SEALS TAKE ANOTHER GAME FROM BEAVERS, BUT GET REAL SCARE

Portlanders Begin Hitting Late in Pastime and Are Stopped by Skeeter Fanning.

COUNT, TWO IN THE NINTH

Dive Couch From the Mound, Who Blows Up With Bang Under Their Heavy Fire.

San Francisco, July 8.—The Seals collected another game of baseball yesterday, and they took it from the Braves, 3 to 2. But it was taken only after a terrible scare had been thrown into the locals when the visitors began hitting like fiends toward the end of the pastime.

Couch, after pitching eight innings of shut-out ball, blew up so completely in the ninth that he was yanked with a jerk. In stepped the solemn Mr. Fanning, and the Seals' pitcher was against a left-handed half portion person named Kelly, who did his best to pitch a better variety of baseball, and for five innings he did it well.

First Score in the Sixth. The first upset came in the sixth, Biff Schaller walked. Plug Hodge sacrificed, sending Biff to second, and he took third when Koohe dropped Downs' third strike and ran to chuck Jerry out at first. Desperate Jack Dalton was next at bat. Biff concluded that the honorable Jack would probably hit, so he stole home. Dalton immediately smashed out a safe hit for the bases. Brown ended the inning with a fly to center.

In the seventh, after Jones had been rubbed from the re-knocking, Brooks gathered a two-run error, which went out on an easy tap to Kelly. Brooks moving to third. Aubrey poked the ball to left scoring Brooks.

Dalton Gets Second Hit. In the eighth, Dalton got his second hit of the game, a single to center. A wild pitch by Kelly let Jack progress to second. Then Brown singled to center and Dalton rounded home with the third run. Brown throw being wide of the plate. Brown was so close to second that he thought to cut him off as he was not available.

Thus the Seals went into the ninth with a score of 3 to 0. Disaster came in the ninth when the Seals went out and had the Seals' goat for several minutes.

Stump Starts Bombardment. First of all Bill Stump singled to center. Then Fisher, hitting for Ward, singled to right. Kelly slapped the ball at Jimmy Beck with a wild throw. Ducky was lucky to stop it. The ball caromed off to short territory for a safe hit, and the bases were full.

Couch then walked, forcing Stump over the plate, and Wolverton reached out and jerked young John hence.

Fanning came in. Bobby Vaughn came in, Jerry Vandergriff to Jerry Downs. A single by Kelly, which he passed, and shot it to first for a double play. Fisher scoring and Kelly rushing to third base. Southworth was up, and at stumping person lifted a fly that fell into Schaller's mitts. The score.

E. Sawyer of the Alton Country club, will start today for Del Monte to take part in the western golf championship.

This addition to the entries already published will increase the interest as both are players who have taken part in many high class tournaments.

Sawyer was the winner of the Western championship in 1904, defeating Harry K. Wood in the final match after 37 holes had been played. Sawyer was a semi-finalist, being beaten by Chick Evans, the ultimate winner, 2 up and 1 to play.

Bankard was out in the third round last year to J. D. Standish Jr. who reached the final round. He was a participant in the Pacific-Pennsylvania championship at Inglewood a year ago. C. "All this talk about me being dissatisfied with Boston is bunk," Evers said. "Haughton and Stallings are the fellows who I perfectly content to stick where I am."

Evers said the only thing he was sore about is the 10 days' suspension. He said three days would have been enough for a little rough stuff was too much.

"The game is taming down anyhow," said Evers. "Those fellows are making a pollycolidge game out of it. We can't s-rap any more."

WELSH DELAYS HIS DEPARTURE FROM FIST RING

Fred Will Never Fight Again With Adolph Wolgast Who Fools.

San Francisco, July 8.—(I. N. S.)—Freddie Welsh, lightweight boxing champion of the world, came to town yesterday, looking dapper and pert for an "old man of thirty." Welsh leaves today for Venice where his children are waiting for him.

Welsh had little to say about his fourth fight with Wolgast. He says he was fouled in the third round and only went on with the bout to prevent disappointment to the spectators.

"Wolgast fought foul all the way through the bout and I won't fight him again," a boxer takes enough chances without going against a man who does not box according to the rules," is the way Welsh dismisses the matter.

Yesterday was the anniversary of Welsh's battle with Willie Ritchie in Olympia, London, in which he won the title.

When I worked for 10 years, which I had for 10 years, said Freddie, "I told my manager, Harry Pollok, that I would just as soon quit the game right there, but he had done a lot to get me the chance at the title and I told him I would keep on fighting for a couple of years so that he could make some money, and incidentally, I didn't mind getting some more out of it."

"Since I have held the championship I have been frequently criticized for not boxing in 20 round contests. I have always been ready to box with who had a standing good enough to draw a house a chance at the title if the proper inducements were offered. I have agreed to go to South America to box with the champion of that country, although I could make more money staying in this country."

Pollock was in bed 24 hours after the fight from the effects of the foul blow, said Pollock. "I only hope Ad didn't do it intentionally."
