New Rates Please Baker Lumbermen

Mills Are Put on Equal Competitive Basis With Those of Spokane Zone by Mailing of Commission. Baker, Or., May 30.—Local lumbermen are rejoicing at the ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission, giving eastern Oregon mills a through rate on eastbound shipments over the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads, into territory tributary to these trunk lines. It puts local mills on an equal competitive basis with the mills in the Spokane zone and other lumber sections of Washington. Hitherto local freight between Baker and Pendleton from 13 cents to 15 cents per hundred, practically kept local mills out of the territory, but now with a through rate, the territory is opened not only to Baker mills, but all eastern Oregon lumber manufacturers.

Big Fife and Drum Corps Will March

Men and Boys Wanted to Take Part in Preparedness Parade to Be Held on Evening of June 3. Terry, well known real estate man, who got his start in life as a drummer, has issued a call for all the drummers and fifers in Portland to turn out. Drummers and fifers of all ages are wanted, but especially old soldier drummers and fifers, veterans who were perhaps drummer boys in the civil war and who still have the old drum. Fifers who can play the old wartime tunes, "Yankee Doodle," "Marching Through Georgia" and the like, are asked to get out their fifes. Old army drummers who can play the base drum with two sticks are wanted. It is hoped to form a mammoth drum

Let the Best Lawyers Advise YOU

"The more you know of the other side, the more chance you have of winning your case," argues the lawyer. No shrewd lawyer trusts to look alone to win a suit. He knows that a judge and jury suspect that somewhere between his claims and his opponent's contentions rests the truth. So he fortifies himself with a knowledge of all of the law and the facts, and thus armed, he is prepared to shed such a light upon the truth at the proper time as will prove irresistibly favorable to his client. In political and civic discussion the broad-gauged lawyer is a potent molder of public opinion, for, applying the same keen regard for all of the facts, he naturally turns to THE LITERARY DIGEST to get them. And to supply men and women of the same standard of mental alertness in every profession, business, and occupation, requires 500,000 copies of the DIGEST each week. In a couple of hours' reading these keen-minded people learn all sides of the war news, they keep in touch with the advances of science and invention; the writing changes in foreign and domestic politics are shown to them; the newest and best in Art and Literature are reviewed; Sports, the Opera, and the Drama, in fact, public opinion on every branch of world activity, is revealed graphically. All of the interest and all of the facts are there, the non-essentials and the muck alone being absent. That's why Lawyers quote it in Court; that's why they recommend it to their clients; that's why one Lawyer in every three—more than 40,000 in all read it weekly, altho it is not a law journal. Whatever your business, occupation, or profession, THE LITERARY DIGEST will be of just as much service to you.

SOME OF THE BIG NEWS-FEATURES IN THE LITERARY DIGEST FOR MAY 27th

Is Intervention in Mexico Now Imminent?

This disquieting question seems to be forcing itself with growing insistence on the press of the country. With virtually every available unit of our mobile army on the Mexican border or in Mexico, with the Militia of Texas, Arizona, and New Mexico mobilized for patrol duty, with American citizens once more warned to leave Northern Mexico, and with Carranza's seeming inability to check banditry, some of our most sober and responsible papers seem to be losing faith in Mexico's ability to work out her own salvation unassisted. In THE LITERARY DIGEST for May 27th, the leading feature is a complete summary of American newspaper opinion upon the entire Mexican situation.
