Meat Eaters' Backache

Meat lovers, as a class, seem to be much troubled with backache and "EveryPicture Tells a Story" rheumatic attacks. Unless you do heavy work and get lots of fresh air and outdoor exercise, it is unwise to eat meat too freely or too often. Meat is rich in nitrogen, and nitrogen floods generate more uric acid in the body than other foods. Thus more work is thrown upon the kidneys. Uric acid is irritating to the nerves. It causes backache, headache, dizzy spells, pain in muscles and joints, and urinary disorders. It tends to cause gravel, stone or Bright's disease.

When the kidneys seem out of con-lition, use Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's a Portland case:

The too frequent action of the kidneys bothered me and coursed me to arise often at might caused me to arise often at night. I used three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and was cured, so that from that time on, I have had but very little trouble with my back or kidneys.
