Colonel Wood Favors Meas-Jure and Walter H. Evans and A L. Veazie Oppose It, drews to the Ining over him.

TEMPERANCE AGREED ON

Speakers Disagree on Proposition That Measure Before Voters Would Stimulate Liquor Business.

"To beer or not to beer" was vigor ously debated before the Progressive Business Men's club yesterday, Colonel C. E. S. Wood supporting the so-called brewers' amendment and District Attorney Walter H. Evans and A. L. Veazie opposing it. Colonel Wood said he favored true temperance, was oprosed to the saloon, and he named Denmark as one of the temperate coun-

A. L. Veazie produced, first, a full page newspaper clipping which he declared contained the paid advertisement arguments of non-prohibition days for the retention of the saloon with the names of Colonel Wood and others supporting the brewers' amendment signed to it. He produced next the brewers' year book and from it read the statement that Denmark is the greatest per capita consumer of ar-

Considers Saloon a Muisance. "I consider the saloon a nuisance as bad as a boiler factory in a residence district," rebutted Colonel Wood, "but you will find my name on anything that is against the restriction of human liberty. As for Denmark, I mentioned it last in my reference and i has had the present condition long enough to have full effect."

Colonel Wood, in opening his address, declared, "Oregon is densely ignorant of true temperance reform. That is what the measure permitting the manufacture of beer containing not more than 4 per cent of beer is intended for. Under present conditions or under absolute prohibition the stronger, less bulky liquor will be brought into the state and will make us a state of whiskey drinkers.

Not a Brewers' Agent. "I am not a brewers' agent trying to build up the brewers' business, thereby to drag people down to hell. Bottle houses are not what the meas-ure means and if I thought that under this measure equivalents for saloons should be established, I and those who are associated with me would lead the effort for its repeal." Colonel Wood said he makes no se-Colonel Wood said he makes no se-cret that he is attorney for the Weinhard interests and that this fact makes no difference in his personal unfortunate Colonel Wood would not be given the interpretation of the measure he has framed for others who interpret it, saying that it will do away with the present restrictions governing the use of liquor, that it will result in establishing brewers agents or "bottle houses" all over the state and throughout Portland, that no penalties are attached to the measure and that manufacturers will no: be subject to control in the amount they may themselves deliver by means other than the common carriers.

A. L. Veazie said the view expressed by the district attorney is the view taken by lawyers with whom he had conferred, including some who support the measure.

Wilson Is Advocated Before Ironworkers

Employes of Willamette Iron Works Are Addressed by Elton Watkins; 300 Hear the Speech. Elton Watkins addressed a meeting of the employes of the Willamette Iron Works Thursday noon in behalf of the candidacy of Woodrow Wilson. In his address, which was heard by about 300 of the employes of the concern, Mr. Watkins compared the record of Charles E. Hughes when governor of New York with that of President Wilson. He called to mind the act of Mr. Hughes in vetoing the two-cent fare bill for railroad pas-sengers passed by the New York legislature, the five-cent fare bill enacted to give cheap transportation to the people of New York, the bill enacted to give equal pay to women teachers as was given to men in the same employment, and other incidents of his administration.

The speaker contrasted that with the record of the Wilson administration in enacting the child labor law, the rural credits act, the income and inheritance tax laws, the eight-hour law, and the long list of other constructive enactments urged and sup-ported by President Wilson in their onsideration and passage by congress.

Beaverton Holds Get-Together Meet

Straw Vote Taken at Chamber of Commerce Shows Popularity of President Wilson; Hodson, Holman Speak.

Beaverton, Or., Oct, 6.—A "get-to-gether" meeting of the Beaverton Chamber of Commerce was held last ator Hodson and Commissioner Holman the evening. Mr. Holman's address was along the line of better roads and he assured the people of Washington county that Multnomah always stands ready to do her part in the construction of standard highways to the territory that is naturally tributary to Portland. Mr. Hodson delivered an address on the value of development, cooperation and community spirit. A short musical program was ren-dered and light refreshments were served by the members of the Cham-her of Commerce. During the evening a straw vote was taken, President Wilson receiving 29 votes and Mr. Hughes 31. The registration in Beaverton precinct shows 275 Republicans and 75 Democrats, or a Republican majority of five to one. only one and a half to one in favor of The vote last night showed a ratio of
