CUNARD COMPANY TO BE SUED FOR DEATH OF CHARLES FROHMAN

Damages Asked by Estate of Theatrical Man Who Went Down on the Lusitania.

New York, May 8.—(I. N. S.)—Administrators of the estate of Charles Frohman, who lost his life when the Lusitania was torpedoed just one year ago today, gave notice in the United States district court Saturday that they intended to file suit against the Cunard Steamship company, Ltd. In the complaint which is to be filed the plaintiffs, Daniel Frohman and Alfred Hayman, administrators of the theatrical manager's estate, will contend that the steamship company failed to observe the proper precautions to protect the Lusitania from submarine or mines.

The Frohman action, as well as 16 others filed Saturday just came within the time limit of one year fixed by federal law for the beginning of action to recover for death at sea. Six of these actions were in the form of actual complaints. The others, as in the Frohman case, were merely preliminary notices which, however, are recognized legally as the beginning of the suits.

Altogether 43 actions have been brought against the Cunard line, 12 of which have already taken the form of complaints. In these 12 cases alone the damages asked amount to more than $1,400,000. No estimate has been made of the damages to be asked in the 30 other suits.

Billy Finds Tommy Still in the Garden. AFTER the nest-building was finished, Billy Robin began to look around a bit and see his old friends. "Where's that little mouse person who used to live in the log?" he asked Mr. Garden Toad one morning. "Is he as afraid as ever?" Mr. Garden Toad laughed, but before he had time to reply Tommy Tittle-mouse himself slipped into view. "Why, good morning!" exclaimed Billy Robin. "I was just this minute inquiring about you. Where did you come from, and how did you get here without my seeing you?" "One question at a time," laughed Tommy, for he was glad as could be to see his old friend Billy—it seemed like old times to be talking so friendly and nice. "I came from the barn across the alley and—"

"I thank you kindly," said Mr. Garden Toad, with a polite chirp. "I have done credit to a dancing master. I'm glad to get compliments early in the season. Later on, when the flies are plenty, I get so fat it is hard to bow."

"Speaking of eating reminds me of my errand," said Tommy Tittlemouse with a start. "I guess you will have to excuse me—I have some work to do," and with that he darted away toward the log. He was determined to clean it out well and to have some nice grains of corn stored away before Mrs. Tommy could guess where he had gone.

"A nice, industrious little creature," said Billy, as he watched Tommy run into the old log, "and I, for one, am glad to find him still living in our garden."

"So am I," croaked Mr. Garden Toad, preparing himself for a nap in the warm, midday sun; "so am I, am I, I—and off he went to sleep."

"I think you kindly," said Mr. Garden Toad, with a polite chirp that would

BRITISH NEWSPAPERS AGREE GERMAN REPLY SIDESTEPS THE ISSUE

Another "Long and Protracted Interchange of Communications" Is Looked for London, May 8.—(I. N. S.)—Both the Saturday evening and Sunday papers feature Germany's reply to the American note. The newspapers' headlines emphasize the resentment of the American press at the language employed by Germany, but while admitting they hold a divided view regarding President Wilson's course of action, it is clearly brought out that no immediate break is to be expected. "The Weekly Dispatch says: "Mr. Wilson will have some hard thinking to do before reaching a decision."

More Notes Anticipated. Reynolds' Newspaper says: "The reply is a clever and ingenious attempt to shift the area of discussion. Our own opinion is that America will not go to war, but a new note will form the basis of another long, protracted interchange of communications."

The Evening Standard declares the concessions to be far from meeting the American demand, and adds: "As to the question whether Germany's word can be relied on, Mr. Wilson has had 15 months of experience with broken solemn pledges."

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "Germany's request to America is obviously preposterous. Germany is making mountains out of mole hills."

"It is clear that America will refuse to make her relation with the allies the subject of bargaining with Berlin."

MEXICANS BECOMING CONVINCED WE DON'T WANT THEIR COUNTRY

Saratoga, N. Y., May 8.—(U. P.)—The policy adopted by President Wilson in the Mexican war zone.

KAISER WILHELM AND POPE BENEDICT HAVE PEACE UNDERSTANDING

Washington, May 8.—(I. N. S.)—The message from Pope Benedict to President Wilson, it was learned authoritatively today, makes it clear that the German emperor and the Vatican have an understanding on the subject of peace.

The pope was informed by direction of the emperor, it was declared, that Germany is willing to treat for peace or to accept proposals with peace as their object. Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore, recognized head of the Catholic church in America, said Sunday in a statement to the International News Service, he knew "there is something in the air." He expressed the hope that it would come to a successful termination. Pope Benedict in his message to President Wilson treated especially of the subject of a general peace and the timeliness of a definite move by the United States toward ending the war. Stress was laid upon the importance of maintaining friendly relations with Germany, but the president was not urged to waive any principle or sacrifice any national interest for the sake of preventing a rupture. The pope's message, it was declared, was designed to elicit the views of the president. It was intimated that Pope Benedict reminded President Wilson of this country's moral influence over the allied nations and of that of the Catholic church over Hungary and Germany. A joint appeal for peace taken by the United States and the Roman Catholic church conjointly, it was said to be the pope's belief, would command the serious consideration of the warring powers.

New Developments In Wireless, Claim

Guglielmo Marconi Arrives in New York With News of Improvements That Are Benefit for War Purposes. London, May 8.—(I. N. S.)—Guglielmo Marconi has just arrived in London from Italy with news of important and far-reaching wireless developments. In an interview in the "Weekly Dispatch" he said: "The new developments not only make wireless communication in the war zone more effective, but also make it difficult for the enemy to intercept or tap messages. "The improvements also apply to instruments on aeroplanes and airships. Hitherto aeroplanes have been at a disadvantage because, while able to transmit messages, they have been unable to receive them owing to the noise of the engine drowning out the wireless signals. Now we are able to strengthen the receiving signals sufficiently to enable messages to be taken."
