

CHURCH TO OBSERVE HOME COMING

New Pastor Pleased
With Church Here

Rev. Alexander Beers, president of Seattle-Pacific college, is in Portland looking over his new field of labor, to which he has recently been appointed, as pastor of the First Free Methodist church, corner East Ninth and Mill streets. Mr. Beers plans to move to Portland shortly after the close of the college in June, but in the meantime will take charge of the church work over Sunday. Tomorrow Rev. Beers will preach both morning and night, taking for his morning subject "The Personal Touch," and in the evening, "The Believer's Privileges in Christ."

Rev. Mr. Beers says he is becoming greatly interested in his new field in Portland. "I left here 33 years ago," he said, "to attend school to prepare myself for the ministry, and it is very much like returning home to me. I professed religion in '81 at the place known then as Powell's Valley, now known as Gresham. I also joined the annual conference at Beaverton 34 years ago. I have many friends in Portland, have always been in love with the city, and am anticipating much pleasure in working for the moral and educational uplift of this place."

Missionary Topics
Of Year Assigned

The leaders of the missionary society of Mount Tabor Presbyterian church, spent a delightful as well as profitable afternoon with Mrs. A. J. Montgomery last Tuesday. The topics for the coming year were assigned and Mrs. Montgomery gave a very interesting and helpful talk on the work. The program committee have prepared unusually attractive programs, and these will be ready for distribution soon. Great interest is shown in the membership contest now in progress. One side reported seven new members and the other three.

A group of women have been selected to act as boosters for the contest. Another committee which is doing good work is the pastor's aid. Last Friday evening a great many of the members and their friends gathered in the church parlors to offer congratulations to Dr. and Mrs. Moore on their twentieth wedding anniversary. After a short program a general social time followed.

Congregationalists
Gather at Waverly

On Wednesday evening, in the Waverly Heights Congregational church, a large meeting of Congregationalists was held under the auspices of the City Missionary society. The business meeting of the church was preceded by dinner served by the ladies of the Waverly Heights church. For many years the City Missionary society, under the leadership of the late Rev. D. B. Gray, has been a factor in the organization of many of the Congregational churches in Portland. With representatives from each of the Congregational churches of the city, enthusiastic support was given to the work of this society which promises even bigger things for Congregationalism in Portland in the future.

Open Air Concert.
The choir of the Madeline church, under the direction of Frederick W. Goodrich, is rehearsing for a large

ST. ANN'S CHARITABLE SOCIETY HAS GROWN WITH RAPIDITY

Left to right—Mrs. John Frances Shea, charter member; Mrs. James Lotan, senior charter member; Mrs. Edward H. Freeman, charter member.

Thirty-four years ago last Friday a number of Catholic women belonging to the Cathedral parish met in the parlors of the old St. Vincent hospital on North Eleventh street, and organized St. Ann's Charitable society. Archbishop Seghera, who was then head of this division of Oregon, had felt the need of such a society to care for the Catholic sick and poor of the city.

His grace, therefore, called this meeting and organized this society. Officers were elected and the good work began. This was the nucleus of the present St. Ann's Charitable society, one of the largest societies in the city at the present time.

This society has three charter members still on their list of active membership, the senior member being Mrs. James Lotan, who for a number of years occupied the president's chair.

The other charter members are Mrs. Edward Hodges Freeman and Mrs. John Frances Shea.

The present officers of St. Ann's society are: President, Mrs. P. J. Flynn; vice president, Mrs. F. Zimmerman; secretary, Kate Cook, and treasurer, Mrs. Isaac Lawler.

Preparedness Staff
Named for Parade

General Beebe Appoints Men to Assist Marching of Marchers in Coming Pageant.

General Charles F. Beebe, grand marshal of the preparedness parade to be held here Saturday night, June 3, yesterday named most of his staff. Colonel G. T. Willett will be chief of staff.

Other members so far selected are: Captain A. W. Orton, Major James McEl. Wood, Major Dan J. Moore, Colonel Charles E. McDonald, E. T. Chase, Captain F. F. Freeman, H. L. Idelman, James Nicoll, O. Summers, Major C. G. von Egloffstein, B. Neustadter, Ralph Jenkins, Colonel R. G. Jubitz, E. I. Neustadter, Captain W. S. Biddell, Harry L. Corbett, L. Allen Lewis, Captain James D. Shaw, Dr. Andrew C. Smith, Dr. E. F. Tucker, Captain T. T. Strain, Harry Kerron, Hamilton Corbett and V. M. C. Bliva.

The general committee met again yesterday in Judge Gantenbein's chambers and heard reports as to the progress made in arranging for the various divisions. Judge Gantenbein as chairman of the committee presided.

It was announced that the Transpor-

Woodlawn Church
Holds Celebration

With about 300 present, many of them old residents of Woodlawn, the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Woodlawn Methodist Episcopal church came to a conclusion Wednesday evening with a dinner.

A musical program followed the dinner. Rev. Robert Elmer Smith of the Sunnyvale Methodist church delivered an address on "The Glory of the Church." A solo was rendered by H. Pierce, son of the late Rev. G. M. Pierce and founder of the Woodlawn church. The instrumental program was rendered by the Abbott orchestra.

When writing or calling on advertisers, please mention The Journal. (Adv.)

Business Men's Club
Picnic at Nursery

The Progressive Business Men's club will hold a picnic on Decoration day at Weed's landscape nursery near Beaverton. Arrangements have been made for athletic events of all sorts, basket luncheon, barn dancing and several tournaments.

Rev. George Schooner, the plant wizard, will give a lecture and demonstration of how new varieties of plants are created. The members of the club are asked to bring basket lunches. Coffee will be furnished by Mr. Weed.

Among the events will be, for men 100 yard dash, one forward and one backward; high jump; broad jump; high kick and a wheelbarrow race for fat men over 200 pounds. For the ladies: Egg race, quilt pitching and a ball driving contest. This part of the entertainment will be in charge of W. P. La Roche, Dr. J. F. Drake and George M. Leach. There will be a baseball game between two selected teams with Alex Adair and George Jackson as captains.

J. J. Stitzel and Roy Edwards are making arrangements for tennis tournaments and Dr. J. G. Swenson and A. W. Foster for croquet tournaments.

Above, left to right—Turner's hall, Sunnyside, where meetings were held. Rev. J. J. Staub, pastor. First church built. Below—Limestone edifice of Sunnyside Congregational church.

The Sunnyside Congregational church expects to celebrate "Home Coming Day" together with the celebration of the twenty-fourth anniversary of its foundation, on next Sunday, June 4.

All the services of the day will partake of the spirit of this occasion. The Sunday school is working on a record breaking attendance in all its classes. The Christian Endeavor society begins its part of the celebration at 4:30 p. m., with a number of guests who were formerly members of this organization.

They will spend an hour in reminiscences of former days. At 8 o'clock a social tea will be served and at 8:30 o'clock they will retire to the parlor of the church for a Christian Endeavor mass meeting.

The pastor, Dr. J. J. Staub, expects to preach a sermon in the morning, appropriate to the event, touching on the lights and shadows of the past and pointing to the superb opportunity which confronts this church at the present time.

The membership desires to extend to all who were formerly members or attendants of this church a royal welcome to come home for this birthday celebration.

E. E. Hyatt, chairman of the automobile committee, will be glad to loan the names of those who could not otherwise attend and will see to it that they are conveyed to the church by machine. Such names should be sent to the pastor at once.

Among the specially interesting features of the evening services which will form the climax of the day, will be short addresses by former members and friends of the church. A senior quartet whose ages aggregate over 280 years will render a selection. A double quartet of former members of the choir will assist the regular choir and render selections of its own.

LEIGHTON'S MAGNIFICENT ESTABLISHMENT IS OPENED;
IS LARGEST CONFECTIONERY STORE AND GRILL IN WEST

J. H. Leighton Adds a Splendid Institution to Portland's Business Life—Approximately $45,000 Spent in Furnishings and Equipment—Val Deveroux and A. Stadler Design and Build Beautiful Interior.

With the formal opening of Leighton's, in the Morgan building, Friday, Portland added to its business life a confectionery store and grill which in number and as one of the largest, most costly and beautiful on the western slope of the continent.

Having an average width of 80 feet on the ground floor of the Morgan building, the store extends 200 feet back from the main entrance, at Broadway, to Park street.

More than 12,000 feet of floor space is given over to the retail end of the business alone. In addition, fully as much space is occupied in the basement and on the mezzanine floor and balcony by the kitchens, bakery, offices, candy and ice-cream factories.

In short, the Leighton's has created an institution unique in the degree that it manufactures virtually all edibles that are sold over its counters or served at its tables. It gives steady employment to more than 50 persons, and incidentally represents an investment of not less than $45,000. Most of the materials used bear the "Made-in-Oregon" label.

The interior arrangements, furnishings and color scheme make for splendid effects. The modern Baroque style of architecture is followed. The high ceilings, supported by stately columns, are finished in delicate ivory and light green, while the walls, in similar tones, are offset with rich mahogany wainscoting. Trimmings are in mahogany also. The interior decorating was done by Charles Ammann and is considered one of the best examples of the art to be seen in Portland.

The diffused system of illumination is followed. Light is furnished by powerful nitrogen electric incandescent incandescently wrought fixtures which were made especially for the establishment by the J. C. English Company. The wiring system called for highly technical work on the part of the Pierce-Tomlinson company, because a part of the system that had been installed by the former occupant, the Rainbow Grill, was requisitioned.

All tables and chairs are of mahogany and were made in Portland by the architectural contracting firm of Deveroux & Stadler, which designed and supervised the entire work.

The first thing to strike the eye of passers-by is the huge marquee that extends over the Broadway entrance. It was built in Portland by J. C. Bayer, and consists of steel and art glass. It is the first built under the new ordinance which provides that no marquee shall have a depth of more than 24 inches.

The art glass work in this and in the panels of the confectionery and refreshment counters just inside the main entrance was done by Ed Bruns in his local factory.

The tile flooring, which extends back for 50 feet or more and the tiled front were installed by the Northwest Tile & Mantel Company. The beautiful sign work on windows, counters and at the entrances was done by the L. C. Miles Sign Company.

The kitchens are marvels for compactness and completeness. Here have been installed huge aluminum caldrons for preparing soups, huge ranges for cooking meats and vegetables, and patented machines that with live steam and boiling water wash more dishes in a few minutes than a crew of men could handle in an hour.

In an adjoining room is found the baking plant, where pastries, bread, cakes and similar products are turned out in wholesale lots for the tables. A specially constructed bake oven, that is heated either by gas or wood, occupies one end of the room. The remaining sides are fronted by shelves ranging upward from long tables, where the bakers, in immaculate white garments, prepare materials for the master baker.

Over these departments, Davis Cappa, one of Portland's leading chefs, presides. For the thorough plumbing work in these departments, Chief Cappa has W. S. Fleming to thank. When the fair all other plumbing work within the establishment, also something that called for steam fittings along with innumerable water connections.

The first thing one meets in the basement are long lines of refrigerators, wherein are stored big supplies of foods, ranging from huge sides of beef to dressed poultry, eggs and milk. Each kind of meat is stored in a compartment by itself. The refrigerators are electrically lighted and are double-doored.

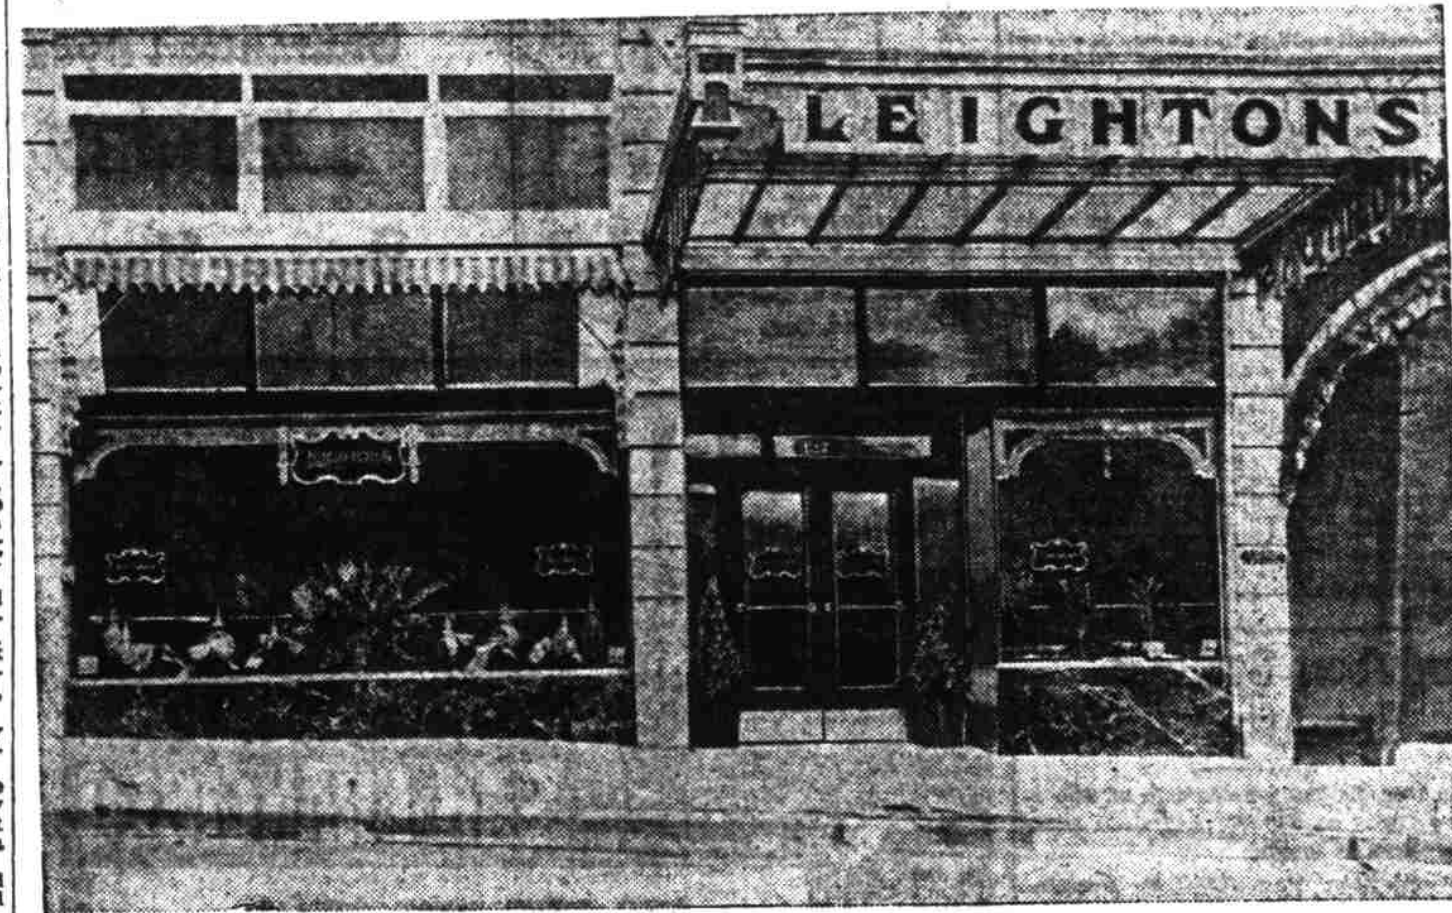

Passing them, one steps into the ice-cream factory. Here electrically operated machines make ice for the establishment, and in addition turn the wheels of the big cream freezers. The machine has a capacity of 3000 pounds of ice every 24 hours.

Ice, however, is not used in making the ice cream. Instead of following the old freezing method, which calls for ice and salt, the freezers are kept at a temperature of 15 degrees below zero by a special direct ammonia system. The ice-machine works and ice-cream factory were installed by the Harris Ice Machine Works.

At the rear of the store is the mezzanine floor, shut away from a view of the main store by walls. Here is the candy factory, wherein is manufactured all the Leighton candies for the wholesale and retail trade. The equipment for the factory, along with the bake shop and soda fountain, were put in by Gray, McLean & Percy.

Fronting it and extending along the wall is the balcony. At the farther end are the general offices, and the remainder is given over to guest tables. A broad staircase, lined with ferns and palms, leads to the balcony from the main floor.

The opening of Leighton's marks the climax of the seven-year business career of Mr. Leighton in Portland. Coming to the city for the first time during the Lewis and Clark Exposition, in 1908, he opened a small restaurant on the fair grounds. When the fair closed he left Portland, but returned in 1909, when he opened the Peerless Cafeteria, on Fifth street, the first of its kind in Portland. From that time on success marked his efforts, and he soon built a fortune that enabled him to open his present establishment.

LEIGHTON'S BEAUTIFUL NEW $45,000 ESTABLISHMENT OPENS
IN MORGAN BUILDING

Exterior View of Portland's New Confectionery Store and Grill—Broadway Entrance.

W. S. Fleming General Plumbing Contractor Plumbers' Supplies, Bubbling Fountains, Portable Showers 70 SIXTH STREET Phone Broadway 2083	J. C. English Company Lighting Fixtures 181 Union Ave. N., Cor. Irving C-1266—Phone—East 1245	Gray, McLean & Percy BAKERS' AND CONFECTIONERS' TOOLS AND SUPPLIES Soda Fountains and Sundries Corner Fourth and Glisan Sts.	Northwest Tile & Mantle Co. 508 Lumber Exchange Bldg. Marshall 1015 Tiling for Mantels, Bathrooms, Floors, Vestibules, Hearths and Porches.	L. C. Miles SIGNS PHONE MAIN 4245 Properly Placed for Particular People 281 1/2 Morrison St., Cor. 8th Rooms 4, 5, 6	Electrical Service Installation, Repairs, Supplies Pierce, Tomlinson Electric Co. 286 OAK ST. Marshall 4977 A-3464
CHARLES AMMANN Interior Decorator and Designer Modern Fresco Artist High-Class Wall Decorating a Specialty OFFICE, 201 Worcester Bldg. Builders' Exchange		J. C. BAYER ESTABLISHED 1875 ROOFING, MARQUISES, COR- NICES, SKYLIGHTS, METAL WINDOWS, KALAMINE DOORS. Agent for Meurer's Roofing Specialties, Glad- ding, McBean & Co.'s Architectural Terra Cotta. Phones: Main 461, Home A-4461. Factory: Front and Market.	No Glare Auto Lens Patent Pending Ed. Bruns Co. Designers and Manufacturers ART GLASS Studio and Works 43 1/2 First Street, Cor. Ash, Broadway 854.	The Harris Ice Machine Works H. E. HARRIS, Proprietor Ammonia Valves and Fittings Pipe Bending Steam Condensers Filtering Apparatus Ammonia and Salt in Stock 174, 176, 178 East Water Street, PORTLAND, OREGON.

All Fixtures
and the Entire Work of
REMODELING, DESIGNING AND DECORATING
LEIGHTON'S was done by Deveroux & Stadler
Interior Designers and Decorators
Office 345 1/2 Washington St. Factory 500 Loring St.