

HUGHES PROMISES, IF ELECTED, HE WILL BE 'AMERICAN' PRESIDENT

"With Exclusive American Policies Devoted to American Interests," He Adds.

"NO DIVIDED ALLEGIANCE"

"No Place for Warring of Policies to Suit a Foreign Power" Is Candidate's Pronouncement.

By Perry Arnold.

On Board Governor Hughes' Special train, Albany, N. Y., Oct. 27.—(U. P.)—Republican Nominee Hughes made his third incursion into the Empire State today. It was his seventh visit to Albany since he started on his presidential campaign. Hughes was scheduled for four speeches today—at Utica, Auburn, Geneva and Rochester, the last named tonight.

Hughes was in unusually high spirits after last night's meeting in Boston, where his creed as a candidate was so rousing received. His speech last night was a direct answer to the Democratic cry, "What would you do as president?"

What Hughes Promises.

Hughes promises summed up were: Selection of the ablest cabinet the country can afford.

"Firm and courteous insistence on the rights of our citizens," as the basis of his foreign policy.

Enactment of a proper protective tariff.

"Fair governmental action to all," and particularly with regard to capital and labor.

"Strict scrutiny of business organizations"—but "all business to be treated fairly and justly."

"A flag that protects the American citizen in his lawful rights."

"A domestic policy which looks to industrial peace and cooperation, not to industrial war."

Judge Hughes last night pledged himself, if elected, to be "an American president with exclusive American policies devoted to American interests."

Takes Up Americanism Issue.

"If I am elected, as I expect to be," he declared, "we shall have an American administration with exclusive American policies devoted to American interests. I propose to be an American president unswayed by any suggestion of foreign influence."

"We have no place for divided allegiance for either purposes, for any warring of policies to suit a foreign power. We stand solidly and exclusively for American interests with a dominant Americanism to the end that we may as a great united people, with a composite but loyal population, press forward to the goal that every true American desires."

Hecker Starts Fuss.

This declaration of the audience received with half a dozen demonstrations but a few minutes afterward the audience was thrown into disorder by a heckler.

"What do you say about Mexico?" demanded the man.

Hisses and catcalls drowned the man's voice as he tried to go on. The whole audience rose and joined in shouts of "throw him out." Mr. Hughes smiled good naturedly and tried to quiet the crowd.

"Let him be heard, I didn't hear it. Get up and ask it," said Mr. Hughes. The audience renewed its shouting and it was several minutes before Mr. Hughes, vigorously waving his hands and pointing for order, succeeded in getting the confusion under control.

Hughes Is Questioned.

Then the heckler, excited but determined, asked:

"Mr. Hughes, what specific policy would you follow in Mexico? What specific policy will you take in Europe? What are you going to do with the Adamson bill?"

"I will tell you, my friends," said Mr. Hughes, when he had again quieted the crowd. "I don't know what particular kind of a mess things will be in next March in Mexico."

Mr. Hughes proceeded to answer the questions concerning Mexico along the lines he has repeatedly marked out in previous speeches.

Mr. Hughes accused the Wilson administration last night of using cabinet positions for political barter and he pledged himself, if elected, to pick the "ablest cabinet the country can supply."

So Early in the Morning.

Pittsfield, Mass., Oct. 27.—(U. P.)—Candidate Hughes appeared on the rear platform of his special train here at 7:45 this morning en route to New York state points, clad only in pajamas and a raincoat.

He emerged from his sleeper just as the train pulled out after a 10 minute stop. His hair and whiskers were disheveled and he looked tired. Three hundred persons greeted him.

"I was up pretty late last night, boys," he said. Several railroad men shook hands with him.

Skyline Highway Is Now Being Surveyed

Preliminary Steps Toward Scenic Road Between Marshfield and North Bend Taken by Engineer S. C. Lancaster.

Marshfield, Oct. 27.—Actual work of making the preliminary survey for the skyline highway between North Bend and Marshfield, proposed by C. S. Jackson of Portland, was started Thursday by Engineer S. C. Lancaster, who came here for that purpose.

He secured the services of Engineer Elliott and his crew, who have been working on the county roads for the state.

The survey will be completed by next Monday and after that Mr. Lancaster will make a map which will serve as a basis for future action on the part of Coos Bay people.

The two cities are bearing the expense of making the survey and the plan seems to meet with approval.

WILSON ENTHUSIASM IS GREAT IN OREGON, SAYS SENATOR LANE

Speaking Tour in Eastern and Central Parts of the State Cause of His Conclusion.

"I have been through many campaigns in Oregon, but never have I participated in one in which I found anything like the amount of enthusiasm there is for President Wilson in central and eastern Oregon," declared United States Senator Lane, who returned yesterday from a speaking tour through those sections of the state.

"The Republicans are friendly; they are receiving the Wilson candidate kindly and hundreds upon hundreds of them will vote for him."

In his tour he visited several towns, including Condon, Heppner, Bend, Prineville and Redmond. Everywhere he was greeted by capacity crowds. He attributes this to the great personal popularity of President Wilson. He says he has never seen a man so popular, or nearly so popular, with the voters of this state.

"Eastern and central Oregon has never been more prosperous," said Senator Lane, "than it is now. It is selling at $11 a head, $10.50 being refused. You know what the price of wheat is and all other produce is selling at prices almost in proportion."

Senator Lane speaks tonight at Silverton, tomorrow night at Woodburn and Saturday night at Mount Angel.

The Wilson enthusiasm which I have found so far on my trip through the state can best be described as a wave," he said, "and I understand that I will find the same thing in the Willamette valley."

Grays' Bodies Now Lie With Whitmans

Last Remains of Famous Missionaries Taken From Astoria, Placed in Grave Near Those of Old Friends.

Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., Oct. 27.—Whitman college, Walla Walla and the entire northwest will unite on Wednesday, November 1, to do honor to William H. Gray and wife, famous missionaries to the northwest of 1835. The bodies of the notable pioneers were removed this week from their resting place at Astoria, Or., to Wallatpu, seven miles west of Whitman mission and present location of the Whitman monument. They were buried by the side of Dr. and Mrs. Marcus Whitman. The Whitmans and Grays were lifelong friends and heroic pioneer missionaries.

A celebration unique in the history of Walla Walla is planned for Wednesday. The Walla Walla Commercial club and citizens generally have joined with Whitman college in setting apart the day to honor these distinguished pioneers. A special train will be run to the Whitman mission, and appropriate historical exercises will be held. Mr. Gray was the first historian of Oregon.

Swedish Chamber to Have Branch Here

One of First Fruits of Recent Visit of John Lokrantz Is Seen—Several Business Men Enroll.

One of the first fruits of the recent visit of John Lokrantz, manager of the Swedish Chamber of Commerce of the United States, is the establishment of a Portland branch of the chamber, with N. Miller as its local representative.

The office of the Swedish chamber will be at 456 Pittcock block, where already a number of Portland businessmen have enrolled as members. Mr. Miller expects to devote a large portion of his time to the work of stimulating trade relations between the northwest Pacific coast and Sweden and of encouraging the practice of direct import and export via the Columbia river ports.

Constable Attaches Fitzsimmons Gems

Constable Gathers in $600 Worth of Writ Sued Out by Lawyer Who Decried Alleged Bootlegger.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 27.—Mrs. Bob Fitzsimmons' jewels were seized here Thursday on an attachment. About $600 worth were gathered in by Constable Lambert on a writ from Justice Brinker's court.

The jewels seized include a turquoise brooch set with diamonds, an opal ring and a pearl ring. They were taken from Mrs. Fitzsimmons at the Butler hotel and are held by the court pending the settlement of a suit instituted by Attorney James Kallina for legal services rendered in the defense of E. C. Merritt, totaling $93.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons agreed to pay. Kallina alleges Merritt was charged with bootlegging. The writ Kallina asked for against Mrs. Fitzsimmons was preparing to dispose of her jewels.

REV. JOHN H. MELISH ANNOUNCES HE WILL SUPPORT MR. WILSON

Famous Pulpit Orator Says President "Deserves Return to Honor, Service."

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 27.—The Rev. John Howard Melish of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Brooklyn, here attending the Episcopal convention, has issued a signed statement announcing his support of President Wilson. He is one of the noted pulpits of the country, an outspoken independent, and an active worker in civic advancement in Ohio before going to New York.

"I am for the reelection of President Wilson," said Dr. Melish. "He has kept us out of a second Boer war in Mexico. He has maintained our neutrality in the world conflict and at the same time has upheld international law. The sober second thought of Europe, on both sides of the conflict, indorses Wilson, and recognizes him as a great leader and friend to whom they can turn when the hour strikes."

"President Wilson has given us a financial system for the first time in our history. A man of moral character, trained intelligence and democratic sympathy, he has met successfully the trying issues at home and abroad and deserves at our hands the return to honor and service."

Moose Elector for Wilson.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 27.—"I am still a Progressive, and because of that fact I am supporting President Wilson," declared W. D. Hendrick, one of the Progressive electors for Indiana, in a stirring speech at Irvington.

"I believe," he continued, "that President Wilson is for the masses as against Wall street, and those of the masses conflict. I believe the hand of the invisible government is trying to defeat Wilson. He is for proper defense and at the same time is doing his best to avoid war."

"Hughes has appealed to the Progressives to forget past differences and work for his election. I cannot forget a difference when that difference is a principle."

German Aids Wilson Fund.

New York, Oct. 27.—W. W. Marsh, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, received in his mail today a five mark note from Hermann Maximilian Jacoby, of No. 534 Riverside Drive, with this explanation: "As a German citizen, I want to express sincere admiration for the cause of Mr. Wilson by this small enclosure for the national Democratic campaign fund. You may rest assured that the sympathies of the appreciative German voters and non-voters are with the man who will be fair to the German people at the coming peace negotiations, and who, after having done so much for his own country, surely will do equally as much for the progressive thought of the world."

Women's Party Meeting Tonight. Salem, Or., Oct. 27.—Governor Withycombe has asked Miss Cornelia Marvin, state librarian, to preside at the National Woman's party meeting in Salem tonight. Mrs. Sara Hard Field, Mrs. Ida Fomer Mackrie and Mrs. William Kent will speak.

will correct a great Oregon mistake

- FIRST—Out of 6055 public school teachers in Oregon, only 791 (13 per cent) are Normal graduates.
- SECOND—Eastern Oregon received less than 10 per cent of these during the past five years, as against Western Oregon's 50 per cent.
- THIRD—There are but four other states in the Union so poorly equipped as Oregon in Normal training facilities. Idaho has regularly been spending twice as much for Normal instruction as has Oregon; Washington spends five times as much; California, in 1913, spent more than 10 times as much as Oregon.
- FOURTH—The Federal Bureau of Education recommended that, when a Normal school has a scarcity of grade pupils available for practice teaching work, the attendance at the Normal should be limited and another Normal school established in a city with an ample number of grade pupils for practice teaching purposes.
- FIFTH—The United States Bureau of Education recognizes but four factors in determining the location of a new Normal school:

- 1—It should be located so as to serve a well defined area of population.
- 2—It should be centrally located in the area to be served.
- 3—It should be located in the most convenient railroad center of the district.
- 4—It should be located in a community sufficiently large to provide adequate practice training facilities.

The Voters of the State Have Twice Refused to Re-establish the Former School at Weston BECAUSE:

The towns is so small. Weston is on a branch line of one railroad, with only two passenger trains a day.

The town is situated a mile from the depot and is reached by a mile walk through dust in summer and mud in winter.

There is no street from the depot to the town—only an open road and a sidewalk half the way.

The street of the town is the worst piece of road in Umatilla county. Weston is the only town in the county lacking the enterprise to connect with the county's paved road which reaches to the city limits on each side.

Weston has no sewerage system.

Weston has a water supply that is limited to winter and spring use.

There has been no increase in the number of the students in the Weston grade schools in 10 years.

The present number would permit standard instruction to not more than 18 normal students a year.

The buildings, when constructed 18 years ago, cost but $34,000.

Prof. Robert C. French, the last president of the Weston Normal school, who should be a competent judge of the conditions of the buildings from a school standpoint, states that, were the school re-established there, an entire new establishment must be built, as the present buildings are not fit for use as a state normal school.

ON THE OTHER HAND:

Pendleton has none of these disadvantages. Its supply of pure mountain water is abundant, its sewerage adequate, its location ideal, and it is reached by 22 passenger trains a day from five directions.

Pendleton offers, free to the state, a site for the school valued at a sum equal to the value of the abandoned plant at Weston.

Pendleton offers the use of a library of 12,000 volumes, most of which are reference books, and to which is being added 3000 volumes annually, the use of the largest athletic stadium in the state and a $10,000 natatorium.

Pendleton's schools will permit practice teaching and assure a standard normal training to 200 students, under the standard set by the United States Bureau of Education or, under the conditions under which the present state school operates, can accommodate more than 2000 students.

Pendleton's fitness for selection as the location for a state normal school is ably set forth by the following endorsement made by the W. C. T. U., given at the state convention of that body on October 20, 1916.

"Resolved, that it is the sense of this convention that Pendleton is not only adapted geographically and climatically as a site for an eastern Oregon normal school, but her environment, spirit, atmosphere and tone make here a fit and proper place for the establishment of an institution to teach those who teach our children."

The motion was carried unanimously.
