10,000 PERSONS PACK STAND SECOND DAY OF PHILOMATH ROUND-UP

Wildly Cheering Mob Sees Better Time Made and More Exciting Exhibitions.

VERNON IS AGAIN STAR

Vast Crowd Is Thrilled by "Buck" Foster, Who Sticks to Mount That Turns Complete Somersault.

Albany, Or., June 24.—Ten thousand wildly cheering people packed the grandstand and bleachers at Round-up park Friday for the second day of the Philomath Round-up.

The time was better on the average than on the first day, and the events more exciting and run off faster. While "Buffalo" Vernon was the central object, he had a harder time than on the first.

Thrown From Horse.

He was thrown from the bucking horse he was attempting to ride and his time in the bull-dogging event was slower, 1:25, but he cut five seconds from Thursday's time in the steer roping event, completing the task in 24½ seconds. He also had hard luck in capturing wild horses and one outlaw with two lariats on its neck jerked the third one through Vernon's hands, burning them.

The vast crowd held it's breath when "Buck" Foster, on a wild horse, stayed with his mount when it turned a complete somersault and came out uninjured.

Ed Bush was the star in the bucking contest Friday, staying with a bad animal until it was subdued.

Lola Oneil Is Winner.

Lola Oneil won the second day event in the cowgirls' race, defeating Edith Ray, yesterday's winner, in 29 seconds, and cutting one second from yesterday's time.

"Shorty" Hall increased his lead in both the pony express and the relay races.

"Broncho" Bob Hall's drunken ride and his bull-dogging a steer from an automobile furnished thrills and the acts were warmly applauded.

Weather Ideal.

The weather was ideal and the crowd in fine humor and enthusiastic. Every inch of seating space was filled.

Over one thousand autos were parked at the grounds. Today is Salem, Eugene and Portland day, and the greatest crowds of the week are expected.

16 TROOPERS FOUND, TELL OF MASSACRE

unequal fight, but they say the ambushed negro troops fought gamely and with telling effect against the horde of their enemies.

No Right to Prisoners.

Army officers here are exceedingly anxious to learn the Carranza government's plans for disposition of the 17 prisoners captured at Carrizal and now held, it is reported, in prison at Chihuahua. Since no "state of war" exists between the United States and Mexico, it was pointed out that the de facto government has no legal right to hold these men as "prisoners of war," that phraise being the one employed by Carranza officials in describing their capture.

Funston has been authorized to organize the following regiments:

To Organize Regiments.

Thirty-fourth infantry, at El Paso; Thirty-fifth infantry, at Douglas; Thirty-sixth infantry, at Brownsville; Thirty-seventh infantry, at Fort Sam Houston; Sixteenth cavalry, at Fort Sam Houston; Seventeenth cavalry, at El Paso; Seventh and Eighth field artillery; First and Second regiment of engineers. Two companies of engineers will be organized at Vancouver and a mounted battalion at Columbus, and the remainder at Fort Sam Houston.

Enlisted men will be transferred from other regiments to form the nucleus for the new units. The officers will be designated by the war department. There will be no second lieutenants in these regiments, under the new army bill.

San Antonio, Texas, June 23.—(I. N. S.)—Only seven survivors of the Mexican treachery at Carrizal have straggled back to Pershing's column.

"I fear that these seven enlisted men are the only survivors of the fight," said General Funston tonight after receiving an additional report from General Pershing.

A mounted charge of Mexicans in force on the flank of the trapped Americans as they were throwing themselves from their horses to answer with their carbines the machine gun fire from front and the other flank—this is the sensational new feature of the battle told by the troopers who got back to the main column today.

In the midst of the withering blast of the machine guns and the wild swoop of the charging, yelling, Mexican cavalry, the horses of the Americans stampeded and the dismounted troopers were left fighting for their lives. They faced, now the horsemen of the enemy, now the lines of infantry, as the cavalry swung aside, and again the machine guns that reopened fire whenever a field of fire was cleaned for them.

El Paso, June 23.—(I. N. S.)—All women and children have been ordered out of Juarez by General Francisco Gonzales, the garrison commander, in anticipation of a fight with General Bell's forces tonight. The movement has already started.

Many of the women have endeavored to cross to the American side, but only those who are known to the immigration authorities are being allowed to pass. The greatest exodus is in the direction of the hills in the rear of the Mexican town.

San Antonio, Texas, June 22.—(I. N. S.)—General Funston fears all of the two troops at Carrizal who have not now been accounted for were killed, captured or seriously wounded.

General Pershing reports that nothing has been heard from the two squadrons sent to their rescue. These troopers are supposed to be scouring the country west of Carrizal for survivors under orders to bring in the dead and wounded.

Chihuahua City, Mex., June 23.—(I. N. S.)—Seven more American troopers were brought here as prisoners of Mexican military authorities today. They had been captured on the desert in the vicinity of the Carrizal battlefield. Several of them were wounded and all were sorely stricken from privations. Since Wednesday they had wandered over the sand wastes without food and water.

These troops, all colored, bring the total captured by the Mexicans up to 24. This number does not include the Mormon scout, Spillsbury, also taken. There was a total of 96 in the two troops.

American Prisoners Spit Upon.

On the same train which brought the prisoners came also the body of General Felix Gomez, killed in the action. The populace turned out as one to meet the train. Driven to a frenzy by their bitter hatred of the gringoes, they spat upon the American soldiers and did honor to the body of the Mexican general in turn.

General Jancinto Trevino, Carranza's commander of the northeast, had taken every precaution to shield the prisoners from violence at the mob's hands, furnishing them with a large detail of soldiers as a guard. The crowd followed the troopers to the carcel, however, cursing and hooting at them. Even the women, carrying babies in their arms, ran along the sidewalks in the wake of the mob.

Trevino Issues Statement.

General Trevino, who has assumed all responsibility for Gomez' attack on the Pershing detachment, issued a statement today. He challenged General Hugh Scott's assertion at the El Paso conference that American military men were least of all desirous of war with Mexico.

"The United States army men are eagerly awaiting a chance to fight Mexico," he declared. "They have disobeyed the orders of their own commanders in their actions in our country, displaying no respect whatever for the feelings of Mexican citizens or their property. They have treated the dispositions of the Mexican government with utter contempt."

Ready to Fight United States.

Reiterating his former declaration that he would forcibly oppose the movements of General Pershing's troops in any direction except toward the border, General Trevino concluded with the statement that he was ready to meet the United States on the field of battle.

"I am both ready and willing to fight," he said, "now that the honor and dignity of my country is at stake, and every loyal son of Mexico is ready likewise. I do not want war, and have done my utmost to preserve peace. The Americans, it seems, are determined to make peace an impossibility."

Trevino Seeks Villa Recruits.

Every effort is being made by General Trevino to induce Villa forces to join his army. At present he is negotiating with Hernandez, Contreras and other Villista chieftains.

General Gomez was the first of the Mexican forces to fall, from reports of officers who arrived with the body. Apparently the American soldiers concentrated their fire on him at the outset because of his large bulk. Three bullets pierced his breast.

A report from Colonel Zuazua, at Namiquipa, states that the American base there has been practically abandoned. Two hundred rifles which the Americans confiscated from Villa bandits were left by General Pershing for ranchers in that vicinity.

Supplies Sent Pershing.

Columbus, N. M., June 23.—(I. N. S.)—Four field guns and 100,000 rounds of small arms ammunition started via motor trucks this morning for General Pershing's field base at Colonia Dublan. Throughout today trucks bearing great quantities of food and other supplies have shot out of Columbus along the southward trail. Work on aeroplanes crippled by unseasoned propellers is being rushed. Urgent calls for the largest and strongest of the machines have been received from General Pershing.

Bed-Time Tales

BY CLARA INGRAM JUDSON

The B. K. Order.

AS LONG as the chickens stood at attention, Mr. Garden Toad croaked his message, but he wasn't a bit sorry when one hen started to talk and thus gave him an excuse for stopping.

"What's that?" he asked, for he was so winded that he didn't quite understand what the hen said.

"I said, that's a good idea, but we'll forget it," repeated the hen.

"Yes, I'm afraid we will," said Yellow Puff, scratching himself thoughtfully.

"Yes, I'm afraid we will," added Downy White, who was now quite big enough to have decided opinions of her own.

"Yes, we will," agreed Mrs. Hen, who was old enough to know what she was talking about.

Mr. Garden Toad looked solemn. Here he had gone to all this trouble (for even the fact that he really wanted to do it, didn't make his croaking any less work); he had made all the chickens listen to his good advice and now they were going to forget it. Too bad, too bad! What was one to do?

"Is there any way I could make you remember?" he asked.

The chickens shook their heads.

And just then Billy Robin flew down to the path; he could restrain his curiosity no longer. "What's all this meeting about?" he asked eagerly. "Standing here in a row as you are, you look like a society, or an order of some sort. What's up?"

"Look like a society?" repeated Mr. Garden Toad, like a society." And then he had his big inspiration. "We are a society! We've just now begun the Be Kind Order and everybody here belongs!"

Such a fluttering as there was then!

All the chickens and the hens thought the idea a fine one and the

"We are a society! We've just now begun the Be Kind Order."

Order was promptly organized with Mr. Garden Toad as head with the title of chief croaker and Billy Robin second with the title of head caller, for he was to notify the members of the time of meeting. And then they began wondering what name they could choose.

"'Be Kind,' is all very well for a motto," said Billy; "but I think we ought to have something else for a name.

Such a scratching of heads and rolling of eyes as there was then, till finally Billy himself solved the difficulty by saying, "What's the matter with B. K.? Isn't that a good name?" And everybody agreed that it was.

So the famous B. K. order was formed and plans were made to take in everybody who wished to belong.

MEXICAN CRISIS WAS BOUND TO COME, SAYS LONDON NEWSPAPER

Trouble Likened to Transvaal Situation; Great Britain to Remain Neutral.

London, June 23.—(I. N. S.)—The first comment on the Mexican situation appeared in the morning papers today.

The Chronicle, noting that the German press has expressed satisfaction over Carranza's hostility, and recognizing that hostility may have been stimulated by German agents, thinks that it was, nevertheless, bound to come, anyway, sooner or later. The paper says:

"Whether Carrizal is the beginning of war remains to be seen. But ever since President Wilson started his interference in Mexican affairs in Huerta's time, events have been leading to that conclusion.

"If war breaks out, it will be more on the lines of the Transvaal than of any now in progress. It may give the United States some trouble; but, not being a war of munitions to any great extent, it would scarcely affect America's influence in the world's conflict."

Inquirers at official quarters today in connection with the crisis between the United States and Mexico were told that Great Britain wishes to continue completely neutral in the Mexican trouble and confidently assumes that Mexico will take measures to protect the British oil properties, even if it takes reprisals.

The Evening Standard says:

"As Washington's attitude is understood here, it is such as to reassure the oil interests."

Release Is Expected.

The American soldiers captured in the Carrizal battle and removed to Chihuahua City by Carranzista captors will be released should there be no further conflict between the American and Mexican forces, was the belief expressed at the Mexican embassy here.

The question of an armed invasion of Mexico hangs today upon the nature of the first report of any commissioned officer who participated in the Carrizal fight, if any are alive.

Following a conference with President Wilson, lasting one hour, Secretary of War Baker at 11 o'clock today said:

"We are obliged to wait for further word from General Pershing before we can determine our course of action.

"The only thing we have thus far, aside from that coming from Mexican sources, is the report of a few stragglers who were considerably in the rear of the point where the Carrizal attack occurred," Baker said.

Men "Scampered Away."

"The men were left to hold the horses and act as a rear guard while the others went forward. Apparently, when the firing began and our horses began to stampede, these men scampered away, so that they were not near the place where the parleying was going on, and probably were considerably back of it when the shooting began.

"We are compelled to wait, therefore," he said, "until we hear from the two troops of cavalry sent out to bring back what remains of the troops engaged in the Carrizal fight. Until we get that report, there is absolutely no change in policy to be considered.

Awaits Pershing's Report.

"The public will not have to wait five minutes for the contents of General Pershing's report when it comes in," Baker said.

The forces under Captain Boyd were under explicit orders from General Pershing to confine their operations exclusively to scouting. They were specifically commanded to engage in no fight, or to make no move which threatened to precipitate a fight, unless actually attacked. If Boyd was commanded stop or refused permission to pass by General Gomez and advanced regardless, he violated his orders, and there will be no declaration of war because of the Carrizal incident.

All Depends on Officers' Version.

If the reports made so far by the escaped negro troops of the Tenth cavalry that Captain Boyd had stopped his march at the command of Gomez, and that the Mexicans fired on the troopers after they had halted are confirmed by an officer, President Wilson's threat of the "gravest consequences" will at once be made good. Action is not to be taken on the word of the colored troopers, because it is realized the enlisted men had no part in the parley between Gomez and Boyd, and could scarcely have been familiar with all the details.

There is no minimizing of the seriousness of the situation at either the White House or the war department. It is admitted that the likelihood of a break has never been so great.

Little Talking Done.

The effect has been sobering. There is little disposition to talk at either the White House or the war department.

Both departments are keyed for action. At both places it is admitted that Pershing's next report will probably decide the issue.

An obvious determination is evident to prevent any one "going off half cocked" as Admiral Mayo said at Tampico when he demanded that Huerta salute the flag.

Captain Morey is expected to prove to be the man who will determine if we are to have war. He was second in command at Carrizal. He is reported to have escaped wounded.

Want Morey's Report.

It is his report General Pershing is awaiting. He is expected to have the details of Boyd's parley with Gomez.

According to the administration officials, a break will find this government prepared. There will be no hasty dash to make a clean-up of the situation. The war will not be a war of conquest, if it is conducted by the present administration. As introduced in congress the resolution authorizing the president to declare war will specifically declare that under no conditions will the United States seek to profit territorially or otherwise by an invasion of Mexico.

Peace to Be Only Object.

The resolution probably will state that the only objective of the invasion will be the restoration of peace in Mexico and the elimination of the menace to the south border of the United States resulting from the present state of banditry. It will state that, upon the restoration of peace, the United States will withdraw its forces and will make clear that no development of the conflict will alter the present boundary line.

This enunciation of purpose by the Wilson administration is certain to precipitate a fight in congress. A number of Republican leaders who have learned of it are prepared to block any resolution which in any way ties the hands of this government.

Republicans Want to Grab.

They characterize the Wilson plan of pacification and withdrawal as visionary, and assert that even though the campaign may be inaugurated in such a way by a Democratic administration, it is apt to be concluded otherwise by a Republican president.

It is probable that the fight to prevent the addition to the war resolution, if one is adopted, of any modifying clauses, which might later prove embarrassing to Hughes, should he be elected, will be led by Senator Harding, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national convention, and a man who is rapidly looming up as one of the aggressive leaders of the conservative element in the senate.

It is expected that a number of southern Democrats who do not share the president's so-called idealistic views on Latin-American affairs, will also oppose the administration plans if a war resolution becomes necessary.

In the event of an actual break with Mexico, it is not expected that the militia organizations will see service south of the border for several months. It is figured at the war department that the situation will call for a heavy border guard, and that, while functioning in this fashion, the militiamen will become acclimated and be ready for real campaigning by fall. In the meantime the regulars and the fleet will be conducting any offensive that the war department plans make necessary.

Pendleton Petition Signed.

Eugene, Or., June 24.—Seven hundred and eight names were obtained in Eugene on the first day the petitions for the establishment of the Pendleton Normal school were circulated in Eugene. It is expected that 3000 will be obtained in Lane county.

14 Aeroplanes Are Ordered for Border

War Department Will Purchase High Powered Machines in Pursuance of Plan to Establish Aerial Patrol.

Washington, June 24.—(I. N. S.)—The war department has ordered 14 high powered aeroplanes in pursuance of its plan to establish an aerial patrol of the Mexican border. The machines with all spare parts will cost approximately $275,000. They are to be supplied by the Sturtevant company of Boston, the Thomas company of Ithaca, the Curtiss company of Buffalo, the L. W. F. company of Long Island City, and the Martin company of California.

The 14 aeroplanes will be dispatched at once to the border.

Campaign to Divide Crook County Starts

Opening Gun Is Fired by Tumalo Development League by Passing of Resolutions Favoring Change.

Bend, Or., June 24.—By unanimously adopting resolutions favoring the division of Crook county at the coming general election in November, the Tumalo Development league of Tumalo, has fired the opening gun of the forthcoming campaign.

Tumalo bids for the cooperation of the commercial bodies of Central Oregon in this campaign basing its appeal upon the heavy vote that was accorded the same proposition two years ago and failed by obtaining only 62½ per cent of the necessary 65 per cent. Tumalo also urges that committees of the various county commercial bodies be appointed to settle upon lines favorable to all communities.

In the second of the pictures, according to Bennie, she wears a Vogue bathing suit in one scene and in another, which is the dormitory of a select girls' school, she wears a pretty negligee with a pajama effect. Which, of course, is all very interesting. The first Triangle Komedy will be released immediately.

RESPONSIBLE OR INTERESTING. Have you ever thought what it means to be really responsible? It means doing, without failure, day after day, month after month, year after year, the right thing, the true thing. "Is he responsible?" This is the question which is first to be asked when a person is to be given charge of important affairs. I believe there is no word in the English language which means so much as this one, in the sense of builded character: for as we use it, character, rather than mere characteristics, is involved. Few can know until after long acquaintance whether or not a person is "responsible." Persons may be interesting, fascinating, brilliant, and all is well as long as mere pastime is the goal; but when it comes to really important things all these qualities are swept aside, and the question asked is but the one, "Is he responsible?" And have you ever observed how almost unerringly a community senses this supreme qualification in one who lives in its midst? Neither talk, "bluff" nor subterfuge can gain for him the feeling that he is responsible when he is not. The same is true of firms. It takes years to build a reputation for responsibility—years of fair dealing, exactness in detail, fulfillment of all obligations. It is for this reason that I advise, when buying articles of importance, go to responsible houses. "Responsible" is a very exacting word. It carries a great load of obligation, and a load which has accumulated slowly, surely and with the passage of time.

LAMB CHOPS WITH PEAS

Two quarts fresh peas, six lamb chops, one teaspoonful salt, one-fourth teaspoonful pepper, juice of one and one-eighth lemons, one teaspoonful corn starch, one teaspoonful onion juice if desired. Brown lamb chops, add peas and seasonings and boiling water to cover. Boil until peas are tender and meat done, about 30 minutes. Remove the chops and thicken the gravy with the corn starch moistened in cold water. Add lemon juice, arrange chops on a platter, and pour peas around them.

STRAWBERRY PARFAIT

Crush one quart strawberries through sieve. Cook one cupful sugar, one-half cupful water until in soft-ball stage. Whip three egg whites stiff. Pour hot sirup over berry pulp and cook thick. Then pour gradually over egg whites, whipping constantly. Cool. Then fold in one pint whipped cream, and freeze same as ice cream.

COOKING OIL. One of the good cooking oils is excellent for making the dressing for the green salad, either the French dressing or the mayonnaise, and it costs far less than does olive oil. Be particular, however, as to the brand, for some cooking oils give a strong taste to the product.

MADAME LA MODE The shorter and fuller a little silk coat is the more successful it usually is.

White handkerchiefs with Dresden flower borders are charming for sports wear.

A silk shawl, cleverly used, can be most effective if worn with Spanish grace.

New bags are full and ruffled, like the skirts, the ruffles having beaded edges.

Royal purple with navy blue is a new color scheme seen in taffeta dresses.

A pretty blouse is of handkerchief linen in white, dotted with delicate color.

WHICH ARE YOU? Do you belong to the put-it-off family, or are you one of the do-it-nows? It makes such a difference. Aunt Jane says she would far rather do all the work herself than to have a put-it-off around the house, and she insinuates that Uncle Henry belongs to the delinquents. She declares that it is like lifting a dead weight, to get a put-it-off to do anything.

PRETTY PORTIERES

Very pretty portieres can be made from leather scraps, known as "binders' scraps." The scraps of leather are cut in strips one-half inch wide and tied in knots, as carpet rags are tied. The more knots the more effective the portieres. A beautiful shade of green leather can be purchased at a bookbinder's for 10 cents or so per pound. Six pounds will be sufficient to make a good-sized portiere.

Nazarines Split on Armed Intervention

Delegates at Pomona, Cal., Convention Divide on Army and Peace Methods to Secure Pacification of Mexico.

Pomona, Cal., June 24.—(I. N. S.)—The question of armed intervention in Mexico has split the Nazarene convention in session here, one faction advocating the pacification of the country by the United States army while the other faction urged "love and peace" for Mexico.

Mrs. M. F. McReynolds led the opposition to intervention, while Rev. Leslie F. Gay, general missionary secretary, advocated intervention.

Seeks End of War.

Rotterdam, June 24.—(I. N. S.)—German newspapers, discussing the Russian offensive, express the opinion that it is due to the fact that the allies are attempting to force an early decision in the war. They declare that the allies are not prepared to fight on for an indeterminate period.

Chat No. 45

IF you haven't planned your Saturday afternoon and evening, you ought to begin now and decide to go where joy and recreation abound. In fact, you ought to come out and visit us at The Oaks and have a Saturday really worth while. You couldn't ask for a better entertainment anywhere. And don't forget the joy wheels, roller coaster, Old Mill, animals and the rest of the fun-givers. The Ladies' Columbian Orchestra is giving a colorful program, including a number of brand-new musical hits. Another treat in store is Miss Alice Juston, our popular young contralto, whose success in the musical realm has been quite pronounced. Enthusiastic throngs applauded the performances both Thursday and Friday, and the same program is on today and tonight for the last time.

A big new program with concert and novelty numbers will open tomorrow.

Charming Glenna Delgado will give her Egyptian dances and the Big Four Quartet and Tine and Edwards will sing.

Tonight would be a splendid time to round up the bunch and have a skating party on our new maple floor. The roller rink is becoming more popular every day, and a large number of the younger set are enjoying the sport. The week has seen a lively succession of picnics and luncheons under the trees at The Oaks. Family picnics are never more enjoyable than in the restful shadow of the rustling oaks, where music and life may be had at will, and the children may swing and gambol on the green or have the merriest, wildest time of their young lives.

The tourist and flower lover delight in our garden collection. The Oaks fairly blossoms with the season's beauties this Summer. Never have the flowers been more abundant or lovely. Getting close to nature is quite a hobby with us, for we've the waters, groves, flowers and animals, combined with sport, that appeal to everyone from rowdy little Willie to staid old Granny.

Also we're planning a regular boys' Fourth, with skyrockets, cannon crackers and all the other flaming, flashing things that thrill the hearts on the anniversary of Independence day.

Remember, the car leaves Second and Alder streets every few minutes and you may go by launch or come in your auto, which will be admitted and parked free.

Beauty Chat BY LILLIAN RUSSELL

The Unwelcome Visitor.

WHILE more than half the middle-aged American men are striving to raise a hirsute covering of a description that will clothe their bald pates, just about as many women who have reached the same milestone in life are engaged in a persistent struggle against gray hair.

The discovery of the first gray hair will send a shiver down the spine of any and every woman. It is accepted as an indication of age. The little stranger may have originated in some disordered physical condition, but no matter what its origin may be, it is never a welcome visitor.

The only woman I have ever found to admire gray hair, found it in the heads of other women. Some may rave about the beauty of a youthful face wreathed in a crown of gray, but they never do when they see such pictures in their own mirrors. I have yet to find the woman who is willing to exchange her dark or flaxen locks for hair of gray.

Many women are prematurely gray, but in this fact there is very little consolation for those whose hair has started to turn from the glossy colors of youth to one of the most general gifts of old age. Prematurely gray-haired women are so frequently encountered, however, that we are becoming inclined not to associate their misfortunes with age.

Human hair is a thing about which scientists seem to know very little. We are told what causes gray hair and baldness and are offered many remedies for both. But I notice there are still a great many bald pates in the masculine kingdom, and nearly as many American queens who wear crowns of gray. There are, however, many ways in which to avoid both annoyances.

Nervousness, digestive disorders and other ailments that lessen the vitality of the scalp, may cause the hair to fall or turn gray. If the scalp is not kept clean and free from dandruff or seborrhea, either is liable to result. A deteriorated circulation of blood through the scalp is sure to affect the hair.

Head exercises have been devised to prevent the hair from turning gray. One of these consists of stretching the body on a flat couch and permitting the head to extend without support, while it is moved slowly backward and forward, or with a rotary motion. This exercise strengthens the muscles and sends the blood coursing through the scalp. You can also exercise in this way with good results while standing erect. Any exercise or diet that has a tendency to improve the general health will have a beneficial effect on the hair.

I am aware that different scalps require different treatments. The varying conditions under which women live also make a difference, but in a general way the treatment is the same. Cleanliness come first. The free circulation of the blood through the scalp is necessary. Some women resort mainly to massaging to stimulate the circulation. Regardless of what other treatments may be adopted, the head must be massaged.

Do not wait for the appearance of the first gray hair as a signal to guard against the loss of your crowning beauty. Give the hair and health the proper attention while your crown retains its natural color. A woman's hair is her crown and just now we are learning that crowns demand a great deal of protection.

Resinol Soap improves poor complexions

If you want a clear, fresh, glowing complexion, use Resinol Soap at least once a day. Work a warm, creamy lather of it well into the pores, then rinse the face with plenty of cold water.

It does not take many days of such regular care with Resinol Soap to show an improvement, because the Resinol medication soothes and refreshes the skin, while the pure soap, free of alkali, is cleansing it.

If the skin is already in bad condition, a short treatment with Resinol Ointment may first be necessary to restore its normal health. Resinol Soap and Ointment are sold by all druggists.

For samples free, write to Dept. 28-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

Men like the way Resinol Shaving Stick soothes the face and prevents most after-shaving discomforts. It makes daily shaving a real satisfaction.
