud, C. W. Field has filed suit against the Coin Manufacturing company and T. B. Potter, T. Irving Potter, John K. Kolloch and E. V. Reardon to recover $800 that he and Emily C. Canning paid for stock in the Coin Machine Manufacturing company.

Fields alleges that the defendants, except Reardon, on June 28, 1910, formed the Coin Machine Manufacturing company "with the objects and purposes of cheating and defrauding the public, and particularly this plaintiff."

Induced to Buy Stock. He says he was induced to buy stock in the company by representations of the defendants that the company was a large and going concern, having assets and contracts and patent rights approximating $2,000,000 in value, and that the company intended to erect large manufacturing plants in the state to produce a new coin machine which was "to revolutionize commerce and the conduct of the affairs of wholesale and retail merchants."

The machine was to be a labor saver in making change and in connection with bookkeeping. The defendants represented to him, Field alleges, that they had several contracts with large department stores and other large business houses were clamoring for the machines.

Representations Declared False. All these representations were false, he alleges. He asserts that the company had no assets and that the whole scheme is to make money out of persons who contract to buy stock and let their contracts lapse.

Field alleges that the "contract is an impudent contract and is against public policy and conceived and designed in fraud and with the object and purposes of cheating and defrauding the public."

B. F. Mulkey is attorney for Field, who says he is a laboring man and not informed about contracts.

Commerce Chamber Lauds Finley's Work

Passes Resolutions Urging Fish and Game Commission to Continue and Enlarge Activities of State Biologist. Resolutions lauding the work of W. L. Finley, state biologist, who recently returned from an eastern lecturing tour on Oregon bird animal life, and urging the fish and game commission of the state to see that it is continued and enlarged, were adopted at a meeting of the directors of the Portland Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon. The resolutions were introduced by J. C. Alnsworth, chairman of the publicity committee of the chamber.

Mr. Finley is now having made a series of colored moving pictures showing animal and bird life, hunting and fishing scenes and many of the scenic spots of Oregon, and already has invitations for lectures in the east next summer at which these will be shown.

The object of his work is to capitalize Oregon's scenery, hunting and fishing much as Maine has capitalized the same items and California has capitalized climate.

Brief of Astoria Is Submitted to I. C. C.

Protest Made Against Re-opening of Parity Rate Case; Says Commission Has Not Erred in Not Re-opening. Washington, April 27.—I. N. S.—The interstate commerce commission has received a brief from attorneys representing the city of Astoria, Or., protesting against re-opening of the parity rate case.

The brief cites that the commission would not have erred in deciding that there was no reason for re-opening the case, in which a decision was handed down placing Astoria on the same rate basis with Seattle, Tacoma and Portland.

Senator C. W. Fulton said yesterday that the only law ground covered in the reply brief was prepared to show that the contentions of the railroads in seeking to re-open the case are beside the main points at issue.

The brief was prepared several days ago and submitted to the commission.

TWO AMERICANS ARE KILLED BY VILLISTAS IN CLASH, 3 WOUNDED

Villistas Lost Six Killed, 23 Probably Fatally Wounded in Two Engagements.

DODD'S FORCE ATTACKED

Fight Lasted From 4:30 in the Afternoon Until Dark; Baca, One of Villista Leaders, Reported Dead.

Washington, April 27.—The war department has received an official report from General Funston of two engagements between United States troops and Villistas. In a fight on April 22 two American troopers were killed and three wounded. Six Villistas were killed and 23 probably fatally wounded. In another clash on April 20, four Villistas were mortally wounded.

The department gave out the following statement: "The following was just received from General Pershing: 'A report dated April 24 received today from Colonel Dodd, whose column of four troops has been operating southwest of Minaca, states that he overtook a band of Villistas near Tomachic on the 22nd, 4:30 p. m., killing six and wounding 19 others, many probably fatally. Twenty-five horses were captured. Our loss was two killed and three wounded. The fight lasted until after dark. It is impossible to tell definitely the loss of Villistas.'"

Baca Reported Killed. "Dodd's column, when previously heard from, was at Tomachic on the 17th. Country reported very rough. 'Narciso' made over 25 profit mountain trails. Villistas reported under leadership of Cervantes, Baca, and Dominguez, numbered 150 to 200. Baca reported killed yesterday at Santa Tomas. Do not give entire credit to report of his death. Our killed at Tomachic were Ralph A. Raw, sergeant Troop L, Seventh cavalry; Private Oliver Bonahoe, Troop H, Seventh cavalry; wounded, Henry Thomas, Seventh cavalry; Tillman T. Mathias, Troop L, Seventh cavalry; Dodd returning to Minaca. (Signed) "PERSHING."

Another Brush With Villistas. Two days prior, or April 20, a scouting party of Colonel J. H. Irwin's command, a part of the Seventh cavalry, ran into a Villista band at Cocomorochic, 30 miles northwest of Guerrero, and mortally wounded four of them.

These two engagements were fought in territory much to the west of any point at which American troops have been located. Tomachic is about 40 miles to the southwest of Guerrero, and about the same distance, but more westerly, from Minaca. Both it and Cocomorochic are on the headwaters of the Rio Aros, which flows north and then west, its waters finally flowing into the Rio Yaqui and Gulf of Lower California. It is probably 75 miles or more over extremely difficult mountain trails.

General Pershing states that the last previous report from Colonel Dodd had been received from him at Tomachic, which is 25 miles east of Minaca. He was there April 17, and to reach Lower California he had to travel probably 75 miles or more over extremely difficult mountain trails.

The western slope. General Pershing states that the last previous report from Colonel Dodd had been received from him at Tomachic, which is 25 miles east of Minaca. He was there April 17, and to reach Lower California he had to travel probably 75 miles or more over extremely difficult mountain trails.
