

What Society is Doing

BY NONA LAWLER

LAST evening at their Irvington residence in Tillamook street Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Lewis Mead entertained with one of the largest and most elaborately appointed receptions of the season, the occasion being their fifteenth wedding anniversary. They received in a veritable garden of flowers, the gifts of their guests, and about the rooms were clever and elaborate crystal decorations, carrying out the idea of the crystal wedding. Lace-like chains of little crystal icicles were festooned among the flowers over the chandeliers and doorways. Mrs. Mead received in a handsome imported gown of white satin and silver brocade made en traine, with crystal beaded bodice over a silk lace petticoat, fashioned with cascades of the ruffled lace. She carried a huge lily bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Mabel Williams, who was her bridesmaid, stood with the bride and bridesmaid. At 9 o'clock the Wilder string orchestra, which played in the upper hallway during the evening, played the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin," and the bride couple of 15 years ago marched through the rooms to the dining room, where Mrs. Mead cut a huge bride's cake.

Mrs. Delphine Marx, who will appear in farewell recital tomorrow evening at the Masonic Temple.

More than 200 guests called between the hours of 8.30 to 11 o'clock. Little Grace Wells, received the cards at the door, and those who assisted the hostesses about the rooms were: Mrs. Andrew R. Porter, Mrs. H. W. Wells, Mrs. W. B. Pfeiffer and Miss Sally Patch. Presiding at the piano were Misses Marie and Helen Haller, Margaret Porter and Alberta Bair, the latter two, Misses Porter and Bair, are just being welcomed home from school in the east.

A buffet supper was served from the dining room, where the decorations of pink sweet peas arranged in an artistic basket were particularly effective.

For Mrs. Scranton.
Miss Vella Winner entertained most delightfully yesterday afternoon with an informal tea at the Benson hotel rose room, honoring Mrs. Edison E. Scranton, who with her husband, Lieutenant Scranton, commander of the U. S. S. Marblehead, recently came here to make Portland their home. Lieutenant Scranton is a cousin of Miss Winner. About 60 guests called from 4 until 6 o'clock. The decorations were most artistic and in harmony with the draperies of the room, in bright pink roses and a profusion of maiden hair fern. Mrs. Frank J. Durham and Mrs. E. C. Thompson presided at the tea and coffee urns and a bevy of girls from the State university who recently returned from Eugene for their summer vacation. The guests included: The Misses Hattie Lucas, Myrtle Smith, Beulah Hayes, Ruth Fraley, Vivien Pallette and Marian Coffey.

Features of the afternoon's entertainment were the violin solos by Master Louis Kaufman and soprano solos by Miss Zella Knox. Mrs. Frank Lieblich accompanied Master Kaufman and Miss Lillie Hansen accompanied Miss Knox.

Honoring Mrs. George W. Boschke
Honoring Mrs. George W. Boschke of San Francisco, Mrs. John Twombly entertained a merry group of 12 girls, honoring Miss Nellie Robertson, a bride-to-be, Saturday evening, June 10. The rooms were prettily decked with quantities of roses and ferns, pink and white being the color scheme. A miniature fish pond, attended in ferns and moss, proved a unique receptacle for numerous gifts for which Miss Robertson skillfully fished. Pink and white was also used in the dining room, the hostess, Miss Caroline Testout buds marking the places at the tables.

Miss Trowbridge is Visitor.
Miss Cornelia R. Trowbridge arrived last evening from her home in New York to visit her brother, George M. Trowbridge, during the summer months. Owing to the illness of Miss Trowbridge at the hospital, Miss Trowbridge is for the time being the guest of Mrs. Benjamin F. Irvine, in Irvington.

St. Ann's Society to Meet.

INTESTINAL TROUBLES CURED BY PARAFFINE

The discovery of the medicinal value of the use of liquid paraffine, as an internal lubricant in cases of constipation is a recent triumph of medical science. This natural oil (Amoroli) enters the alimentary canal, softens the food contents, forms an oily film over the walls of the intestines, thereby assisting peristaltic action and facilitating passage, at the same time protecting the tender surface of the mucous membranes. It acts solely as an assistant and lubricant. It is not absorbed or assimilated by the system, and does not act upon or irritate any muscle, nerve or membrane. In addition to its antiseptic properties, the use of Amoroli tends to rid the intestines of all poisonous toxins, and thus prevents their absorption by the system. Amoroli is a superior product of paraffine oil. It is highly refined, colorless, odorless, tasteless, easy to take, agreeable, effective and absolutely harmless. Amoroli is sold by all Owl drug stores. A full pint bottle for only fifty cents.

NATIONAL GUARD NOTES

Junior National Guard Loyal Efficient, Popular Commander.

Active Junior Officer Leaves.
Major Homer B. Millard, who for the past three years has taken a very active interest in the organization of the Junior National Guard, will leave tomorrow for Culver, Ind., to attend the military academy of that name, with the intention of preparing himself for West Point. Major Millard has been commanding two battalions of the Juniors, the inspector-instructor of which has been First Lieutenant E. E. Walker, the O. N. G., and has shown himself to be a natural organizer. The boys have made good, nearly a score enlisting in the O. N. G., and many receiving that training that will make them better defenders of their country should preparedness ever be translated into action. It is expected that Lieutenant Fred R. Dierking will be promoted to succeed Major Millard.

Sanitary Troop Full Up.
The sanitary troops have completed the absorption of the typhoid prophylaxis, three applications of which were given in days apart very much after the manner of vaccination. It is considered a sure preventative of typhoid, and it is claimed that it has been conclusively demonstrated to be such in the military camps of Europe. As yet no attempt has been made to apply the "dope" to the members of the O. N. G. The sanitary corps is full up and some over, but would take on a new group of recruits in view of the expected authorization of an increase from 16 men to 24.

Supply Company Supplied.
The supply company held a social and lecture hour last night after drill. W. F. Smith lectured on "Military Law," and camp refreshments followed. The supply company can show any young man contemplating "preparedness" how to look after the necessities of a regiment.

Naval Expert Here.
Edward C. Gillette of Washington, D. C., superintendent of naval construction, bureau of lighthouses, is a Portland visitor.

Engineer is Guest.
E. E. Howard of Kansas City, member of the firm of Harrington, Howard & Asch, engineers in charge of construction of the new interstate bridge, is a guest at the Portland.

Bed Time Tales

BY CLARA INGRAM JUDSON

Mrs. Bat's Supper.
ONE EVENING just after sunset Mrs. Brown Bat stretched her great broad wings and wiggled her long toes. Such funny, long toes they were too. So long that the skin that was stretched from toe to toe made the whole of her wing. If your toes were as long compared with your body as Mrs. Bat's were, they would be two feet long and father's and mother's toes would be four feet long—doesn't that seem funny?

But of course it didn't seem queer to Mrs. Bat, for that was the way her wings were formed and she was quite used to long toes—naturally. She stretched her toes and shook her wings and, being so long and rather awkward, these wings touched Brown Bat, who happened to be sleeping near by, and waked him up. "What's the matter?" said Brown Bat.

"I just feel like waking up," replied Mrs. Brown Bat. "I think I'll fly out and get me a bit to eat."

"Better wait a while," advised Brown Bat. "Don't you see that there is still some light?" (You see, Brown Bat could not see a bit to eat.) "I'm sure a good deal of the light is still out there," said Mrs. Brown Bat. "I'll be careful, and anyway the darkness will soon be here." So she flew gracefully out of the old sycamore trunk, and that was the time Willy Wood-rat had his best view of her. Never was there a bird who could fly more gracefully than Mrs. Brown Bat! She circled round and round, all the while getting lower and lower and closer and closer toward the creek.

She circled 'round and 'round, all the while getting lower and lower and closer and closer toward the creek.

She circled 'round and 'round, all the while getting lower and lower and closer and closer toward the creek.

Such a feast, as there was there, too! No wonder she wanted to wake up and get some supper! The mosquitoes (great, fat ones!) hummed about the little crease and Mrs. Brown Bat had a fine meal. "Brownie is missing it this time," she said to herself. "He ought to be here."

Sour Milk.
[Copyright, 1916, by Lillian Russell]
WHILE thousands upon thousands of women of mature age are attempting to reduce, those trying to increase their weight are leagued in the matter of weight few women are satisfied with their physical condition. Those who are satisfied with their poundage are generally fat. They are of the phlegmatic tribe that thrives upon contentment and indifference.

A physician once made the remark that he could put fat on a telephone pole with raw eggs and milk. This showed his confidence in such a diet. Incidentally it is the most widely prescribed diet in cases where it is desired to build up physical strength and add fat cells to the tissues. Perhaps physicians have more confidence
