

SHERMAN COUNTY IS TO MAKE SHOWING IN WHEAT THIS SEASON

Prospects Not Very Bright Earlier in Year, Now Indicate Good Returns.

SOME FIELDS ARE WEEDY

Work on Roads is Reflected in Condition of the Growing Crops Along the County Highways.

By Hyman H. Cohen.

Wasco, July 7.—Earlier reports would scarcely have placed Sherman county on the wheat map this season, but a remarkable change has been shown in cereal crop prospects during the last few weeks, and the wheat crop outlook at this time is for a normal yield.

The crop is fully three weeks later than usual, but the bulk of the planting done in the spring makes general harvest operations still later in the season.

It is safe to say that fully three-quarters of the wheat crop of the county this season is of spring planting, while the normal is perhaps 75 per cent fall planting, and in some seasons still greater.

Fall wheat is the blight crop of Sherman county. This is due generally to the fact that there is not an over-abundance of moisture for the spring sowing. This season there is every expectation that the spring planting will not only be as good as the fall acreage in point of production, but some of the fields are likely to be better.

Fall wheat is literally covered with weeds, the result of too much moisture. Sherman county grain growers have the reputation of being good farmers, but all their efforts were of little avail in keeping the pests down during the 1916 season.

Some Parts O. K.

In some of the road districts where the supervisors have done their duty, the crops are in fine shape and fairly clean, despite the fact that this is a weed season generally throughout the Pacific northwest. Where the roads and lanes have been kept free of weeds and other weeds, the grain fields clearly show this fact. Elsewhere, where the road men have done nothing, the fields are full of weeds and this is likewise reflected in the crop showing.

Striking Garment Workers in Protest

Over 35,000 Men and Women Parade in New York; Manufacturers Kept Shop Closed, Refusing to Arbitrate.

New York, July 7.—(U. P.)—A monster demonstration of striking garment workers was staged here today when upwards of 35,000 men and women paraded through the streets of the east side and then to Madison Square.

The parade was in protest against the manufacturers who have kept their shops closed for 10 weeks, refusing to arbitrate with the strikers.

DEATH OF HILL MAY BRING CHANGES IN NORTH BANK LINE

Gradual Strengthening of the Northern Pacific One of Suggested Changes.

Railroad men of the northwest are rather looking for some subtle changes to come over the Spokane, Portland & Seattle railway since James J. Hill's death has removed one of the dominating figures of its control.

One of these suggested changes is the gradual strengthening of the influence of the Northern Pacific, which, though equal owner with the Great Northern in the stock holdings, has rather deferred to the other railroad owner in matters of policy.

In spite of this unquestioned predominance of the Great Northern influence in the North Bank road, the line has always been operated on a neutral basis, shipments originating on the S. P. & S. being diverted on a 50-50 basis to the lines of the parent companies.

Some Portland railroad men profess to believe that President J. M. Hannaford of the Northern Pacific lines will make his own strong personality felt hereafter. They say he has rather held aloof during the last few years of deference for Mr. Hill and the Hill position in the world's transportation systems.

Whether or not this will eventuate into the practical independence of the North Bank local students of transportation do not venture to guess. It has often been asserted, however, that the time is bound to come when the North Bank will be required to earn its own dividends rather than merely hold the situation in check for the owners, who are themselves rivals for business in the same northern territory.

Murdock to Speak At Cottage Grove

Cottage Grove, Or., July 7.—Victor Murdock, who is nearly as well known to the several hundred former Jay-hawkers here because of his red hair and freckled face, as because of his prominence in the politics of the nation, will deliver an address here July 15.

Mr. Murdock comes to fill the number he was billed to give during the Chautauqua. His address was written against the manufacturers who have kept their shops closed for 10 weeks, refusing to arbitrate with the strikers.

Matinee Feature To Delight Children

The Globe theatre will offer an innovation to its patrons Saturday afternoon in children's matinee. Films of special interest to children will be shown in addition to the regular offerings.

In the belief that children like life action and comedy as well as instruction the management plans to make the Saturday afternoon bills carry a special appeal to young folks. Dangerous themes and unpleasant situations in the films will carefully be avoided.

For the first children's matinee the bill includes "The Story of Robinson," a drama depicting bird life; "Uncle's Little Ones," showing Napoleon and Sally, wonderful chimpanzees; a scenic, "See America," and a cartoon comedy, all in addition to the regular feature photoplay.

If the children's matinee prove popular they will be continued as regular weekly feature and it is possible child vaudeville acts will be offered as well.

BENEFITS OF OREGON LAND GRANT SCHEME TO REACH THOUSANDS

Expenditure of $17,600,000 in Reclamation Would Furnish Homes for 36,665.

AMENDMENT IS SOUGHT

Plan Is to Have Entire 40 Per Cent Spent in This State; Chamber of Commerce Aiding.

The lowest estimate put upon the value of the Oregon California grant lands is $44,000,000. Congress by the provisions of the grant land act has said that 40 per cent of this sum, realized by the sale of the lands, is to go into the general reclamation fund.

At the high reclamation cost of $60 per acre this 40 per cent would realize 293,333 acres or about 10 per cent of the increased property and 40 acres each established in Oregon on land that is now very largely unproductive. These farms would furnish homes for 36,665 people.

Oregon Would Benefit. These are some of the results that would accrue to Oregon should the campaign to secure the expenditure entirely within the state of Oregon be successful. In addition to this would come the great flood of produce that would be grown upon the increased property and wealth by reason of increased land values and the increased trade and business springing from the larger population and its varied needs.

The Portland Chamber of Commerce is throwing its active influence to the furtherance of the campaign and on Monday next will mail more than 1900 letters to the different chambers of commerce, commercial clubs, state societies and municipal officers of the state, asking that a united effort be made to change the mind of congress.

A special effort will be made to induce residents of Oregon who have moved here from other states to write personal letters to the members of the congressional delegation, asking them to favor the Oregon-California land grant. It is believed that these letters will be effective in bringing the true condition before congress in a personal manner that the apparent hostility which has heretofore existed will be overcome.

World's Record for Milling Ore Is Made

Alaska Miners Treat 8700 Tons of Ore in 24 Hours; Big Mining Properties Are to Be Consolidated.

Juneau, Alaska, July 7.—(U. P. N. S.)—B. L. Thane, general manager of the Alaska Gastineau Mining company, has announced the consolidation of big mining properties at the Eagle River, whereby the Eagle River Mining company property and properties of Peter Early and McWilliams Bros. will join.

At the same time announcement was made that the world's record of milling ore was set on Monday last. The mill was shut down Sunday, and on Monday, with a partial crew, 8700 tons of ore was treated within 24 hours.

COULON WISHES ANOTHER JOUST WITH MASCOTT

Former Champion Says Conditions Not Right to Show His Best.

Johnny Coulon, former bantam champion, who lost a six round decision to Billy Mascott last Monday night, is anxious to stage another six round bout with the Portland bantam figure that he will retrieve his lost laurels.

Coulon has two engagements in view, one to box Eddie Campi a four round bout in San Francisco, and the other against some good bantam 10, Seattle for Salt and Austin, the Seattle impresario. Also, Jimmy Carroll, the spindly legged San Franciscan, who lost a decision to Mascott is anxious to take on either Mascott or Carroll throughout the Frankie Malone in San Francisco next Friday night.

Coulon figures that if Mascott will not give him another go, he would just as soon meet Carroll here, provided Carroll is not too heavy.

"I was four nights and three days on the train coming out from Chicago, I got in only one day on the road on account of the fact that I couldn't do myself justice. Then, too, Mascott did not make the weight of 115 pounds at 6 o'clock and I figure that he weighed around 121 at ringside, while I weighed only 110 1/2.

"Billy is a promising boy, but he will be a better featherweight than I am, for I don't think he can make 115 pounds later on, when he begins to fatten up and be strong. However, if I get another go with him, I am willing to take a chance on his extra poundage. I think I can beat him handily. I don't believe anybody will deny that I was the aggressor throughout the Monday night bout that I struck most of the blows. If Mascott had landed all the blows he started for my head, it would have looked like a barrel the next day. I have a habit of rolling my head with the punches like all Cleveland boxers and few of the blows landed by Mascott were clean. I think most of the fans are deceived in this matter of hitting clean blows and what appear to them to be landing clean and snappy are not so if one will watch closely.

Cocunut Oil Makes a Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocunut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing.
