

CONTRACT MARRIAGE ADMITTED BY FORD IN COURT HEARING

Man on Trial for Alleged Forgery Refers to Woman by Her Maiden Name.

ALASKAN PACT RECALLED

Number of Character Witnesses Are Called by Defense; Directed Verdict Asked for by Defense.

Homer N. Ford, on the witness stand in his own behalf in the forgery trial held before Circuit Judge Davis, today admitted the contract marriage with Caroline Voght at Eagle, Alaska, in December of 1909.

But in speaking of her he carefully refrained from calling her Mrs. Ford. He called her Miss Voght or Carrie.

Notary Draws Contract

The legality of this contract marriage, performed by a notary public in the absence of preachers or judges, has been one of the important issues in the case, as Ford has repudiated the marriage and woman with whom he lived as husband and wife for more than 10 years and became the father of four children.

In great detail Ford explained the circumstances of his going to Alaska in 1907 and of the various things he did after arriving there. He described his first meeting with Miss Voght on the trail to Summit when a storm was raging.

He and Miss Voght and James Sheldon and Miss Peel cut lots together, he explained, in a wood cutting venture, and then Miss Voght established a road house, which was a respectable stopping place for miners and others going over the trail.

"Our living together there became embarrasing," he said. "No one said anything as I had grown a beard and looked pretty good for a woodsman. It and concluded the idea of going to Eagle to go into some kind of contract marriage."

"Mr. Hobbes, the notary public at Eagle, told us he had no authority to marry us, but he did draw up this contract and affixed his seal."

Character Witness Called.

Several character witnesses were called by the defense.

At the conclusion of the state's case yesterday afternoon, Attorney John U. McCue, representing Ford, asked for a directed verdict, which motion was denied by the court after lengthy arguments by attorneys for both sides.

The court held that it was not necessary for the state to show that actual defrauding had resulted from the alleged forgery, but it was only incumbent upon the state to show that intent to defraud was connected with the transaction.

The forgery charge is based on a deed given by Ford to J. D. McKennon of La Grande and which is signed by Elizabeth G. Frary as Elizabeth G. Ford, representing herself to be the wife of Ford.

So far Miss Frary, who is jointly indicted with Ford, has not made appearance at the trial.

COURT SETS ASIDE VERDICT

A jury in Judge McGinn's court last night returned a verdict for $1 in favor of Mrs. Phoebe Brown, in her suit for $10,000 damages against Ezra L. Nixon, proprietor of The Vogue millinery shop, 385 Alder street, and the court immediately set it aside on the ground that it was "inimane and contrary to the evidence."

Judge McGinn declared that if Mrs. Brown, who fell down a flight of stairs at the millinery shop, had been damaged at all it was in a greater sum than $1 and if she had not been damaged the verdict should have been for the defendant.

She had been employed as a hat-maker and when she went to hang her hat and wraps in an alcove near the top of the basement stairs she did not observe the stairs and fell down them, inflicting injuries for which she sued for $10,000 damages.

Circus Parade Big Street Attraction

Sells Photo Aggregation Commands Attention of Street Throng; Show to Run Two Days Here.

The call of the callopie was heard again on Portland streets this morning in the circus parade of the Bellin Photo shows, here for a two days' visit.

Mingled with the callopie's call were the rumble of heavy wheels, the clatter of horses' hoofs, the blare of bands, the swish-swish of elephants, the clinkety-click of ponies and mules, and the tinnitulation of mechanical music devices, chimes and organs.

There were costumed acrobats and equestriennes. Animals of forest and jungle passed by in cages and on foot. And the bloodweating hippopotamus lolled in his bathtub.

Circus humped along hitched to carriages and monkeys played leap frog in a circular cage just as they do in the wilds.

Large crowds lined the sidewalks to watch their passing.

Frank Gotch, the wrestler, and Jess Willard, the champion of the ring, were not in the procession, but they will be seen in action at the performance.

Performances are scheduled twice daily, today and tomorrow, at 2 and at 8 p. m.

Identify Man Who Died on the Street

Body Is That of John McCabe, Employee of St. Johns Lumber Mill, Residence 188 Twenty-first Street.

The unknown man found at Nineteenth and Washington streets by Patrolman A. L. Long yesterday morning was identified as John McCabe, 59 years old, of 188 Twenty-first street, by members of his family last night.

When Mr. McCabe did not return home from the accustomed hour, one of his children read an account in The Journal of the body of an unknown man at the morgue.

Mr. McCabe was an employee of a St. Johns sawmill, and had left home at 5:30 to go to work. Fifteen minutes later, while waiting for a street car, he died.

The body was removed to the Dunning & McIntee undertaking establishment. The cause of death is supposed to have been apoplexy. His widow, Mrs. Kate McCabe, three daughters, Margaret, Cora and Irene, and one son, Charles, survive. The funeral will probably be held Saturday morning from St. Patrick's church, Nineteenth and Savier streets.

Man Long in Jail Linguistic Riddle

John Joseph, the man held in the county jail at Oregon City on a charge of stealing one chicken at Estacada late in May, is of unknown nationality, according to the harassed officials of Clackamas county and Portland consular officers who are working on the case.

When an Austrian interpreter went to interview the man, he said Joseph was a German, when a German was sent to the jail, Joseph was declared to be a Bohemian, and when a Bohemian went out yesterday, Joseph was just as much of a linguistic puzzle as ever.

Today Joseph was interviewed by a man familiar with the dozens of Russian dialects and the tongues of the southeastern European nations. Joseph's long confinement on an inconsequential charge is thought to have deranged his mind and as soon as some one is found who can converse with him, a further examination as to his sanity will be made.

Proposed Land and Loan Act Is Topic

Arguments for and against the land and loan measure which will be voted upon in November, were heard yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Pomona grange in the Russellville grange hall. About 100 were present.

Dr. C. H. Chapman, speaking for the measure, stated that as a land owner he had come to the conclusion that the measure would increase the value of his property and would in no way affect its title and also that it would reduce taxes.

A. L. Veazie, against the measure, stated that the measure, if carried, would mean the confiscation of lands and the farmers would become tenants, without title, and would also be unable to borrow money for improvements of their farms.

TWO-PLATOON SCHEME IS FORMALLY PLACED BEFORE CITY COUNCIL

Petition Signed by Fire Captains for Civil Service Association Is Presented.

"WAIT," URGES MAYOR

Commissioners Will Consider Proposition, However, at Request of a Large Number of Firemen.

Firemen affiliated with the Civil Service Employees' association, a union organization of city employees, yesterday filed petitions with Mayor Albee and Fire Chief Dowell, asking for the installation of the "two platoon" system. The petitions are signed by 320 of the 417 men in the fire bureau.

The signers ask that the mayor appoint a committee to act with the firemen to investigate and report upon the "two platoon" system, and if it is not approved by the council, that they be given permission to circulate petitions to place the question on the ballot for the municipal election next June.

The petitions were presented by Captains Harry Hawkins and Lester Riley and Engineer George Allen.

Mayor Albee told the men that the time was inopportune to attempt to put the new system into effect. He advised them to wait. The petitions are to be referred to the city council.

Name of L. Hodgen Kept From Ballot

Salem, Or., Sept. 21.—The name of L. Hodgen, of Umatilla county, cannot go on the ballot as the Democratic candidate for representative from the Twenty-third district because the Democratic central committee of the county had no authority to make the nomination.

Secretary of State Olcott declined to place the name on the ballot today, basing his action on the recent decision of the supreme court in the Covert case, in which it was held a vacancy could be filled only where it was caused by death or removal from the district of a candidate, and for the further reason that the certificate was not filed within the time provided by law, September 12 being the limit.

Hodgen was nominated to fill a vacancy caused by the declination of J. R. Haley, nominated at the May primary election.

SEWER COST BORNE JOINTLY

City and County Officials Agree to Divide Expenses.

The city and county, jointly, will pay the cost of replacing the Canyon Road sewer being replaced in the paving of Canyon road. City and county officials made an inspection this morning. It is proposed to tear out about 400 feet of the sewer in a change of grade. About 100 feet has already been blown to pieces by dynamite. The cost of replacement is estimated at between $3000 and $4000.

stability and prosperity in this country.

Protection Means Stability. "You cannot have stability and prosperity unless American products are protected against competition with products which are made by men who are paid much less wages than are paid here. That is common sense. And in order that we should properly secure our own prosperity we must attend to the protection of American workmen."

Here at Lafayette the crowd was particularly enthusiastic in cheering Hughes' criticism of the administration eight-hour law and again when he demanded equal recognition of American rights as to lives, property and commerce from all nations. His speech followed the same general lines of previous addresses. After his speech here the candidate shook hands at an improvised reception, standing at one door while Mrs. Hughes stood and shook hands at the other door.

Hughes was in fine fettle, patting babies on the cheek and otherwise making himself "solid."

INDIANA BULL MOOSE BALK AT VOTING FOR G. O. P. CANDIDATES

Marion, Ind., Sept. 21.—(U. N. S.)—The Republican situation in Indiana is somewhat precarious.

The Progressives are divided, but even those Progressives who are willing to accept Hughes are balking at voting for Harry S. New for United States senator to succeed Senator Kern, and James Watson, who is anxious to replace Tom Taggart.

New is chairman of the committee which greeted the ways for Roosevelt in the Republican convention of 1912, and Watson is of the standard party of standpatners whose name will be recalled, among other things, in connection with the Colonel Mulhail revelations.

Earliest Republicans and Progressives who desire Hughes to win are declaring that the name of Watson on the same ticket with Hughes is a menace to the latter's success.

Practically all hope of electing Watson has been abandoned by the Republicans who privately are conceding Taggart's election.

The Republicans and Progressives are concentrating all their attention now on the national ticket.

Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Missouri are the four states in this election which are regarded as pivotal, and inasmuch as both vice presidential candidates come from Indiana and there are two United States senators to be elected as well, the fight in this state is already at a fever heat.

SCHOOL BOARD CAN MOVE TEACHERS AT WILL, SAYS COUNSEL

Demurrer to Mrs. Alexander's Petition Argued; Woman's Attorney Has Viewpoint.

It is as plain as the English language can make it that the school board is given authority to transfer teachers from one position to another at will, insisted Attorney C. W. Fulton, arguing a demurrer to the petition of Mrs. Alexia Alexander for a writ of mandamus directing the school board to reinstata her as principal of the Benson polytechnic for girls.

The question at issue is an interpretation of the teachers' tenure in office law enacted by the 1913 legislature. Attorney Fulton, representing the school board, pointed out to the court that the law provides that permanent teachers "shall serve in such positions" and be subject to such assignments and transfers as the board may from time to time determine.

Attorney A. E. Clark, representing Mrs. Alexander who has been transferred to a position in Washington high school, declared that the school board's contention makes a mockery out of the law.

"Under your construction," he said, "you can take a teacher competent in teaching how to cook a beef steak or cookies and transfer her to teaching ancient languages, and then discharge her because she is incompetent to fill the latter position."

The question is being argued before Circuit Judge Gantenbein.
