

What Society is Doing BY NONA LAWLER

An interesting event of tomorrow afternoon will be the luncheon-bridge, which Mrs. Robert Berger and her daughter, Miss Edna Berger, will give in compliment to Mrs. John Roberts of Salem, who is Mrs. Berger's house guest, and Mrs. Edgar Alexander.

Association Day, First Presbyterian.
The final all-day meeting of the women's association of the First Presbyterian church for the year, will be held on Tuesday of this week. Ladies of the congregation are urged to come early so that a large amount of sewing may be completed. The clothing committee has distributed to the poor, all the supply of cast-off garments which have been contributed, and it is requested that families remember this department of charitable service during the spring clean-up. Send all parcels to the church house, 464 Alder street.

Business men and women will find a home cooked luncheon in the banquet room at 12:30 noon. E. Maldwyn Evans, director of the chorus for the past season, will be present and sing at the luncheon hour. Mrs. Helen Starratt will bring a message of special interest to women at the program hour, 2 p. m.

Leaders of circles are requested to remember the conference at 11 a. m. Plans for the Rose Festival rest room and refreshment parlors will be made at this meeting. The women of the congregation are invited to attend on Tuesday to share in this busy day. Strangers especially invited.

Pythian Sisters Entertain.
Orpha Temple, No. 18, Pythian Sisters, initiated a large class of candidates Thursday evening. A social hour was enjoyed with a large attendance, including refreshments, after lodge. They will give a 500 card party Thursday evening, May 25, in the Pythian castle. Mrs. Phillip Gevurtz will preside as chairman, assisted by Mrs. George Spencer and Miss Maybelle Olsen. Refreshments will be served. Good prizes awarded. All Pythian Sisters and their friends invited.

Bride-Elect Honored.
Miss Roxanna Wommeladorf a bride-elect, was the inspiration for a very pretty "show" given by Mrs. P. L. C. at her home in Leach's addition last Tuesday night. The house was decorated in snowballs. In the dining room a large red sprinkling can filled with icicles was suspended above the table. During the evening Miss Wommeladorf played several violin solos and was accompanied by Miss Alta King. The guests present were members of the Satellite club.

Kansas Society to Meet.
The regular monthly meeting of the Kansas society will be held next Tuesday evening, March 28, at 124 Fourth street, in Foresters' hall. A special musical program is being planned under the direction of Arthur Haulenbeck. The ladies are planning a light lunch and other entertaining features will be added. All former Kansans are invited to be present.

Dyer-Kendall Wedding.
Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kendall announce the marriage of their daughter, Ethel W. Kendall, and Dan A. Dyer yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Harry N. Mount was the officiating clergyman.

Cards Planned.
The wives of the Dokies will receive next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the K. of P. hall. There will be cards and refreshments. The committee: Mrs. Ben F. Greene, Mrs. W. J. E. Clark, Mrs. Thad and Mrs. Rebecca Pallette of Chicago, last Saturday.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mining is Reported Booming.
Mining is booming in all parts of Alaska due to the great demand for copper, according to A. M. Dewey of Cordova, who is a guest at the Portland. Mr. Dewey is manager of the trustee department of a large copper-mining organization. Trade opportunities are numerous, he said, and there is no reason why Portland should not get her share of the business.

I'll Do It---

The ability—to do things worth while is almost always limited to the fortunate combination of a well-balanced mind and body.

Food—right food, and right living play an indispensable part in the program.

Unfortunately the usual dietary consists of too many heavy, indigestible foods, often lacking the mineral elements, phosphate of potash, etc., which are absolutely essential for physical well-being.

Crape-Nuts

is a food especially designed to correct these faults of the modern dietary. Made of whole wheat and barley, it contains all the nutrients of these grains, including the mineral salts stored by Nature in these cereals. Grape-Nuts combines readily with other food, and is a wonderful help in restoring and maintaining healthy balance of body, brain and nerves.

Thousands have found the "Road to Wellville" by cutting out improper foods and using Grape-Nuts as a daily ration. Ready to eat, nourishing, appetizing, economical.

taller's injuries. It is alleged that while Mostaller was talking over the telephone in the billiard hall Platt struck him on the head with a billiard club. A general fight followed in which Burgess took part, and it is alleged, he kicked Mostaller in the head. Mostaller is suffering from a blow on the brain and may die. Mostaller was recently divorced from his wife, who is a sister-in-law of Burgess.

Mill Employee Injured.
Marshfield, Or., May 22.—Charles Smith, employe at night at the C. C. Smith mill, was injured while at work in the mill. Several ribs were broken and he was otherwise hurt.

School Children "Moved."

HEARTS are battling against sea-water and stormy winds, against the intrigues of unworthy varieties and law-breaking smugglers in the William Fox film drama at the Majestic. William Fox, the famous producer, has a number of his own films in the Majestic. The film is a masterpiece of the fisherman's daughter, pretty Maida Rhodes. The picture is a masterpiece of the fisherman's daughter, pretty Maida Rhodes. The picture is a masterpiece of the fisherman's daughter, pretty Maida Rhodes.

Jo Sprague, the villain, is adequately portrayed by William Farnum, who has often played the part of Farnum before. His foiled, of course, though not without the inevitable fight. The "Battle of Hearts" opened yesterday.

Also on the bill is a splendid motion picture, "The Northerner," a musical farce-comedy. "The Northerner," and played to large houses at each performance.

"The Northerner" is a story of southern life. A northerner visits a plantation and falls in love with the daughter of his host, whose hand the village Shylock demands in marriage as a price for not foreclosing the mortgage upon her father's property. All this is foiled by the northerner, who arranges the payment of the mortgage, marries the girl and they live happily ever after.

Walter De Lear as Colonel Howard, Val Howard as Matthew Martin, Jack Ownby as the northerner, Samuel James as Uncle George, Miss Frances Williamson as his wife, Chloë Bell as the daughter, Elsie Moore as Maida Rhodes, and Barbara Haisland as Mrs. Biggs, make up an excellent cast and put the show over in a big way.

Musically, the show has two big numbers. One, "Always Ask for the Strawberry Juice," sung by Miss Chloë Bell and Jack Ownby, made a decided hit, with the Honeymoon girls going through the body of the house offering the audience a drink of this Oregon refreshment. "The Soldier's Song," "Not a Soldier, Too," by the Alhambra Four, assisted by the girls, was a good number, with special scenic effects. The four also did a specialty that carried over a hit for them. A real specialty came between acts when Miss Elsie Moore does a comic character bit with song and dance. This young lady registers strong with dancing. Miss Barbara Haisland, in her own specialty, sang "Can't You Hear Me Calling, Caroline?"

A new feature will be introduced at the Lyric tonight. A tryout of amateur acts will be held any evening, if thinking they have an act suitable to be presented in vaudeville is invited to present it before a real audience at the Lyric.

Tuesday nights money is given away in front of the theatre. Friday nights the Honeymoon girls will hold a contest after each performance. A bargain matinee is held daily.

Hate and Love Mix.
Hazel Dawn, starring in the "Feud Girl," is the feature of the early week bill at the Peoples theatre.

It is a story staged in Georgia where two clans, the Bassetts and the Haddons, each own half of Iron mountain.

Dave Bassett, youngest of the clan, unable to commit the murder he is instructed to finally winds up as a surveyor for a large railroad. He is sent to secure a survey of Iron mountain in the development of which the railroad company is interested.

While engaged in this work he meets Nell Haddon, youngest and fairest of her tribe, and under an assumed name wins and marries her. After a long battle they win their respective families over to joining peace. The railroad develops the mountain and the members of the clan become rich.

"Sweet Charity," a Metro-Draw comedy, featuring Miss Dora and Ben Platt, Mutual travel weekly, complete the bill.

Fine Vaudeville Draws Crowds.
Inclement weather failed to make any appreciable difference with sizes of the audiences in the work Hippodrome theatre yesterday. The playhouse was crowded at each performance. The high class vaudeville attractions and the film features won appreciation.

Revelations in the way of an animal act were presented by the almost human trained baboon, "Toby." The baboon's master also displayed and performed all manner of gymnastics in a way that was a surprise. The Three Stewarts appear

Beauty Chat BY LILLIAN RUSSELL

On the Wings of Song.

SING for the sake of your soul. Sing some more for the sake of your body. Life is sweetened and meliorated by song. Dull cares, aches and pains flee from the melody of the happy voice. Song knocks the sharp corners from life.

The better emotions are stimulated by song. It brings tears to the eyes that have never wept. It also softens lips that never smile. It may open the purse of the miser and bring kind words to the tongue of the cynic. In its softer vein it stills the throbbing pulse. In its lighter notes it makes the blood tingle. There is infinite good in song.

The world is a better place in which to live on account of the song of the bird. It is still better because there is melody in the human voice. Let us remember that half-or more than half—the pictures of happy angels show them singing.

What if your voice has a sepulchral tone, or if it is shrill like the wintery wind when it whistles over dry feeders? There was never a voice that could not be improved through singing. There was never a woman who was not improved by song. Perhaps your voice pleases only yourself. It is better to please one person than none at all when others are annoyed—you need not sing in their presence.

The sweetest song in the world is the mother's lullaby over her babe. Sing to your babe. Sing to your child. Sing before you eat. Singing is an appetizer. Hum a lullaby before you retire. It will soothe you. Let the joy in your heart spring from your lips in the form of song, and you desire to look your prettiest. When your spirit is heavy, elevate it on the wings of song. When your heart is hard, soften it with the song that arouses the slumbering sympathies in your breast. If your lips will not participate in your song, let your heart do the singing.

Laughter is sweetest to those who have tasted the bitterness of tears. Song is loveliest to those who have felt the harshness of life's notes. Song is a part of the Bacchanalian feast, and reveals it in gaily waited over the funeral bier; it is offered as an evidence of worship and murdered over cooling babies. It is an outburst of the spirit that is dominating the heart. The spirit brought under the influence of song is soon dominated by the melody.

The woman who is void of emotions perhaps does not exist. The ones whose emotions are at low ebb is uninteresting and blasé. Song awakens the emotions. Sing if you want to stimulate the emotions in your breast and raise your interest in the world and yourself.

Singing is a physical exercise in singing which is beneficial. The throat and chest are strengthened and the lung capacity is extended. Singers have strong vocal chords and throats. They are not sensitive to colds. The professional singer can warble for hours after the amateur is hoarse and exhausted. Singing develops the throat and chest muscles and makes them useful.

Singing modulates the voice. What is more beautiful than the well-modulated feminine voice? There is music in each of its notes even when not raised in song. If life seems dull and dreary, sing. If the sun is bright and the world full of gladness—join in nature's melody. Do not permit the birds to enjoy their songs alone.

keeps her secret to herself. After an absence of years the sculptor comes to Nan Aker and company. He arranges to have her younger sister pose for him. Resolving to protect the younger girl from the wife's jealousy, he takes her to the studio for each sitting, thereby arousing the jealousy of her husband.

Enraged, the husband accuses her of being too friendly with Arnold. Then the sister goes for the first time to the studio unaccompanied. The husband goes to kill the sculptor and finds him dead on the studio floor, stabbed with an antique dagger, and the younger girl in the room in hysterics. He is arrested for the crime and stands trial, the girl taking the stand at the end of the trial to save him. The close sees the husband with a deeper love for the wife than ever before.

A Keystone comedy, "A Dash of Courage," completes the bill. Two Stars and Frank Daniels. With two such stars as Edna May and Billie Burke the success of the week's photoplay offering at the T. & D. theatre is assured. For good measure there is thrown in a snappy little comedy by Frank Daniels.

Edna May is not as pretty in face as she was when she first came before the public. Her quiet manner and her ability as an actress, however, make strong personal appeal and keep loyal to her the many thousands of friends she has in the earlier years. The story of which she is a part in the movie production alternates in its setting between a Salvation Army meeting house in the slum district of New York, a part of the slums themselves with their sordidness and a barrel house dive, and a Fifth avenue

Oaks Park

Chat No. 15

ROLLER skating on a brand new maple floor proved to be one of the chief attractions for visitors at the park yesterday. The rink was opened to the public Saturday night when a large attendance unanimously declared the floor to be superb. Roller skating has long been recognized as a most healthful form of exercise and the fresh air at the Oaks and good music are additional features to be remembered when a skating party is planned.

Rousing selections were played to Auditorium audiences by the Columbian Ladies' Orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Sherman Brown. Miss Harriet Leach and Miss Gertrude Hooper were particularly well received with their solo numbers. Yesterday's program will be continued twice daily for the balance of this week.

Other forms of diversion, including the Blue Street Merry-go-Round, Rodeo, Mystic River, Chutes, Laughing Gallery and the Miniature Railway, are daily attracting those who come to the park for entertainment that is different. The youngsters are having the time of their lives with the interesting little locomotive and its string of passenger coaches. The lawn offers the children opportunity to romp in invigorating fresh air while parents enjoy their happiness from comfortable seats and shady bowers.

The new picnic arrangements at the park have met with instant recognition from those who have seen and used the new kitchen tables and the picnic and picnic tables now provided for outing parties. You may secure reservations of a table and pavilion to suit the size of your party by telephoning Sellwood 230.
