BY VELLA WINNER

THE Portland branch Association of Collegiate Alumnae is planning a delightfully novel Christmas party in the nature of an old English Christmas celebration to be given December 18. The host and hostess will be a lord and lady of the English nobility, and, dressed in the costume of the Tudor period, they will receive the guests in an old English reception room. The Yule log will be in evidence, there will be the singing of Christmas carols, and a primitive Christmas play, "St. George and the Dragon," giving an idea of the earliest English drama, and in this the guests will participate. This will be followed by the playing of some of the old-fashioned English plays, London bridge, mulberry bush, the Morris dances and the bear's head procession, preceded by a trumpeter, the court fool and other funmakers which went to make up these processions in the early days of merrie England. The refreshments will be spiced cider, a popular beverage of early English days. The whole affair will be just as "Christmassy" as the enthusiasm, knowledge and ingenuity of the college women can make it, and the affair gives promise of being one of the most delightful of the many notable affairs given by this organization. Miss Elizabeth Burrows is in general charge of the affair, and she has been prominently identified with like celebrations in other cities where the early English Christmas celebration is still happily remembered.

Thompson Association Meets.—The Parent-Teacher association of Thompson school held a meeting Thursday afternoon. After a short business session, consisting of reports showing the varied activities of the different committees, the following program was given: Soprano solo, Miss Pierce, "Spring Awakening," "In the Time of Roses," paper by Mrs. George H. Wilson on the subject, "Beautifying the school," piano solo, Stanley Wentz; soprano solo, Mrs. Gabriel Pullin, "I loved it more," "The Jubilee," and "Frazzle" gave a constructive talk in the work of pure literature committee. This work is now being taken up by the Thompson association. Mrs. W. Spaulding, Woodlawn 2294, is chairman of this committee in this district. Mrs. C. J. Devereaux explained briefly the work of the social service committee of the city, after which tea and cookies were served. In order to raise a fund for the social service work, the assembly hall was decorated with ivy and American flags. The committee had arranged immense bouquets of the ivy and brass jardiniere and basket and from each cluster of the railing ivy, the American flag also appeared. Vases of cosmos and chrysanthemums formed center pieces for the tea table. The following women were present: Mrs. F. Jones, Mrs. Broadbent, Mrs. J. Nitzel and Mrs. E. Soule.

Albina Homestead Association.—The Parent-Teacher association of Albina Homestead school met Friday afternoon. An interesting program was given by pupils from Miss Broderick and Miss Stewart's rooms. Wilfrid P. Jones, vice president of the North-western National Bank, gave a talk on "Thrift." Under the management of the Chi Omegas, a five cent luncheon soon will be furnished for the pupils of the school.

Trousdale Association.—The Trousdale Parent-Teacher meeting was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Van De Walker. Mrs. L. M. Kummer, resigned. It was announced that there is to be formed a federation of parent-teacher associations in this county outside of Portland. The meeting for organization is to be held in the Masonic hall at Trousdale, December 8, beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning. Mrs. L. A. Sharrow, president of the association, held the meeting. Mrs. Van De Walker, who will be in charge of the luncheon, will be in charge of the program.

White Salmon Woman's Club.—The White Salmon Woman's Club met Thursday. Peru was the study topic for the afternoon, with Mrs. C. N. Clark, leader. Mrs. Clark read a counsellor's paper on "The Land of the Incas." Mrs. Roy Heaman read an interview which Roger W. Babson had with former President Benavides, in regard to his business and otherwise, between Peru and the United States. Mrs. Earl Coe read of the capital city of Lima as it is today, and Mrs. Aggers read a pleasing description of that faulty independent, beat of burden, the llama. The next meeting will be held November 16 at 2 p. m., with Mrs. F. E. Baker leader. The subject will be "South American Cities," and the roll call will be on the cities and towns. Each person is prepared to do their part.

Woman's Democratic Club.—The regular meeting of the Women's Democratic club will be held in library room this evening at 8 o'clock. Senator Lane, the printer, and "Captain" Lane, the subject, "Our Future Policy."

Mrs. Ralph C. Walker, who will play a group of her own compositions at the meeting of Chapter A of P. E. O. Sisterhood today.

Other speakers will present vital issues which are the outgrowth of the past campaign. There will be good music.

New Thought Club.—The Women's New Thought club will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Althea Wiesendanger at her home 1928 East Thirtieth street. Take Woodstock car.

Jap Sees Mistress Kissed; Now Divorced

New York, Nov. 12.—(U. P.)—Chin An, Japanese, was a good butcher. He saw and heard nothing—until one day. Then, as he polished wine goblets he saw the reflected view of his mistress, Mrs. George Saxton Barber, kissing and hugging a man who wasn't her husband. On that evidence today Mrs. William McKinley, obtained a divorce, while charges of Mrs. Lillian Geissenhalmer against her husband, who was the correspondent named in the Barber case, are still pending.

IF MEN WOULD MAKE UP Wouldn't it be fun if men would take example from the present day woman and would—well, I actually saw one of them lip-sticking and the most humorous passer-by could see that all were powdered and penciled! Now if anybody needs making up, men do. Then, too, if they take to doing this, they are certain to do it more delicately than we and we shall have them grinded. No more criticism of the girl who does, for we shall immediately tell all we know regarding his complexion. Also, he will be kept very busy powdering his nose, for his cigarette smoke is likely to warm off the delicate film and he will have little time left to criticize us. I don't know as it would be such an innocuous thing as having my old-time—that time when men did greater things than they do now, if we may believe in history—men of those traditional days powdered their wives and wore silks, velvets and laces without being accused of extravagance might detract from their manliness. How would it do to just frankly exchange costumes with them? I have always thought it would be much more comfortable and sensible for the weaker ones—to wear the less weighty and less leaping garments. It would be a relief, too, to some wives to be able to point accusingly to the extravagant expenditures of hubby: "Just look at that item for velvets—merely for velvets, alone, this month!"

OYSTERS WITH MUSHROOMS. One cup rich hot milk, one tablespoon butter, salt and pepper, two teaspoons parsley, one teaspoon onion juice, one-half cup mushrooms, one teaspoon flour, one pint oysters. Cook the flour in one-half the butter and set over hot water ten minutes. If they wash fresh, wash in cold water, drain and simmer for ten minutes in the cream sauce. Five minutes before serving add the oysters which have been washed and drained. When the oysters are done, use a double boiler for this dish, as the mixture scorches easily.

Rubs for Wrinkles. When you bathe your face you should have more than one object in view. Your primary object is cleanliness, but you make a great mistake if you rub wrinkles into your face. The skin is so flexible and resilient that you are liable to forget that you can do it serious injury. You are inclined to assume that whatever you rub and pull it will spring back into its natural position and form. Stop a moment and make a mental calculation of the number of times you rub your cheeks and brow each month—the simple operation of cleansing them. If your calculation is reasonably correct you can see how easy it is to injure the skin and cause wrinkles. The pores should be cleaned, but you cannot wash your face without massaging it. This is a science. It is not a practice to take up in a careless manner. I am a firm believer in facial massage. It invigorates the skin and stirs up the circulation of the blood which nourishes and tints it, but careless rubbing of the skin may do serious injury. It is as easy to bathe the face correctly as to wash it in the way that will cause wrinkles and rough skin. Men always object when a barber begins to shave them against the grain. There are several good reasons, all of which are well founded. Women should file similar objections when their faces are rubbed "against the grain." They should avoid such a firm footing as the idea that all they had to do was to apply the preparation. This, of course, was a foolish idea. If you are attempting to prevent the formation of wrinkles, you are on the right course before you go ahead. Wrinkles are annoying and they are difficult to get rid of when they have a firm footing. You are not going to avoid them nor clear your face if you rub them into the skin every time you pick up a wash cloth, sponge or towel. Consider your cheeks as friends and you will not rub them the wrong way.

Finest Story Finely Acted. An excellent Irish story, with two excellent actors playing the leading parts, is "A Son of Erin" at the Pickford theatre. Paramount photographs has interesting as usual complete the bill. Dustin Farnum is the son of Erin and his best beloved, Katie O'Grady, is played by Winnifred Kingston. Dennis O'Hara comes to America after troubles with his landlord on the old sod and like all patriotic Irishmen becomes a member of the New York police force. Dennis is made the scapegoat in a vice investigation, regardless of his innocence, and is turned out just at the time when he is preparing to send for Katie, who in Ireland is the best of the best of the old country. Finally Dennis wins back his honors and when he becomes police captain and for Katie, Katie is made over- come by the magnificent raiment of her best beloved but she recovers sufficiently for the play to end happily. In the opinion of the theatre is decorated with a special and appropriate lobby, in which emerald green figures conspicuously.

SHE LIKES IT!

ASK any housewife who has changed the family table drink from harmful coffee to helpful INSTANT POSTUM whether the change has been a success.

The answer may well induce you to make the change yourself.

Less "nerves," better temper, clearer complexion, improved digestion and steadier heart, after a trial, demonstrate conclusively that the change from coffee to POSTUM is a wise move for the whole family.

"There's a Reason"

Players Good Comedians.

Thus do the Alcazar Players, starring "Nearly Married" this week, prove to Baker-theatregoers that they are comedians as well as serious drama. There are more wild adventures in this play, as it opened yesterday for the week's run, than could ordinarily be found in half a dozen.

It's all about a divorced couple who decide to make up before they learn the doctor has signed a divorce. A coxey young lawyer-brother of the woman, they elope. They are pursued by the brother, some well-meaning friends and the woman who, for hire, has acted as co-responder and machina. They are overhauled. They are told of the awful truth.

Every part in the play is a comedy part. Ruth and the woman who makes of her pouting, hysterical role a veritable scream of fun—for the audience. Albert McGovern, the leading man, limbers up in some exciting near-slapstick antics that are saved from clownishness by the tact and art of the actor. The other players, with excellent balance and delicacy, make of the successive compromising scenes one sequence of riotous joy.

Trained Horse Wonderful.
