ference of the church. The start was made from the church ear-ly in the afternoon, and on reaching Wahkeena the conference was called to order by A. M. Grilley, chairman of the social service department, who was in charge, and after the as-signment of supper duties, Rev. J. M. Skinner outlined the work of the departments for the year with his suggestions in regard to it. The conference then divided into departments for discussion, and reassembled around the campfire at 5:30 for supper. After supper the departmental reports were made, after which there was a delightful moonlight ride home. The departmental work of the church
