He will arrive in Portland at 1:50 tomorrow afternoon on the Shasta Limited, and will be met at the Union station by a delegation from the Oregon State Federation of Labor, Central Labor Council and the railroad brotherhoods.

If he desires, he will be taken for a ride over the Columbia river highway. Otherwise, the labor representatives who will entertain him plan on having open house at the Portland hotel.

Boosts Labor Cause.
Quiet and unassuming, Secretary Wilson has always been an active worker in the ranks of labor. Beginning as a coal miner in Pennsylvania, he became a leader in labor organizations, and was finally elected to congress. He was serving as representative from the Fifteenth Pennsylvania district when he was chosen by President Wilson to be a member of his cabinet. In announcing his coming, the Labor Press says:

"Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson will speak at the Baker theatre next Thursday on the issues of the present campaign. Mr. Wilson is a miner, and still holds an active card in the United Mine Workers' union."

SONGS AND MUSIC FEATURES

Nonpartisan Wilson Dinner Plans Announced.

Patriotic songs, with music furnished by the Portland hotel orchestra, will be a feature of the non-partisan Wilson dinner to be given at 8:30 Friday night at the Portland hotel. Printed cards with the words of the songs will be distributed and all the diners will join in the singing. The dinner is for men and women supporters of the president, and those who wish to hear some of the reasons why Republicans, Progressives and Democrats alike are going to vote for Wilson on November 7.

As the Portland grill will only seat 240 persons, those who wish reservations for the dinner should get their tickets at once. The women in charge of the affair say that it is evident that the demand for reservations will be greater than the supply. They request that all reservations be made not later than Friday morning. Tickets may be obtained at the clerk's desk at the hotel or from Mrs. W. F. Ogden, Mrs. Thomas Carrick Burke, Mrs. Preston Smith, Mrs. Folger Johnson, Mrs. E. J. Lovejoy and Miss Henrietta Elliot.

HEAD OF GREATEST NEW ZEALAND BANK IS PORTLAND VISITOR

Harold Beauchamp Says His Country Most Democratic in All World.

That the United States is hampered through its failure nationally to regulate the minimum wage, hours of employment and conditions of its working people, is the opinion of Harold Beauchamp, president of the Bank of New Zealand, who was a Portland visitor yesterday. Mr. Beauchamp makes his home in Wellington. With Mrs. Beauchamp and Miss Beauchamp, he has been touring the United States and Canada since June.

New Zealand's experience in legislation of this character has proved its worth, he says. "We have a universal eight-hour day and a minimum wage for all classes of workers," he said. "Our railroads, telephones, telegraphs and postal systems are owned by the government; traction lines, lighting and water systems are owned by the municipalities."

Mr. Beauchamp looks forward to the upgrowth of a big trade between New Zealand and the United States after the war. New Zealand will sell its wool, he points out, and will be a purchaser of Oregon's lumber and dried fruits. An European market is looked to for the sale of New Zealand's dairy products, frozen meats and apples.

The Bank of New Zealand, of which Mr. Beauchamp is the head, is the largest in New Zealand. It has a capitalization of $8,750,000, a reserve of $10,000,000 and deposits aggregating $100,000,000.

New Zealand, with its liberal laws, government ownership and regulation and the like, is the most democratic country in the world, he says.

Portugal, Opposed To War, Has Riots

Berlin, Oct. 18.—(I. N. S.)—Portuguese forces will be held in Portugal to preserve order until two new divisions can be formed, making it impossible for Portugal to send troops to France, the Cologne Gazette reports today, upon receipt of a dispatch from Madrid.

It is said by travelers that most of the people of Portugal are opposed to war, and that uprisings are causing many arrests. One hundred and thirty persons, including some soldiers, were arrested, the report says, when a crowd attacked the barracks at Oporto.

Turks Are Driven Back.

Petrograd, Oct. 18.—(I. N. S.)—Strong forces of Turks have been defeated by Russian troops in Turkish Armenia, the war office today announced. The enemy on the Caucasus front has suffered heavy losses. Turks and Kurds attacked seven times at Sudek, mountain, southwest of Erzerum, October 16 and 18, but were driven back.

WILSON CRITICISMS, IN DEFINITE TERMS, SAID TO MEAN WAR

Those Who Oppose Administration Policies Roundly Scored by Colonel Wood.

SPEAKS AT MOUNT ANGEL

Great Reform Measures Overshadowed by War Issues, Which Are Declared to Be Only Temporary.

At Mt. Angel, Or., Oct. 18.—Colonel C. E. Wood of Portland delivered a Wilson campaign address before a large audience in the town hall here last night. In the audience was the titular abbot, the prior of the abbey, the parish priest and others of the clergy.

A portion of Colonel Wood's talk was devoted to explaining the limitations imposed on the president by international law in dealing with Germany and England, and he pointed out the impossibility of him invading Mexico to redress grievances unless by war.

"All the criticisms of the Wilson administration," he said, "when put in definite terms mean war, either with Germany or England or Mexico." The speaker devoted a large part of the evening in explaining in detail the broad constructive policy of the administration for the American citizen and future prosperity. He went into the actual workings of the federal banking law, rural credits, tariff commission and bureau of commerce, and showed that nothing has been heard of these great economic reforms, as nobody, not even Roosevelt or Hughes, is criticizing them.

"These great reform measures," he said, "are being overshadowed by war issues, which are only temporary, while these great reforms toward economic democracy will last for all time. They are only in their infancy, the rural credits law, for instance, being not yet even in operation."

"The Democratic party, as sponsor for these measures, ought to be kept in power."

Colonel Wood emphasized his assertion that if Roosevelt and Hughes were to be taken at their word, and as the European war is sure to continue, it would certainly mean if they are in power, that, sooner or later, this country will be involved in that war.

A dance and a party were scheduled for last night, but both were postponed in favor of Colonel Wood's speech. Not only was the applause cordial and approving during and after the speech, but the general conversation was to the effect that the community had not understood the situation until now.

Eastern Oregon Medics Attend Clinic This Morning; Business Is Taken Up at Afternoon Session.

Baker, Or., Oct. 18.—With about 40 members from 18 counties in the district present, the Fifteenth annual convention of the Eastern Oregon District Medical society opened this morning.

The entire morning was devoted to clinic at St. Elizabeth hospital, where two appendicitis operations were performed by Dr. T. J. Higgins, and one for hernia by Dr. C. L. Blakely, both of Baker. Extra time taken at hospital prevented opening of the business session this morning, but an early start was taken this afternoon, when a program, consisting of papers on various topics will be given and discussed. There will be election of officers for the ensuing year and selection of place for the next meeting.

The evening's session will conclude with a banquet. Baker physicians are acting as hosts to the visitors.

BARTENDERS' BANNER WAVES AT OREGON'S W. C. T. U. MEETING

Mrs. Jennie M. Kemp, President, Presides at Annual Meeting at Pendleton.

PROGRESS IS REPORTED

Censorship of Motion Pictures, Elimination of Cigarettes and Advertising in Magazines Is Recommended.

Pendleton, Or., Oct. 18.—With 100 delegates from all over the state present, and more coming on every train, the thirty-third annual convention of the Oregon W. C. T. U. opened this morning at the Methodist church in this city.

The feature of the morning session was the address of Mrs. Jennie M. Kemp, state president. Mrs. Kemp gave a brief survey of the onward march of prohibition and temperance during the last year, pointing out evidence of success of the law in this and other states, of growing dry sentiment in wet states, and spoke of measures adopted by the belligerent nations of Europe to curtail the use of liquor.

She denounced the so-called "brewers' amendment," and predicted the passage of the amendment prohibiting the importation of liquor. She urged members to help secure sheriffs and district attorneys who would enforce the law, to elect legislators who would protect and strengthen the law, and congressmen who would help to secure a dry nation. She declared that 75 per cent of the motion pictures are bad in part or whole and advocated federal censorship.

Magazines Are Criticized.

Mrs. Kemp criticized magazines that run sex stories and papers and periodicals that run tobacco advertisements. She urged members to fight for retention of the Sunday closing law, and, criticizing conditions at the state penitentiary, advocated a more humane system of prison reform.

Among other recommendations she made was for legislation prohibiting the manufacture, importation or sale of cigarettes and materials for making them; for a temperance day in schools; for making women eligible for jury duty; community property law; securing name, care and education of illegitimate children; to prevent misuse of alcohol; to prevent privately owned automobiles from circumventing the dry law.

Mrs. Kemp's address was received with enthusiasm.

Session Is Shown.

During the session the big banner of the International Bartenders' association which was surrendered to Mayor Anderson of The Dalles by the local union of The Dalles on January 1, was exhibited. It was given into the keeping of the W. C. T. U. when the train passed through The Dalles yesterday.

Mrs. Lee Davenport, publicity director, exhibited a book of newspaper clippings from three Portland papers during the last year. It was 200 feet long, and represented over 10,000 inches. This was all free publicity in the interest of enforcement of the prohibition law.

Hood River Orchardist Dies.

Hood River, Or., Oct. 18.—Dr. Stanton Allen, wealthy apple-grower of Hood River valley, died suddenly Tuesday noon at his home in the country. A wife and three children survive. A son resides in Milwaukee, Wis., and two daughters are attending school in Chicago. The funeral services will be held next Thursday at the country home.

People Warned What Would Be Result If Home Telephone Goes

Samuel Hill Advises Portlanders to Support Company Competing With Bell

BIG TOLL FOR NOTHING

Figures Show Citizens Pay $300,000 More Annually Than Necessary to Secure More Efficient Service.

Samuel Hill arrived in Portland last night and is today in consultation with the general attorney of the Home Telephone company and others prominent in the company's affairs relative to necessary steps of reorganization following the company's failure to meet the interest on its bonds that fell due last Sunday. "If the people will support the Home Telephone company, use its service, keep their telephones and show loyalty to a big investment and efficient service, all will go well," said Mr. Hill.

"If the people evince apathy and fail to support the company, it may come to a receivership, which will not mean so much to the investors or the officers of the company as to the people of Portland themselves."

City Wastes Big Sum.

"The auditor of this company has prepared figures showing that on May 1 of this year the Bell company had approximately 40,000 telephones on which it was receiving an average of 75 cents per telephone more than the Home Telephone charges per telephone. This meant $30,000 a month, $360,000 a year or $1000 a day that the people of Portland were paying more than they would have to pay to receive a more efficient and absolutely secret service."

"And while we have given a service adequate to the needs of Portland at a large investment, we have been doing it at the low overhead charge of $750 a month.

Support Would Solve Problem.

"There are before us three things: "1. Support by the people of Portland.

"2. Consolidation with the Bell company.

"3. Municipal ownership.

"You ask how the Bell and Home could consolidate. It would be by means of a new company composed of both.

"What would municipal ownership mean? Simply that this city could have local service and the service of all outside lines used by the Bell company by taking over $5,000,000 bonds at 4 per cent, which would mean $120,000 a year, and this subtracted from $360,000 excess cost now paid would mean a saving of $240,000 a year.

"While this discussion as to the support the Home Telephone company (Bell) service neglectful, more expensive than the two and less efficient. Seattle is undertaking to organize a Home company. The people of Portland ought to awake to the situation here."
