MOTHERS ARE ACTIVE IN GUIDING THE ARMY ON MEXICAN BORDER

Even Generals in All Their Power Bow to Will of the Frail.

FUNSTON HEARS APPEAL

Bons Are Instructed to Write Lengthy Letters Often and Youths Are Put on the Water Wagon.

By William G. Shepherd. Robstown, Texas, Aug. 1.-(U. P.)-Mother's hand is on the army in the lower Rio Grande valley with a gentle, but so firm a tug, that even the big generals feel and yield to it.

All their bluff and gold stars and discipline have not saved them and their army from the pull of mother's heart strings that stretch out to the American border.

"A mother is here to see you about getting her son out of the army," in-terrupted Major Burman, chief staff officer. Funston Lets Boy Go.

"Excuse ma; excuse me," said the general hastily to the reporters, as he fled from the public room to the privacy of his office. "Let the boy go if his mother is de-pendent on him," Funsian ordered the adjutant general from the half open office door A little woman whom reporters saw making her way along the hallway toward; Funston's office, departed from the building half an hour later smiling happily, though she had not seen Funston, and did not know how he treated. Colonel John Fraine of the First North Dakota, astonished a group of correspondents Sunday by shouting to a passing private: "Come here, a passing private:

Told to Write His Mother. Smith approached.

"How long since you've written home to your mother?" asked the colonel "Two weeks."

"You go back to your tent and sit down and write 500 words to your mother," ordered the colonel, Five Hundred letters daily reach Major General O'Ryan, head of the of these letters ask for the release of authority f sons, but an average of 50 every

Journal Carriers Have Jolly Picnic

About 175 Journal carriers, their parents and friends enjoyed a picnic on Oswego lake at Lake Grove Sunday. This was the annual excursion. The association paid the train fare, hired boats for the use of all and servad ice cream, cookies, popcorn crisps and coffee. Pienic lunches were enjoyed for the most in potluck form. Swimming and boat riding were the principal diversions. The most talked about incident on the excursion was the live fish story that Sam Riecheustein told when he and six others returned from a boat fide with a live fish. They had no hook and line on which to catch a fish. Sam claims that We caught the fish in the air as it jumped out of the water.
