

DEFENSE RESTS CASE IN ORPET'S TRIAL; IS CONFIDENT OF RESULT

Prosecution Brings Rebuttal and Tries to Show One Witness Was Coached in Story

DEFENSE SCORES AGAIN

Prosecution's Attempt to Decoy Confession Out of Orpet Is Admitted by Mrs. Margaret Youker.

Waukegan, Ill., July 7.—At 10:20 o'clock today the defense in the trial of Will H. Orpet, charged with the murder of Marian Lambert, rested its case. The prosecution immediately began evidence in rebuttal, its first witness being Mrs. Margaret Youker, Orpet's sister-in-law of Celeste Youker, to whom Orpet was reported engaged.

Prior to resting, the defense introduced maps and read the Wisconsin statute prohibiting public sale of cyanide of potassium.

State's Attorney Dady thereupon demanded that Orpet be again called to the stand to answer further questions regarding his access to poisons at Madison drug stores, but Judge Donnelly, after looking up precedents, denied the motion.

Several witnesses were called by Dady in rebuttal. Closing arguments will be completed early next week.

Both Sides Score. Mrs. Youker testified that Attorney Carlin had admonished Dorothy Mason to stir parts of her original story, enlarging upon that part of it in which Marian Lambert said, when informed that Orpet and Miss Youker were engaged, "Sometimes I think life is not worth the living."

The defense on cross-examination, evened matters up, however, by dragging forth the story of the prosecution's attempt to decoy a confession from Orpet through a letter which it forced Celeste Youker to write under threat of making public her letters to Orpet unless she complied. Mrs. Youker admitted that she carried the letter to Orpet in jail, secured an answer and turned it over to Attorney Dady.

Court Reporter Testifies. The next witness in rebuttal was Frank Blakeslee, court reporter, who testified that he saw the spots on Marian Lambert's coat on February 13 and several times thereafter.

The defense yesterday developed a closing attack which it declared was as destructive as a battering-ram. Half a dozen experts were called to the stand, and their testimony contained the following vital points:

Dr. John A. Wesmer, expert toxicologist: The poison spots on Marian Lambert's green coat prove it must have been cyanide of potassium in powder and not in liquid form that caused her death.

Chemist's Testimony Strong. Dr. William D. McNally, coroner's chemist of Cook county: Even had the poison on the coat been in powder form, it could not have been detected more than eight weeks afterward, and yet traces of it were detected on June 13, more than four months after the tragedy.

Dr. William O. Krohn, alienist and nerve specialist: Marian Lambert's history during the last months of her life indicate that she had suicidal tendencies.

Professor John H. Ash, head of the chemistry department of Northwestern university, Professor L. H. Shaw, Carl S. Miner: The material found in the ash house was not potassium cyanide, but sodium cyanide.

These terrific blows fell one after another on the sturdy front and each one of them went far toward demolishing it, according to the defense.

Says She Killed Marian Lambert. Waukegan, Ill., July 7.—(U. P.)—A Montreal, Canada, girl who signed herself "Daredevil," wrote authorities here that she killed Marian Lambert. She warned the authorities that "I love Orpet and if you harm him, beware."

La Boisselle, sometimes using lacrymose shells. "At the Loos salient the enemy artillery was particularly active, and also especially Hulleuch."

The gain today is one of the most important advances scored by the British since the first day of the allies' great offensive.

Severe fighting is going on in the La Boisselle sector, Haig reported. The Germans have suffered heavy losses. "Southwest of this point a determined enemy attack was completely repulsed," reported the British commander-in-chief.

The British gain east of La Boisselle is of particular importance because it links up with the eastward advance of the French north of the Somme. The Germans had massed large forces on this sector and counter attacked desperately in efforts to fling back the British line.

Quiet on the Somme Front. Paris, July 7.—(U. P.)—The lull in the fighting on the French front on both sides of the river Somme, where the allied offensive is under way, continued throughout last night. The war office today reported utter calm on the Somme front. The night passed without infantry fighting on the Verdun front also, although a violent bombardment occurred on the east side of the Meuse, in the regions of Thiamont, Fleury and Chenois wood.

In Le Pretre wood, southwest of Verdun, the Germans made an unsuccessful attack on French trenches. French grenadiers retaliated, cleaning up a German trench and taking many prisoners.

French military critics warn the public today that the lull on the Somme front may continue for a few days while the French organize and prepare for a fresh attack. They point out that the lull on the western front is being followed by increased activity by the Russians, particularly in south-eastern Galicia.

Entire Line in Retreat. London, July 7.—(U. P.)—Reverses by Field Marshal von Hindenburg, Prince Leopold and General von Linsingen have put the entire German line, from Figa to Galicia on the retreat, according to wireless dispatches received here today from Rome.

Heavy Fighting Near Kolomea. Vienna, July 7.—(U. P.)—Indicating that the Austrians to invade the city of Kolomea, today's official statement from the Austrian general staff declares that heavy fighting is raging in that vicinity and also in the region of Lutsk. The statement, for the first time since the war began, specifically mentions German assistance having been given the Austrian legions.

Hungarians Are Alarmed. Geneva, July 7.—(U. P.)—Dissemination between Austrian and Hungarian statesmen over the disposition of the Austro-Hungarian armies was reported in advices received here today.

The Hungarians, greatly alarmed at the prospects of a Russian invasion, successfully persuaded the withdrawal of troops from the Italian front to help check the Slavs. The Italians immediately advanced in the Trentino and the Austrian leaders appealed to the government to stop the transfer of troops from the Italian front, lest Trent and the surrounding region fall into Italian hands.

though it was there that the full brunt of the gale broke. It is feared property damage at Pensacola will greatly exceed that of Mobile.

Some reports, still unconfirmed, said government property at Pensacola, including flying apparatus and buildings, suffered heavy damage. Nearly all the government buildings are located on the waterfront, which the last communication from Pensacola, over 48 hours ago, said was being furiously lashed by giant seas and wind.

Wind velocity at some points along the coast was said to have reached 104 miles an hour Wednesday afternoon. Crop damage about Tallahassee and in southern Alabama will be heavy. Some crops for acres were totally destroyed.

Railroads in the same section also were hard hit. In many places it will require much time to repair damage before even temporary service can be resumed.

Mobile Roofs Ripped Off. Mobile, Ala., July 7.—(U. P.)—Gale stricken Mobile got its first word to the outside today since Wednesday. Heavy damage was done by the gulf storm to sailing craft and steam vessels in the harbor.

Four persons, two of them white, are known to have been drowned. It is feared others may have perished. The damage throughout the city may not exceed $250,000. This damage consisted largely of roofs whipped from dwellings and office buildings at the height of the blow.

Railroad service into the city is still paralyzed. Railroad officials admitted this morning it may be 24 hours before damage can be repaired and service resumed.

Vicksburg Center of Storm. Montgomery, Ala., July 7.—(U. P.)—The gulf storm that has wrought havoc in many gulf coast cities in the past 48 hours was apparently centering inland in the vicinity of Vicksburg, Miss., early today. Reports began to come into Montgomery of the damage done in Pensacola. Mobile and various smaller cities. No loss of life has been reported but the property loss will reach hundreds or thousands, the waterfront having been hit hardest in each of the two cities.

An unverified report from Beloit, Ala., told that 17 negroes had been killed and others injured. For a time it was evident that Mobile and Pensacola were in the very vortex of the hurricane. The wireless station at Mobile was put out of commission by the wind at the same time telegraphic communication with the rest of the state was cut off.

Many Ships Are Missing. New Orleans, La., July 7.—(U. P.)—More than 80 persons are missing, according to reports reaching here at 7 o'clock this morning from various sources. The radio to Mobile and Pensacola was working fairly well at this hour, and it is believed the loss from Thursday's hurricane will be known sometime this afternoon.

Many ships are missing. The Frieda, Captain Wick, with a crew of 21, New Orleans to Progreso, Mexico, is two days overdue, and it is feared she went down. A schooner with 16 aboard, which left Gulfport Thursday afternoon, is still unheard from.

Reports from Chandler, Miss., said five fishing smacks, with crews of six each, were missing. These boats put out Wednesday evening. Pensacola reported only slight property damage. The loss at Biloxi, mostly in the residence section, is estimated at more than $200,000.

Eleven fishing parties which departed for various islands Wednesday and Thursday, were still unheard from, and it is feared they have perished.

BERLIN SAYS SEVERE CHECK ADMINISTERED TO BRITISH OFFENSIVE

By Carl W. Ackerman. Berlin, July 7.—(U. P.)—A severe check has been administered to the British army in the combined Anglo-French offensive, according to reports received here today, and the British have suffered unusually heavy losses.

Since the opening day of the British attack, General Haig's army has been unable to make any important gains against the German line. Forced to abandon shell wrecked first line positions, the Germans retired to their second line north of the Somme, which they threw time and time again British infantry assaults.

It is well understood that the British will resume the offensive, perhaps with greater violence than marked the first day of the forward movement, but the manner in which the German wall withstood the first shock has inspired the greatest confidence in Berlin. A group of British prisoners, captured at the village of Serre, admitted their disappointment at the stubborn German defense.

"We thought it would be a romp after our guns had finished their work," a captured officer was quoted as saying. "Instead, Germans popped out all sorts of funny pieces and got machine guns working on us."

That the French have made some substantial gains south of the Somme is not denied here. But the French gains, it is stated, constitute no serious menace to the German line, which is amply prepared to repel any serious menace on the sector around Peronne.

Both Sides Score. Mrs. Youker testified that Attorney Carlin had admonished Dorothy Mason to stir parts of her original story, enlarging upon that part of it in which Marian Lambert said, when informed that Orpet and Miss Youker were engaged, "Sometimes I think life is not worth the living."

searchlights, eleven bombthrowers and 77 ammunition wagons. This brings the total number of prisoners captured since the offensive began to more than 242,000.

Russian Advance Irresistible. London, July 7.—(U. P.)—A dispatch from Budapest quotes a Hungarian correspondent at the eastern front as saying: "The Russian strength exceeds anything seen in this war heretofore. In some cases they stormed our positions in rows 17 lines deep and their artillery was so absolutely perfect that no troops could dream of standing up to it."

Entire Line in Retreat. London, July 7.—(U. P.)—Reverses by Field Marshal von Hindenburg, Prince Leopold and General von Linsingen have put the entire German line, from Figa to Galicia on the retreat, according to wireless dispatches received here today from Rome.

Albany Chautauqua Open for the Season. Miss Pearl Brandon, of Portland, is in Charge of Junior Meetings, Which Will Be a Feature.

Albany, Or., July 7.—The ninth annual Albany Chautauqua assembly opened here this morning with prospects for a successful 10 days' session. The officers of the local Chautauqua, which is one of the three independent institutions of the kind in the state, the other two being located at Gladstone and Ashland, have arranged for a good program of literary and entertainment talent, and all the educational departments are new to authorities in their lines.

The assembly opened with Junior Chautauqua, in charge of Miss Pearl Brandon, of Portland, at 9 o'clock. Bishop W. M. Bell, D. D., LL.D., of Los Angeles, who will have a prominent part in the session, opened his Bible study class, and Miss Lillian Thordarson, domestic science instructor in Albany high school, gave her introductory lesson in cookery.
