Miss Anne Rhodes, organizer for the National Hughes alliance, was here yesterday perfecting plans for the swing through Oregon of the "Golden trict, and by John Claire Monteith, Special," which will arrive in Portland president of the Oregon M. T. A. at 6:30 o'clock Saturday morning and remain here throughout the day. This train, which is financed by

for the convention which will be held some of America's wealthiest women, is carrying 17 trained women speakers in this city Friday and Saturday folwho are bubbling over with advice for brief talks on a number of the splenthe women of the suffrage states as to how they should vote in the No- did plans being worked out for entertainment at this convention by the vember election.

While arriving at 6:30, the women chairmen of committees. Future plans will not be disturbed until 9 o'clock, will be discussed. Portland musicians when they will be met by a local dele-gation, including the committee of 15 on entertainment and the general committee of 100, which is comprised of the four officers of the 25 local branches of the Hughes alliance or ganized in Portland.

Meetings to Be Held. The plan is to take the visitors for ride over the Columbia river highway, returning about noon. Several noon meetings are being arranged, while the main meeting will be held at o'clock in the afternoon at the Eleventh street theatre.

A noon meeting will be held at some factory and another at some mill, it was announced by Miss Rhodes, but the factory and mill had not been selected. Mrs. Raymond Robins of Chi-cago will speak at these meetings. Miss Mary Antin, lecturer and social worker, will address a meeting in South Portland at the Neighborhood House. Arrangements also are being made for a meeting at Lincoln high school for school teachers. This meeting will be at either 11 or 12 o'clock, the exact time depending on whether the regular grade teachers' meeting is to be held Saturday morning or not. Dr. Katherine B. Davis of New York will speak at the Y. W. C. A. at 12:30 o'clock. Speakers Are Named.

Several of the speakers with the "Golden Special" will take part in the afternoon meeting. The speakers include Miss Antin, Dr. Katherine B. Davis, chairman board of parole, New York city; Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr, New York, magazine writer; Dr. Katherine P. Edsom, Los Angeles, chairman committee on public health; Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott, Newport, R. I.; Miss Maude E. Miner, New York, probation officer; Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, New Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy New York; Mrs. Raymond Robins, Chicago, chairman industrial committee Illinois Federation of Women's clubs; Miss Harriet Vittum, Chicago. Mrs. E. B. Hanley of Medford will join the special here and will travel south with it. In her honor the "Golden Special" will stop half an hour in her home town on its way south Sunday

Wilson Sentiment Again Demonstrated Drugs

Parmer Sets Example Which Majority Follow in Straw Ballot Contest Among Passengers on Train.

It was on a southbound Oregon Electric train vesterday morning. The passengers were obedient recent habit and were discussing the presidential campaign. In one of the seats a stormy debate was in prog-

"I tell you the country is going for Hughes," declared the man in the blue serge suit.

"And I tell you just as positively that the people of this country haven't gone crazy and that there will be a landslide for Wilson," rebutted the man who was dressed in dark gray. "I'm going to show you how the sentiment turns in any gathering, proposed the man with the Hughes "I'm just going right up the aisle of this car and I'm going to get a straw vote and that will show you. He did

There were 26 persons old enough to vote in the car. One of them was a gray-bearded farmer who had been hunched up in a corner apathetically regarding the flying landscape. But woke into interest when the slip of paper was handed him. On it he wrote in big letters, "WILSON."

wrote in big letters, "WILSON."

"Ma, if you don't want this country grabbed by war and Wall street, you vote as I do," he directed his wife, who, by way of showing she had a mind of her own, primly opined that she guessed she "wouldn't vote nothin" until it comes reg'lar election

Eight of the 26 in the car didn't vote. The Hughes supporter an-nounced the result in a doleful voice, "Ten for Wilson, & for Hughes." The old farmer's broad smile swept approvingly over everyone.

Strahorn Plans Trip To Central Oregon

Check Will Be Made on Progress of Districts Through Which Surveys of the Boad Were Made. During the next few weeks, Robert

E. Strahorn plans to make another trip through the central Oregon country to check up on the progress made by the communities through which run surveys for the Oregon, California & Eastern railway. The importance of this trip is large because it probably will determine when actual construction work is to begin.

All the surveys are now complete and Chief Engineer N. H. Bogue and his staff are completing the contour maps and cross sectioning. Right of way is being offered at all points, especially in the Lakeview section and
