Now We May Have Canned Beans Put Up in Portland

BY H. S. HARCOURT.

A new and live industry has been established at 423 Belmont street, and it is prospering.

Thomas Harvey, formerly of Milwaukee, Wis., some 10 years ago went Mexico to better his fortune. While in that country, Mr. Harvey came ip contact with the famous Mexican bean, and acquired a healthy appetite or that national viand. He liked it. He admired its flavor and became conrinced of its nutritive qualities. Finally, Mr. Harvey established a Mexican bean cooking and canning establishment. It was a successful business venture up to the time the present Mexican disturbances were inaugurated. As a result of these rebellions his business was destroyed and he migrated bringing up in Calgary, Alberta. Here, he again engaged in the bean canning industry, and, considering the population of the city, enjoyed a good trade. One of his woman customers there formerly had resided in Portland. rom time to time she discussed this city with Mr. Harvey, always extolling t as one of the most pleasing residential regions she ever had known. These conversations interested Mr. Harvey so much that he carefully investigated not only the city but the state, with a view to engaging in his line of business here. The result was that he came to Portland about July 1, last, continued his investigations and decided to make this city his future home. OPENED BEAN CANNING PLANT.

"The more I investigated the better I liked the town," Mr. Harvey says, 'and I now expect to end my days here. I found the genuine Mexican bean is grown here in abundance and that every other ingredient required to can them, such as onions, tomatoes, sweet peppers, lard, beef suct and flavor-135 10th, Wear Alder, Phone Main 2674 ings were easily obtainable. Thus informed, I established a bean cannery at 423 Belmont street and already have my product in 50 Portland stores. PETTIT FEATHER & From a beginning of 100 cans a day, I am now putting up 1,000 cans, and soon will enlarge to a capacity of 5,000 cans in 24 hours."

Asked his method of marketing, Mr. Harvey replied: "L. W. Lowry is my salesman, and he places the product of our fac-tory in stores on consignment. Merchants do not pay for their goods until manufacturers of high-grade Comfort-ers. Pillows and the famous Never-spread Mattress. Ask your dealer to see them.

tory in stores on consignment. Merchants do not pay for their goods until sold, therefore they run no chance of loss. From my experiences in their cooking and flavoring, I have, I am confident, something so superior to the average that those who give my goods a trial will become regular consumaverage that those who give my goods a trial will become regular consumers, and I am sure my trade will grow in Portland as rapidly, at least, as it did in Mexico and Calgary. Some of the stores have given their third and fourth orders, and not one has had a dissatisfied customer. This, however, is exactly as I expected, for I know my goods, their quality and value."

CLEANLY AND SANITARY. "Havabean" is the name given Mr. Harvey's product, and it is canned in a clean, tidy, sanitary factory. A woman is in charge of this department, and she attends strictly to her business. The cooking apparatus to a novice, seems extensive, and it is kept shining like a coin just from the mint. The cooking is done by steam, the large cans being kept for nine hours at a temperature of 111 degrees of heat. This is done before anything is added to the beans themselves. When the tomatoes (Monopole hard pack), onions, lard, suet and flavoring have been mixed in, the substance undergoes another steaming process, and the cans themselves are sterilized. Handsome labels are then attached and the package presents a most inviting

Each can contains appetizing bean food sufficient for three persons, and is retailed for 15 cents. And, Mr. Harvey says, "we have a money-back proposition. Any sensible person buying a can of these beans and not satisfied with his investment, can have his money back. Our business will be conducted on this basis throughout."

Mr. Harvey has applied for a United States patent on his manufacturing process, and expects it will be granted. His formula is different, so far as he is aware, from any other known,

He is also preparing to cook and can the Oregon kidney bean, and will have these on sale by the first of the year.

GREAT ACTIVITY IN MANUFACTURING

There are no "hard times" in Port-

In fact, "times" never were better. "Our sales are the largest in 12 years," one fur manufacturer declares, Another says "we cannot fill our or-ders," and still another reports that "we are driven to death"! A harness manufacturer declares that "if we did not book another order for six months our men would be busy as nailers filling those already in." plus of structures were erected, yet it it is better here than in most cities when writing or calling on advertiser of the country. Stores are prospering, please mention The Journal. (Adv.)

and, except for the lack of ships and cars, Portland would now be in the midst of the city's greatest business activity. All machine shops are having their best business in years, and most of them are operating with augmented forces.

Copey Says over. Of course, there is burying of dead and decorating the graves of those looking for political appointments. Now we must hold public meetings and find out who has been preventing manufacturing industries coming to Portland and Oregon. We must get at the truth, tack the blame on the right parties, whether rich or poor, clear away all obstacles, and get pay rolls. Chicago's pay roll increased $10.000.000 this year.
