

SEASIDE IS THRIVING SUMMER RESORT BY THE HEAVING OCEAN

Place Has Winter Population of 1800 and Four Times That in Summer.

INDUSTRY IS ON INCREASE

Seaside, Or., May 22.—The table upon which I am writing is beside the open window. Looking up from my work I can look out upon ocean leagues of shimmering ocean.

Seaside is sheltered by Tillamook head from the wind so that one is not chilled by a cold sea breeze here.

Seaside was one of Oregon's pioneer beach resorts. It was originally called Holladay after Ben Holladay, the one-time transportation king of the west.

Like Atlantic City Seaside has its "boardwalk," which for three miles parallels the ocean.

Seaside is all-the-year-round population is about 1800. Its summer population is at least four times that figure.

Seaside has made wonderful strides during the past few years. Her fire of a few years ago was a blessing in disguise for all the wooden buildings destroyed were replaced by brick or concrete structures which are a credit to the city.

The full problem is settled for those who care to have driftwood from the beach. Clams, crabs, cod, salmon and other sea foods are abundant and low in price.

Seaside Trading Center. Seaside is located at the mouth of the picturesque Necanicum river, near where the Wahana and Necanic mingle their mountain-born waters with the sea.

Seaside is the trading center for a rich dairying and farming district. Small fruits and vegetables thrive here, and some of the best in the large acreage set out to raspberries and loganberries.

The Hotel Moore has done much to bring tourists to Seaside, not only by long-continued publicity, but by treating those who come here so well that they want to come back.

This morning I visited the Seaside clam cannery. It was started two years ago. They put up minced razor clams and clam nectar.

The steam bath, serves a double purpose. It extracts the clam nectar and also loosens the clams from the shells.

The clams are taken from the steam chest to the cleaning tables, where a line of rubber-aproned young women line up to clean them.

The can is nearly filled with minced clam meat and then nectar is added to completely fill the can.

Seaside's greatest asset, of course, is the sea. This can be to Oregon what Long Beach is to California.

Tourists to Come. Tourists will come here in ever-increasing numbers as transportation facilities are improved.

BRANDEIS SUPPORTED IN A LETTER WRITTEN BY CHARLES W. ELIOT

Letter Arouses Interest Due to Opposition of President Lowell of Harvard.

Washington, May 23.—The judiciary committee made public a letter from Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, urging confirmation of Louis D. Brandeis to the supreme court bench.

The latter was regarded with special interest because of the activity of A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard, in opposition to Brandeis.

"I have known Mr. Louis D. Brandeis for 40 years and believe that I understand his capacities and his character.

He was a distinguished student in the Harvard law school in 1875-76. He possessed by nature keen intelligence, quick and generous sympathies, a remarkable capacity for labor, gentleness, courage and joy in combat."

"Under present circumstances, I believe that the rejection by the senate of his nomination to the supreme court would be a grave misfortune for the whole legal profession, the court, all American business and the country."

The judiciary committee will vote on Wednesday on the nomination.

A great diplomatic victory for President Wilson is what the Kolnische Volkszeitung, Cologne organ of the powerful Center Party in Germany, sees in our State Department's latest note to Berlin, and our acceptance of the Imperial Government's compliance with our demands, and our rejection of every suggestion of a condition attached to this compliance.
