

HUSBAND FINDS WIFE AFTER LONG SEARCH; SHE TURNS HIM DOWN

Tony Silvas and Mrs. Tony Have Warm Interview in Which She Declares Self.

MAN WANTS LITTLE GIRL

Action Begun to Give Father Custody of Children; Sympathy Is With Woman.

Tony Silvas spent 10 months searching for his wife and baby daughter on a trail leading from Fresno, Cal., to Portland, only to find in this city yesterday that his spouse would have nothing to do with him.

Tony's wife fled from the California city with Steve Diemon, a Greek, and when Tony returned from his labors here evening last November, he was without family.

Yesterday Mrs. Tony, a dark-eyed Portuguese woman, the 2 1/2-year-old daughter Emma, and a new baby, of whom Tony knew nothing, were found. At police headquarters wife and husband met. An excited dialogue in rapid-fire Portuguese followed in which Mrs. Tony stamped her foot and declared she would never go back with him.

Accepting it as philosophically as possible, Tony conferred with Deputy District Attorney T. G. Ryan. He wants the little girl Emma. A petition to that end was filed in the juvenile court today, in which Silvas asks possession of the little girl, alleging his wife was unfit to care for her.

Sympathy at the police station is with the woman, who is passionately attached to her babies. She asserts that Silvas did not support her, while Diemon takes care of her and the youngsters. Diemon left Portland Saturday on learning the police sought him. Before going he gave Mrs. Silvas $19, and said he would send for her later.

Captain of Detectives Patrick Shea, after the recent mistrial of Geffene, led to Louisiana. He was found to be the owner of a small plantation near Independence, La., and the New Orleans authorities induced him to come here to testify before Superior Judge Franklin Griffin. His greeting to Geffene was: "Hello, brother."

When the prisoner said he was mistaken, Faraci said: "Not a bit. You came to our house every day for two months before you married my sister, and I worked with you for almost a year after that."

Prisoner Identified Says Mistake Made

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—(P. N. S.)—At the trial of James Geffene, charged with murder, John Faraci, brother-in-law of Pietro Tortorici, today identified Geffene as Tortorici, who murdered Biagio Vllardo here in 1905, and was sought for years. When confronted by Faraci, Geffene did not change countenance, but declared Faraci was mistaken. The search for Faraci, conducted by

OREGON'S GOVERNOR TALKS TO DELEGATES AT P.-T. CONVENTION

Women Welcomed to The Dalles by Mayor Anderson at Well Attended Session.

REPORTS ARE INTERESTING

Mrs. W. J. Hawkins of Portland, Recognized as Founder of the Organization, Makes Address of Appeal.

The Dalles, Or., Oct. 12.—More than 500 persons attended the Congress of Mothers' convention last night at the high school auditorium. Seventy-five out-of-town delegates are here.

Governor Withycombe addressed the convention. He explained measures to be voted on at the coming election, especially warning his audience against the farm loan bill and the six per cent tax limitation measure. The governor said he did not come to talk politics but wanted to warn them as Oregonian to Oregonian to beware of these sinister bills. Applause amounted almost to an ovation.

Governor Withycombe sat on the platform with Mrs. George McMath, president of the organization, Mrs. Frank Nichols, recording secretary, Mayor J. E. Anderson, City Superintendent of Schools I. B. Warner and County School Superintendent Clyde Bonney.

Mayor Anderson welcomed the convention. Mrs. W. J. Hawkins of Portland gave a splendid address on the work of The Dalles convention. She was introduced by the woman who started the parent-teacher circle several years ago, when she organized a little band of women in Portland as a "home improvement club." Mrs. Hawkins won her audience. She closed her talk with a plea for votes for equal suffrage.

The second annual convention opened Thursday morning. More than 100 women attended the opening session of the convention. The high school auditorium is decorated with Oregon grape, fern and cut flowers, and trailing branches of Oregon grape.

WHO'S WHO ON HUGHES SPECIAL

Women Who Do World's Work Are Touring the Whole West.

The Women's Hughes special train which arrives in Portland Saturday has 30 eminent women on board.

Among them are Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott, daughter of Julia Ward Howe, author of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic." Mrs. Elliott is herself a distinguished author, having written, among other works, "The San Roraria Rancho," "Atalanti in the South," "Two in Italy," "Life and Letters of Julia Ward Howe."

Miss Mary Antin, author of "They Who Knock at Our Gates," and other works. Miss Antin was born at Politzk, Russia. She was educated in the public schools and Girls' Latin school, Boston, and later studied at Barnard college. She is nationally famous as a worker in the immigration field.

Dr. Hazeline Walker, a regular physician, who is looking after the health of the women on the special train.

Mrs. Raymond Robins, sister of Miss Mary Dreier, social welfare worker. Mrs. Robins is a social economist, and since 1907 has been president of the National Women's Trade Union league. She is also a member of the Chicago Federation of Labor. She was appointed by the governor of Illinois as a member of the unemployment commission in 1915.

Dr. Katherine Bement Davis is commissioner of correction, New York city, and chairman of the board of parole there.

Mrs. Alexander Kohut is first president of the New York Congress of Mothers and first president of the New York section of the Council of Jewish Women. She is also a member of the New York city mayor's committee of unemployment.

Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr was formerly woman editor of the New York Evening Post, and is now school editor of the New York Evening Mail. She is also well known as a magazine writer.

Miss Annie S. Peck is a world-famous mountain climber, and the Mazamas are looking forward with pleasure to greeting her.

Mrs. William Curtis Demorest is actively interested in the welfare of women, and has taken a prominent part in suffrage work in New York. She was an ardent Progressive.

Mrs. Edith Ellicott Smith of New Jersey has given much time to a study of conditions affecting rural life and has written and spoken thereon frequently.

Mrs. Henry Moskowitz is manager of the labor department of the board of dress and waist manufacturers and chairman of the committee on amusement resources of working girls.

Miss Harriet Vittum of Chicago is head resident of the Northwestern University settlement. She is interested in educational matters and was formerly secretary of the Chicago Women's City club.

Dr. Katherine P. Edson of Los Angeles is chairman of the committee on public health of the California State Federation of Women's clubs.

Other members of the train party are Mrs. Mebane, Mrs. Noble Prentice, Mrs. E. S. Burke, Miss Elizabeth Freeman, Mrs. George W. Aiken of Seattle, Miss Hosper Hosford and Mrs. Jameson.

The women's special will be greeted by the entertainment and reception committees and by the general public at 8:30 at the Union depot on Saturday morning.

line the hall which leads to the main entrance of the convention rooms. Mrs. George McMath, president of the organization, Portland, is presiding. Mrs. Frank Nichols, recording secretary, also of Portland, occupies a place on the platform with the president. Local committees met the delegates at the trains with automobiles, and homes have been provided for all of them, eliminating hotel bills.

Apple Offer Made By Farmers' Union

Central Labor Council of This City Gets Sample Box and Figures From Farmers of Junction City.

At the Central Labor Council last night a box of apples was distributed with the compliments of the Farmers' Union of Junction City, and a statement that a carload would be sent, if wanted, at a certain figure per box. This is a first attempt to deal directly with the labor unions on the part of the Farmers' Union, and its outcome will be observed with interest.

Mrs. Arletine Felts, of Portland, a former president of the organization, congratulated Mrs. McMath on her work. The most important feature of the opening session of the convention was the reading of the reports of the presidents of various state parent-teacher circles.

Refuses to Divulge Names of Lotteries

If Joseph Rannes, a carpenter whose wife is seriously ill at the Good Samaritan hospital, does not tell the police the location of the Chinese lotteries where he made large winnings that he claims were his last month, he will be charged with vagrancy.

Rannes was elected by Detective Golts and Police Sergeant Van Overn last night for investigation. Chinese are said to have complained that Rannes was swindling the Chinese lottery games about the city, and Rannes was not slow to admit that he had "cleaned up" $1915 from four lotteries on an expenditure of something less than $125. The money was secured last month from old and new Chinatown lottery establishments.

Rannes was called on to show up the gamblers. He balked. He didn't know where the game keepers were located, and he had lost the names of the companies and he had forgotten a lot of other essential information.

Under the eyes of the Celestial gamblers, he said, he barked them by altering the slips to correspond with the winning tickets as displayed on the lottery books, using the "house" paste, scissors, paint and paint brushes. He "broke" the games, he asserted, because his winnings were $1850, but he compromised by taking all the money in the safe. As evidence of his statements, he refers to the $295 found in his possession when arrested. Furthermore, he says, he cleaned out Chinese lotteries in San Francisco to the extent of between $5000 and $6000.

At noon the police decided to give him one more chance to "come through" on the lottery places. If he doesn't give the information, he will be held to the municipal court on a charge of vagrancy.
