

NOBODY KNOWS WHO WON FAT-LEAN BALL CLASSIC AT COLUMBIA

But Railroad Boys Delighted Small Tads of Neighborhood—Which Is Something

OLD GRUDGES EVENED UP

Smooth Weather Rough and Ready Excuse for Fielders' Misfortunes But All's Well That Ends Well.

It was real old-fashioned Saturday-afternoon-at-the-crossroads baseball at Columbia-park yesterday afternoon.

The teams were those ancient diamond enemies, the Fats and the Leans, both agglomerations having been recruited from the paid-up membership of the Transportation club, which is composed of men who work for our most down-trodden corporations, the railroads.

However, there was nothing down-trodden about the way those boys tore up the greensward yesterday.

It was near-athletics, but not very. Big league scouts who saw the contest, and who were trying to conceal their identity were revealed in their true light when they both fainted in the second inning, and had to be carried from the field.

Weather Is Fine Excuse.

Otherwise it was great baseball. Decidedly otherwise.

With the sun shining now and then, and the Oregon mist in progress the rest of the afternoon, the program progressed under difficulties.

The mist affected the game in several ways. It got into the players' eyes with the result that with Ted Jordan's bigger-than-big league bat, many balls were missed.

It also dampened the ball so that the pitchers frequently missed the plate. In some other way it affected the players in the field so that they frequently missed the ball.

When the sun came out, however, the pitcher pitched the ball straight, the batters hit the ball, and then the fielders caught the ball, and then dropped it, so that the scorekeeper had something to do.

To complete the array of baseball suits, tennis suits, and business suits, umbrellas were decidedly in evidence, and one enthusiastic fielder tried to catch a fly ball in his rain-coat. He misjudged it.

Monstrous Swatter Futile.

The unveiling of Ted Jordan's Garretian bat was easily the feature of the contest, and he belatedly came gleaming out from its gay tissue-paper wrappings, wild yells went up from the assembled small boys of the neighborhood. They had never seen such a bat before, and doubtless they never will again. At the close of the contest they immediately confiscated it, with more wild yells.

Another high-tide of emotional interest, as Bob Brown, the w. k. Fagina, stylist of the sport page would say, was when a batter clicked one into right and one of the Fats scored from third on a bicycle.

The teams lined up partially as follows:

Fats—Schuster, catcher; Houghton, Wood, Wick, Lynch, McCormick, Pretty and Dickson, pitchers; Harvey and McConnell, first; Roberts, second; Cochran, third; Hise-hoot and Portrester, short; Ruger and Lincoln, right; Klaser and Irwin, center; Maling, left.

Leans Fatten No Average.

Leans—Irvine and McClosky, catchers; Damert, Jordan, Wiggins, Rowland and Miller, pitchers; Harlan and Caulfield, first; Lyman, second; Hallock and Griffin, third; Jones and Rowan, short; Vaughn, left; McAllen, left; Whitney, center; Vaughn, right.

All these players were playing at one time. That is, all on each team were in the field simultaneously. An actual count seemed to show that the Fats, besides their advantage in atmospheric displacement, slightly outnumbered their shadowy opponents.

The score is being kept as much of a secret as possible.

Copettes "Wallop" Mystified Masher

Followers Make Short Work of Individual Who Addresses One of Them as "Cutie" on Chicago Street.

Chicago, May 20.—"Hello, Cutie! Ain't it pretty late for a nifty dame like you to be out alone?"

Policewoman Theresa Johnson heard an expression that sounded very much like the above when she passed Halsted street on North avenue.

She turned and looked into the smiling face of Joseph T. Tragseller. "As I live and breathe, if it's not my friend that I met at—"

At this instant Tragseller's discourse was interrupted by a staggering blow in the mouth. As the policewoman followed the first wallop with another to the jaw, her partner, Agnes Walsh, came to her assistance, and the two led the mystified masher to a patrol box.

While one of the women was calling for the wagon, John Madie, 1624 Clybourn avenue, attempted to assist Tragseller to escape.

A struggle ensued, but the policewoman held both men until two policemen arrived.

The pair of alleged flirts will appear before Judge Sullivan in the East Chicago avenue court.

VILLA'S EXECUTIONER IS NOW FACING DOSE OF HIS OWN MEDICINE

Man Who Slew 18 Americans at Santa Ysabel Is Now Held Prisoner.

El Paso, May 20.—(U. N. S.)—Pablo Lopez is paying for some of the horrors he brought to Santa Ysabel and Columbus.

Down in Chihuahua City they are trying to get some information from Villa's chief executioner before he faces the firing squad. Lopez without doubt wishes that he had been killed or that he had died in the cave where he dragged himself shot through both legs.

For Pablo Lopez has information that his captors want. The information about the location and strength of his chieftain, Pancho Villa, of course. But that is only incidental. Most of all they want the secret of where Pablo Lopez hid the loot he has acquired in his bandit years.

Consul Garcia in El Paso says that in one cache alone Lopez has secreted 30 bags of gold dust worth $100,000.

They have ways of getting information of that sort in Mexico. The Spaniards years ago brought the lesson of the rack, the white-hot branding and other niceties of the Inquisition.

Have Own Little Tortures.

To this the Indians added their little torture schemes. Blazing chips jabbed into superficial knife stabs in the soles of the feet and splitting finger nails another.

But most efficacious is the ant-head. This plan is credited to the Yaqui Indians. It has been used with great success.

The legendary industry of the ant has not been dulled in his Mexican relations. So, when information really is wanted, the subject is taken to the nearest ant heap.

There he is stripped and "staked out." "Staking out" is a process in which the victim is laid flat on his back with his hands and feet stretched out at full length and held there with ropes and pegs.

The ants are indignant at this disturbance. Also they are hungry. Usually the victim decides to speak within five minutes. He can be left on the heap 10 minutes with comparative safety. Twenty minutes will make the torture acute. Usually half an hour is fatal. The ants work their way into the ears or nostrils and penetrate the brain. In 24 hours only the skeleton would remain.

Lopez Slaughtered Americans.

A friendly trainman brought the news to El Paso of arrival of Pablo Lopez, wounded and weak in Chihuahua. The trainman, who knew him, spoke to Lopez.

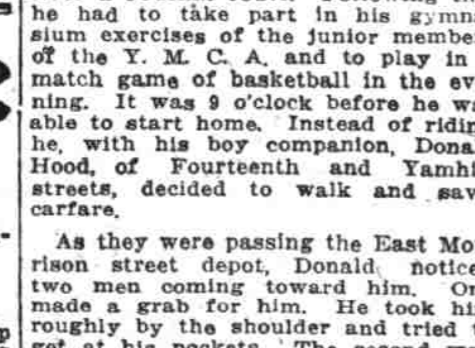

"I do not fear their firing squad," said Lopez, wearily. "I have been expecting to die, anyway. But they think I have gold hidden away. And they will try to find out where it is. I do not care to tell them anything."

Half an hour later he was taken into the big penitentiary on outskirts of Chihuahua City. There are cellars and sub-cellars in Chihuahua penitentiary, and there are ant-heaps everywhere in Mexico.

Pablo Lopez carried out Pancho Villa's orders when he stopped the train at Santa Ysabel and slaughtered 17 Americans and 17 other Americans. Pablo Lopez also rode in the massacre at Columbus.

Convict Left Gems On Way to Prison

W. D. Frad Convicted of Misuse of Mails Sends Diamonds to Friend Saying He Would Not Need Them.

Kansas City, May 20.—"Have you some wrapping paper, Charley?" a well dressed man asked Charles J. Murray, deputy United States district clerk, today. The questioner removed from his cravat a large diamond pin. From a finger he took a ring with two stones just as large. He placed them carefully in a jewel box.

"I'll not want these over there," he smiled good naturedly. "When I get out I may need them. So here they go by express to a friend."

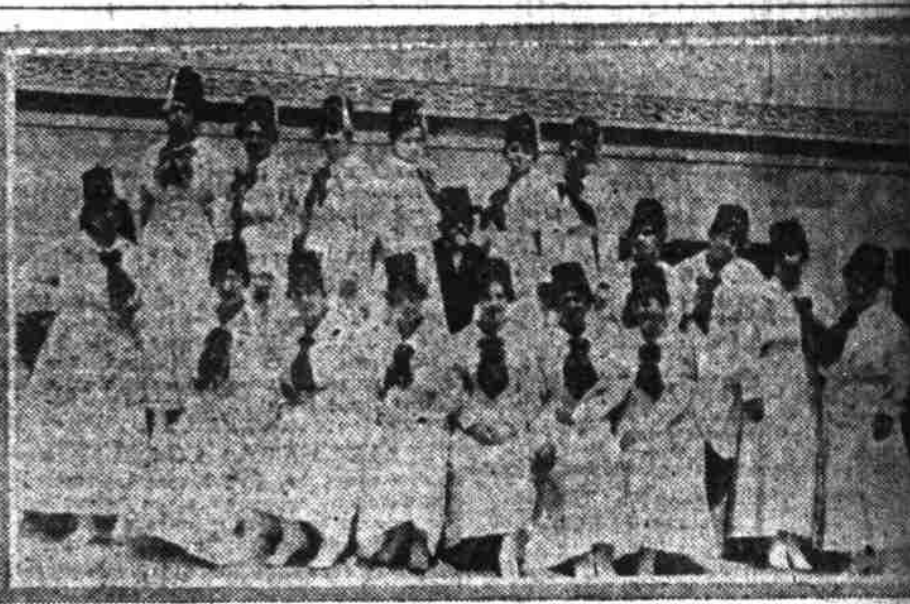

And W. D. Frad, indicted in 1912 for using the mails to defraud, hastened down the corridor to get his commitment to begin an 18-month sentence in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kans. He had timed his arrival and reported at the last minute.

Frad and I. E. Trent were convicted of conducting a lottery in "townships" in Oklahoma. They appealed and lost. The diamonds Frad consigned to a friend were worth more than $2500.

COUNCIL TO GIVE DANCE

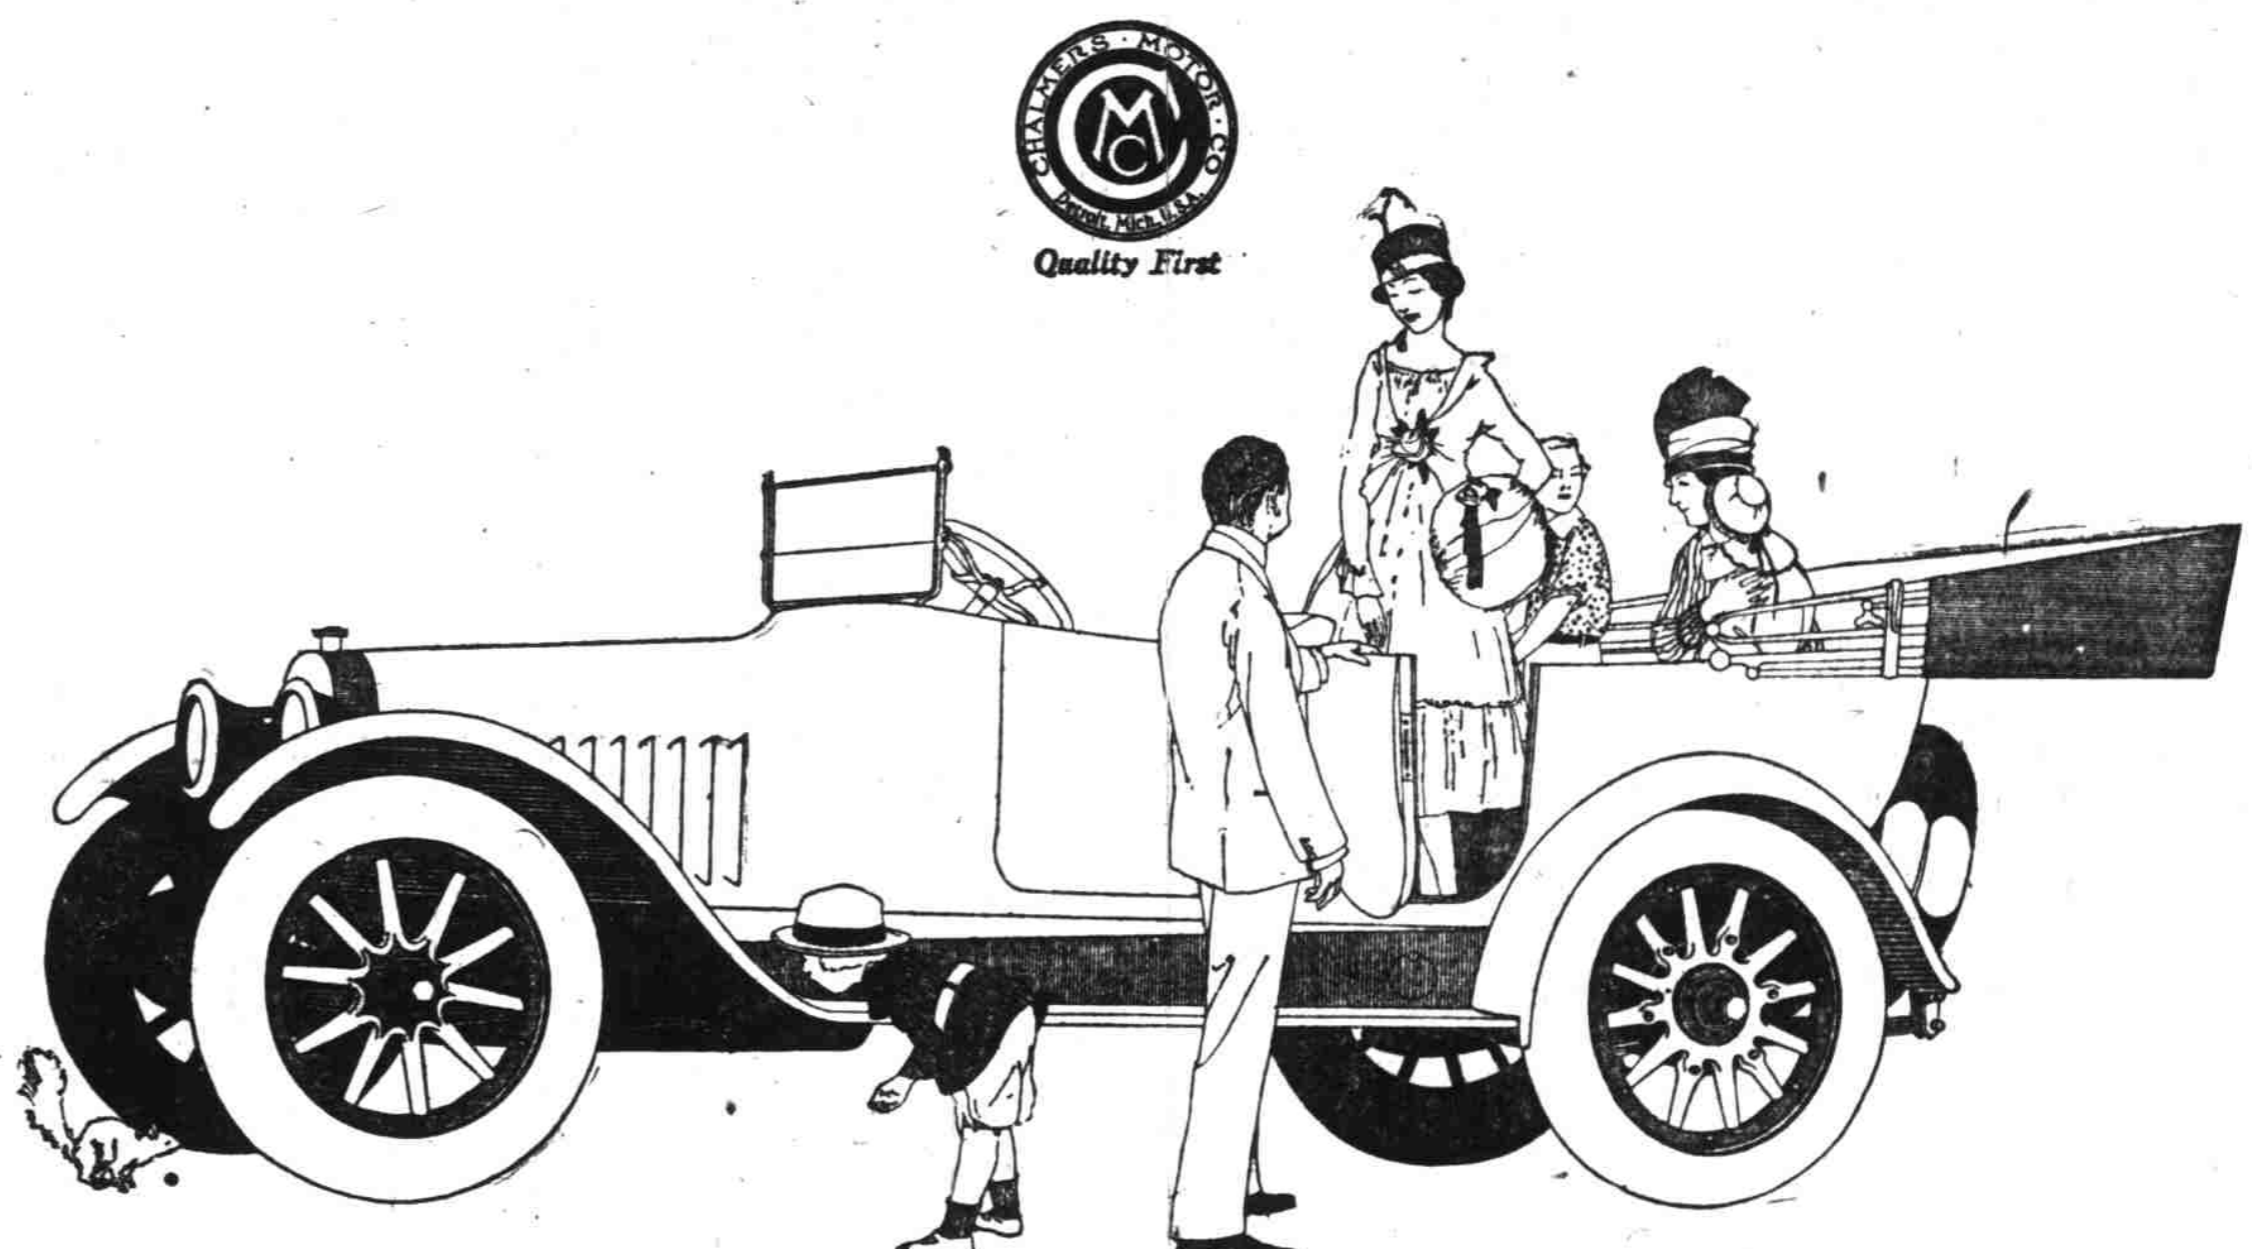

Betsy Ross drill team.

Betsy Ross council, Velled Ladies of the Enchanted Realm, a social organization, composed of the wives daughters and sisters of Masons, will give its second dance of the season next Tuesday night, May 23, at Multnomah W. O. W. hall, East Sixth and East Alder streets. Masons and friends are invited.

The organization is one quite recently formed and is a sister lodge to the Velled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm, the local organization which is known as the Qui Reazee Groto. The team of guards will act as a reception committee and appear in uniform.

Arkansas has brought action against Mississippi for a great island in the Mississippi in 1848. Aged trees on the Arkansas side proved that part of the island to be the oldest. The trees on the Mississippi side were all young, indicating it to be "made land." Time bar experts estimated some of the trees are from 100 to 175 years old. Before the war steamboat pilots were among the witness-boat pilots were among the case in favor of Arkansas a big lumber company will have possession of 1600 acres of valuable timber. If the court decides in favor of Mississippi, numerous persons, mostly negroes, will gain possession of the land and timber.

This Six-40 Seven-Passenger Chalmers—$1450 Detroit

$9,000,000 of these Six-40 Chalmers have been bought by persons who had intended paying $2,000 for a car

They took one look; were surprised a car of such size could be obtained for the money; drove around 10 miles in her—and bought.

They laid down the astonishingly small sum of $1450 plus the freight, and mentally noted a saving of $550.

For the men who are driving the Six-40 Chalmers today are the kind who have been thinking motor cars in terms of $2,000.

They have had more surprises than the price, too. They have found the Six-40 Chalmers to possess more room than any seven-passenger car of the day under $2500.

Most persons are pretty particular about room. I do not know just how to express the ROOM in this car.

Dimensions in inches do not tell the story. I simply spell the word in capital letters. Then you find later I have understated the case.

Surprise No. 3 that will stir your emotions is the great big subject of color options.

Now in these days when most cars resemble hearses in their soberness, or the "back drop" in a new musical comedy in their color excitement, here comes something refreshing.

You can get a Six-40 Chalmers in any of these colors: Oriford maroon or Valentine green with hoods to match. Meteor blue with black hood.

Just think that over. And remember this is the only car under $2,000, so far as I have ever learned, that provides for you a color range like this.

Colors are getting just a little more important every day. I find most men, and particularly most women, have their own ideas about color—just like the decorations in a library or a living room.

Now there's one more big item about the Six-40 Chalmers. It's too bad I can't set that down as Surprise No. 4.

Some secrets cannot be kept. Nearly everyone knows what a fine beast she is on the road. She certainly can perform.

They know that her real name is Six-40 Performance Chalmers. She has a reputation on a hill like Caesar had with his armies.

She has a reputation for responsiveness that every traffic cop in America is well aware of.

She has, like a great baseball pitcher, "everything on the ball." She is good at low speeds, good at high speeds, good on the hill, good on the long march, good on the short haul.

She's a fine animal. As fine as any you'll ever run across in 10 parasangs.

I drive her myself. She's my preference. But the big thing, of course, is that men with clear minds and rare judgment have laid down $9,000,000 on her. If you are wise you'll never question success—a success like the Six-40 Chalmers.

Ask me about Chalmers service inspection coupons, negotiable at all Chalmers dealers everywhere. This system is a most important consideration in buying your car.
