

WOMAN'S ELECTION TO LEGISLATURE IS TRIBUTE TO WORKER

Mrs. Alexander Thompson of The Dalles Ardent Campaigner for the President.

ACTIVITIES ARE NOTED

Advocate Waged Strenuous Fight in a District Which is Normally Known as Republican.

Mrs. Alexander Thompson of The Dalles, who was elected as a member of the state legislature from Wasco and Hood River counties, is already widely known in Oregon because of the part she played in the campaign for the reelection of President Wilson.

Mrs. Thompson has always been an ardent suffragist, having worked through several campaigns for suffrage in Oregon. She is also prominent in club work, being the recording secretary of the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs, chairman of the juvenile court committee of the Oregon Congress of Mothers, treasurer of the Old Port Dalles Historical society, for two years president of The Dalles Social club, and for several years an officer in the Oregon chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Her campaign was watched with interest by many who knew her and were anxious to see her win, and the fact that she overcame the large Republican majority against her is considered to be a personal tribute to her ability and popularity. In addition to speaking in other parts of the state in the presidential campaign, she waged an energetic campaign throughout her district. She is an accomplished reader and uses her talent in that line to good advantage. She has lectured many of her meetings as entertainments of dramatic and humorous readings, which she closed with an appeal for votes for herself. She held meetings in apple warehouses, country schools, houses, churches and grange halls.

As the representative of H. M. Estery, Democratic national committee man, she attended the notification of President Wilson at Shadow Lawn in September. While meeting with the national committee in New York city, at a luncheon at the Manhattan hotel, she made a speech which attracted much attention. When she returned home she was given a public reception by her fellow townspeople regardless of party lines.

Mrs. Thompson is still a young woman, though proud of the fact that she is the mother of a grown daughter, and her friends predict that her election to the legislature is only the beginning of her political career.

VICTORY REWARD OF RACE

Mrs. Alexander Thompson.

Coal Demand High, Prices Are Soaring

Factories Are So Busy That Their Need for Fuel is Stupendous and Domestic Users Are Paying Penalty.

New York, Nov. 11.—(U. P.)—Prosperity may yet freeze New York's population to death. Such at least was today the explanation of the coal man, issued out with each order of coal—$10 to $12 a ton and still going up.

The mills and factories are so busy that their demand for coal is stupendous, is the unanimous verdict. They have simply grabbed everything in sight and are aching to get their hands on more. Of course a thing like that pushes up prices and the prices for domestic fuel, Tien, too, cars are scarce, storage is at an almost prohibitive figure and wages for all workers in the coal mining and handling activities are high. That's all.

Reports received from abroad indicate that the masks used in the present war are constantly changing in design to meet new and intentionally surprising conditions of the class of warfare that employs poisonous gases as a means of attack. The army department, it is understood, already is experimenting with certain designs of poisonous gas masks.

Bell Girls Taking Place of Bell Boys

Women Guests Find Bell Girls Almost as Useful as Males; Cleveland Hotel Tries Experiment.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 11.—(U. P.)—"Front," says the clerk at the hotel desk, and instead of the customary bell-boy there comes a "knock-me-down" blonde or a dashing brunette to take your luggage and pilot you to your room.

"Bell girls" are more attentive than bell boys says the originator of the idea. That is the reason they have been installed in the Hotel Etalier here.

Women guests find the "bell girls" almost as useful as a maid, the management states. The "hook-me-up" problem is now easily solved.

None of the drummers has complained. "Bell girls" are more attentive than bell boys says the originator of the idea. That is the reason they have been installed in the Hotel Etalier here.

JOURNAL FACILITIES PROVED ADEQUATE IN HANDLING RETURNS

People Are Kept Informed on Main Details of Election Throughout the Country.

SERVICE IS SUPERIOR

Throng Read Bulletins and Thousands of Journal Extras Were Distributed on the Street.

In the task of gathering and publishing election returns from county, state and nation, the facilities of The Journal proved entirely adequate.

From the time the polls closed Tuesday until late Thursday afternoon, when Wilson's victory in California assured his reelection, The Journal published 16 editions, morning and evening, which kept the public advised of the latest developments.

Beginning late Tuesday afternoon when early bulletins began to be received from the eastern states, until late Thursday night, The Journal building was surrounded by throngs of interested citizens. Window bulletins served to keep the public advised of the early progress of the count until dark Tuesday when returns were flashed on a screen on the Broadway side of the Unitarian church.

Public Shows Interest. That this service was appreciated was evidenced by the immense throng which gathered every available inch of space where the returns could be read. So hungry for information was the crowd—the largest ever assembled in Portland to receive election returns.

The late afternoon edition, which went out late into the night, a corps of efficient workers preparing the bulletins for display. From an early hour Tuesday evening, when it became apparent that New York's preference for Hughes did not necessarily indicate his election, The Journal service was abreast of every news development.

In the handling of the returns from Multnomah county, The Journal proved the superiority of its service. In its Wednesday morning edition it published incomplete returns from 375 out of 375 precincts in Multnomah county, against the Oregonian's incomplete returns from 200 out of the 375 precincts.

Journal in Lead. The Journal kept far in the lead of the Telegram in the publication of Multnomah county returns. For example in its 2 o'clock edition Thursday afternoon The Journal published complete returns from 372 Multnomah county precincts out of 375 while in its edition published at the same hour the Telegram contained complete returns from only 220 Multnomah county precincts.

The same lead was kept by The Journal over the Telegram in publishing returns on men and measures from other Oregon counties outside of Multnomah.

It was the prompt and efficient service of the United Press, the International News Service and the Pacific News Service, the enthusiasm of the correspondents throughout the Oregon country and the cooperation of a small army of special employes who assisted the members of the regular news staff that enabled The Journal to get these results. Additional telephone facilities, provided by the city, also facilitated the collection of returns.

Phones Kept Busy. No sooner had the polls closed in Multnomah county Tuesday evening than scores of messengers, recruited mostly from the Journal carriers, began the rounds telephoning the incomplete returns at frequent intervals to The Journal where another large force of special employes, including men from the Blunk-Walker business college compiled the figures which were in turn passed on to the news writers, and bulletin service. A special battery of direct line long distance telephones was used almost exclusively by the messengers.

Late Tuesday night a third crew of men assembled at the count house to recount and check the count. The vote in each of the 375 Multnomah county precincts. These tabulators worked in relays until the task was ended.

Adding Machines Aid. By the adding machines in The Journal pounded away furiously all day Wednesday and late into the night compiling this complete count for the afternoon and morning editions. Late Thursday morning complete totals had been secured of all the men and measures on the ballot from 374 of the 375 county precincts. It was midnight noon before a motorcycle messenger arrived with the belated count from Precinct 237 at 578 Union avenue where the election board had required more than 40 hours in counting the ballots.

All day Wednesday and Thursday the Yamhill street side of The Journal building was choked with crowds assembled to watch the window bulletins and to await successive editions of The Journal which they knew contained the news while it was news.

Music by Wireless Latest Possibility. Dr. De Forest Gives Exhibition in Which Phonographic Records Played Quarter of Mile Distant Are Heard.

New York, Nov. 11.—Dr. Lee De Forest has just given an exhibition here of the wonders of wireless music. Phonograph records were played in a building in West Thirty-eighth street and distinctly heard in the receiving room at the Hotel Astor, a quarter of a mile away.

It is possible to send music 150 miles through the air by the De Forest apparatus. The inventor has soon to install a more powerful sending apparatus in the tower of the Woolworth building, tallest skyscraper in the world, from which concerts will be heard hundreds of miles out to sea. It is feasible for passengers on an ocean liner to hear the operas at the Metropolitan, even to the applause. Dr. De Forest says:

Belgians Put to Work. The Hague, Nov. 11.—Belgian civilians have been set to work by the Germans making a second line of wire entanglements 200 yards within the first along the Dutch-Belgian border near Wachtebeke. This added precaution is rendered necessary by the great increase in the number of German deserters.

United Press Wins More Glory by Its Election Service

When the election of Woodrow Wilson hung in doubt hour after hour, the United Press organization was put to the most severe strain in its history. Thousands in Portland and all over the country depended on what came over its wires to tell them who the next president would be. Many of the United Press men stuck to their desks and to their telegraph keys more than 40 hours without sleep, and by means of news brought into the Journal office by United Press the people of Portland were kept accurately informed of how the history making struggle progressed.

After the issue was decided, when for the first time since 7 o'clock last Tuesday morning the strain was relieved, W. W. Hawkins, general manager of the United Press, sent the following message to all United Press men from his New York office:

"All reports prove that the United Press was consistently first and right on the election throughout. It was the greatest story of its kind in history, and the service rendered to the emergency all along the line. No small degree of credit is due to the operators whose HEROIC work met every demand and never wavered under the most severe tension and the longest strain. "Every bureau manager in the service shares the credit for the wonderful showing on speed, accuracy, coolness and the punch that made the United Press famous."

Park Rangers Will Displace Rangers

Fort Yellowstone, Wyoming, Has Been Closed and Soldiers Ordered to Other Stations for Duty.

Washington, Nov. 11.—(U. P. S.)—Fort Yellowstone, Wyoming, the post of the troops which have policed the Yellowstone national park for several years, has been closed and the troops ordered to other stations, the National Parks Bureau has announced. They will be replaced by 30 park rangers. The change is part of the policy of the bureau, which will employ only civil processes to police the park instead of the military power, which has been used since the park was founded.

Colonel Lloyd M. Brett, cavalry, who has been in command at the park, and his military assistants will take stations on the Mexican frontier.

Double Vision Plan Is Aid to Surgery

New Discovery Permits Joint Use of X-Ray and the Roentgen Rays in Actual Practice.

Washington, Nov. 11.—(U. P. S.)—The development of Roentgen rays in surgery by scientists of the central powers has not been halted because of the war. A method for removing foreign substances from the human body with the direct aid of the X-ray has been devised, according to a report from Consul Gen. Halstead, Vienna, to the state department.

Prof. Guido Holzknecht, at the last meeting of the Medical Society of Vienna.

enna, demonstrated the process by means of stereopticon pictures. The new method permits the surgeon to see the field of the operation with one eye, under ordinary conditions, while the other eye sees the same field under Roentgen-ray illumination. This method of double-vision is made possible by the so-called "Grashey monocle." The Roentgen machine itself is situated by means of a speaking tube with the operating room. The surgeon is enabled to see on the picture in the Roentgen machine how far his probe is removed from the object.
