

What Society Is Doing

BY NONA LAWLER

MRS. WALTER C. BOWLES of 668 Corona street was a charming hostess of yesterday afternoon, when she gave an informal tea in honor of Anthony Euwer, author of "Rhymes of Our Valley," who has been passing the week in Portland, having come down from his summer home at Hood River for a visit in Portland prior to his departure within a few weeks for New York. Mr. Euwer is also an artist of note, and the pleasure of the afternoon was divided between his charming past sketches of the scenic country which surrounds his home in the upper Hood River valley, and in hearing him read selections from "The Rhymes of Our Valley," "Christopher Crick on Cats" and his clever limericks on anatomy.

A prettily appointed tea table was presided over by Mrs. David A. Pattullo, and others assisting the hostess were her sister, Mrs. Clyde A. Hanawalt, Mrs. Eugene C. Comstock and Mrs. A. Frederick Menke.

Bazaars Tomorrow.

The women of Atkinson Congregational church will hold a bazaar tomorrow afternoon and evening. Fancy articles suitable for Christmas gifts, aprons, candy and ice cream will be on sale. A luncheon will be served at 12 o'clock and supper at 6 o'clock.

The women of First United Brethren church will hold their annual Christmas bazaar all day Friday and Saturday at 341 Morrison street, near Broadway.

Social Tonight.

Martha Washington Social club will entertain their friends tonight at Washington Masonic hall on the east side; will play "500" and give refreshment.

Michigan Society.

The December meeting of the Michigan society was postponed on account of the illness of Mrs. Fay Eastman, secretary of the social committee. An unusually good program of speeches, readings and music is being prepared for the January meeting, at which an-

of the Unitarian church and of Portland's early history were recited "over the telegraph." A pleasing feature was the reading of two beautiful and appropriate poems of Browning's by Mrs. Louise Fitzpatrick Smith, a well known member of this church, and whose splendid readings have been heard many times in this same chapel. The afternoon closed with all present joining hands and singing "Auld Lang Syne."

White Temple Bazaar.

The young women of the White temple will conduct a parcel post sale Friday evening, December 8, at the church parlors, Twelfth and Taylor streets, where articles suitable for Christmas gifts will be sold for 25 cents each. An interesting program has been arranged, and a good time is assured.

Society Notes.

Miss Lois Elaine Getzinger of Hornell, N. Y., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. George M. Cornwell in Piedmont. She arrived last week and will remain a month or more.

ITNEY FRANCHISE IS PUT OVER BY COUNCIL UNTIL NEXT MONDAY

The Ladies Aid of the Trinity M. E. church, on Tenth street between Sherman and Caruthers streets, will have a Parcel Post sale and cafeteria supper tomorrow evening from 6 until 7 o'clock. The parcels will be sold for 15 cents. There will be other useful articles for sale. A large patronage is desired. A program will be given at 8 o'clock.

To Entertain Minnesota Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hall, of 958 Glenn avenue, will entertain the Minnesota society at their home Friday evening. A musical program has been arranged and there will be cards. All former Minnesota residents of Portland are invited to attend.

Trinity M. E. Bazaar.

The reception and lavender tea given by the Women's alliance of the Unitarian church in their parlors yesterday afternoon in honor of Dr. Mary Thompson, Mrs. Mary E. Teal, Mrs. Alfred Sears and Mrs. Maria Warner was unique and very enjoyable. The four honor citizens are all well known by the older citizens of Portland and many reminiscences of the early days

Goodbye Wrinkles! Bad Complexions, you must go!

NOUVELLE BEAUTE POUR TOUTES LES DAMES

Remarkable discovery of skin osmosis promises to make wrinkles, hollow-cheeked, aged-looking women astonishingly beautiful, youthful and charming.

FRANCE'S GREAT PRIZE BEAUTY TREAT

Now you can almost immediately suppress the appearance of smaller wrinkles and marks of age and make yourself look from 5 to 15 years younger in 30 days time. How to banish every complexion blemish in three nights in many instances.

A thousand times I have heard rich women say: "Oh! youth is so wonderful and lovely. I would give everything I possess for youth and beauty again!" No woman with the slightest signs of pride or ambition in her heart wants to be laid on the shelf, aged, careworn, wrinkled and forgotten, so that men wish to avoid her at every dance and dinner party, and women themselves would like to write someone who looks younger to brighten up the occasion. Yet there is no longer any reason why the average woman need look so old and plain, even if she is old.

Since the remarkable discovery of skin osmosis, almost any woman can obtain most astonishing new beauty and a most surprising youthful appearance, even though she is 40 or 50 or more years of age. The Countess de Chevasne, who at 30 years of age possesses a marvelously soft, smooth, velvet-like skin, and an almost girl-like complexion without a wrinkle in sight, told the writer personally in Paris that she owed it all to the discovery of skin osmosis. Every complexion blemish can be banished in three nights in many instances. The skin is awakened in the morning with a beautiful, rose-colored complexion, fresh as a daisy.

I have known dozens of hollow-cheeked, wrinkled, aged-looking women, who had given up all hope of ever looking beautiful and youthful again, to "come back" and again become most beautiful, youthful and fascinating in from two to three weeks' time by this wonderful, simple method.

No matter what your age or what you have tried unsuccessfully, skin osmosis will positively bring you new beauty and youth. Merely wash your face in warm water at night and rub in a teaspoonful or two of any good roseated cream which you can obtain from your druggist. In the morning wash the face with cold water and rub in more cream.

WASHINGTON AND THIRD

Although the city council, in special session this morning, was to have considered jitney legislation, it did nothing but give preliminary consideration to the franchise sought by the Portland & Oregon City Electric Railway Co. to operate motor buses in connection with its interurban street car system.

The council fixed Monday afternoon to consider the jitney franchise proposed by Commissioner Daly, and a plan for revision of the zone system.

Much of the session was spent in a discussion of the question of a bond for each motor bus operated under the franchise sought by the Carver company.

The tentative route submitted by the company is:

From East Sixtieth on Division to Ladd avenue, to Harrison, to Mulberry, to East Twelfth, to East Clay, to East Water, to Hawthorn and across Hawthorn bridge to Front, to Taylor, to Fifth, to Alder, to First, to Morrison, and across Morrison bridge to East Water, to Belmont, to East Fourteenth, to Maple (in Ladd tract), to East Sixteenth, to Ladd avenue, to Division, to East Sixtieth. Also from East Fifty-second and Division to Foster road, and on Foster road to East Ninety-second street.

Interest Payments Gain.

Payments of interest and principal on sewer and street improvement bonds were larger during 1916 than during 1915, and 1914, according to a report of City Auditor Barbur compiled today. The interest in 1916 was $875,173.94, the principal $1,559,036.25 and the total $2,224,210.19. In 1915 the total was $2,015,631 and in 1914 $1,994,342.55.

ORIENTAL RUGS OF EXCEPTIONAL BEAUTY ARE BEING SHOWN

Handsome Collections From Private Portland Homes Are Part of the Display.

Oriental rugs that have heretofore hidden their beauty in private homes of Portland have for this week come forth from their seclusion to add the grace of their artistry and the romance of their history to an exhibit in the Atiyeh Bros.' showrooms. The largest private collections represented are those of Mrs. Solomon Hirsch, Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett, Mrs. R. B. Sinnott, T. C. Kurts and Frederick Holman, but there are numerous individual exhibits of worth.

James Lindsey exhibits an old Bokhara prayer-rug that has eased the prayers of many a pious son of Allah. Emma Paul has a royal Bokhara. Mrs. E. A. Kempe has a Senna of close, fine weave. F. P. Kendall shows a saddle-cover that once graced the hump of a blue-backed camel. In addition to her antique Chinese rugs, Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett shows a pair of Saraks of such reds and blues as rug makers may only dream of now.

Besides their own old rugs the Atiyehs have arranged many pieces representative of the last 25 years' revival of weaving sponsored by Abdul Hamid. One of the most treasured of these is of Hereche silk in mellow reds and tan. A picture rug from this period shows the Shah of Persia proceeding to his devotions. Andrew R. Porter shows a modern royal Kashan which demonstrates that contemporary rug weavers, if they be honest, can do as well as the old-fashioned work as did the older workers.

An antique Atiyeh rug of silk is in the tree of punishment design, with two wistful but wicked Turks standing beneath and gazing with alarm the treed animals into which they must be reincarnated. Portieres are shown, one pair in the familiar garden pattern, and another of fine silk Tabriz weave. An ancient hunting rug graphically portrays the oriental counterpart of riding to hounds.

In the first gallery a loom has been erected, and here two young girls, Anna and Paris Karagolian, demonstrate the intricate and painstaking method of Turkish rug weaving.

NOTE—The manufacturers of Creme Tokalon, Roseated, have such unbounded confidence in their particular brand that they offer to forfeit $200 to any charitable institution if it can be shown that it will not banish every wrinkle in many instances. It can be tonishing new beauty and give most atime in many instances. It can be careworn, aged women in three days' time in many instances. It can be obtained absolutely fresh and guaranteed pure from Meier & Frank, The Owl Drug Co., Olds, Wortman & King, Lipman, Wolfe & Co., or most any good druggist or department store in this city.

Pill Boxes and Grumblers.

There are strange kinks in the minds of men who take large amounts of medicine into their systems in the belief that with their aid they will be enabled to gorge their stomachs without causing any great trouble. The most intelligent course is to regulate the diet so that medicine will not be necessary.

If I should eat mince pie with the feeling that it would lead bad after-effects unless I followed the eating with digestive tablets, I should most certainly avoid the pastry. If I could not digest a theatre supper without the assistance of medicine, I should simulate digestion I should go without the supper.

I once had a friend who was taking medicine continually. She carried it with her wherever she went. Her medicine box was more in evidence than that were the snuff boxes of colonial days, and it reminded her constantly of her ailments. She talked of nothing but her aches, pains and physical disorders. She actually developed a mania for discussions of this character. Yet while she seemed to be taking excellent care of herself, she did the most foolish and absurd things. She filled her stomach with the most indigestible foods; she never gave a thought to the hours she spent in bed and she was always too fatigued to exercise. She was a chronic complainer and, according to her words, she suffered continuously, and she also made others suffer. In deed, some of her friends considered both her and her medicine a nuisance. Yet she did not have sense enough, or sufficient strength of character, to live in such a way to recover her health.

Such persons deserve little sympathy. There is not much use in taking medicine and visiting a physician's office every day unless you are willing to obey ordinary health rules. The medicine does not have a chance to do its work and the physician's efforts are lost.

Some women go around complaining of headaches day after day when all they need is a good night's sleep. Other continually take headache powders and sleeping potions because they cannot or do not govern their appetites. There are still other women whose heads ache because the way they live keeps their nerve system under a continual strain.

The woman with a pill box in her hand and a word of complaint on her tongue is not a pretty figure. There are heroic figures in the world who patiently suffer from chronic ailments which fail to yield to the influence of intelligent treatment. They inspire admiration as well as sympathy.

The Spirit of Christmas

THE spirit of Christmas is the spirit of service! The faithful carrier of parcels in Charles Dickens' "The Cricket of the Hearth" was an embodiment of this spirit.

John Peerybingle typified personal service in transportation for his day and age. He never dreamed—Charles Dickens never dreamed—of the magnitude of Wells Fargo Service, nor of its thousands of devoted expressmen, upon whose efficient work the convenience, comfort, and pleasure of so many depend.

Steadily the express has builded its reputation for both fidelity and dispatch in the handling of its business; yet it is in the flood-tide of Christmas shipments that its service is put to the greatest test.

It is at this time that Wells Fargo needs most the co-operation of its patrons in order that it may handle without delay its millions of Christmas packages. Therefore we make an earnest request that you ship early this Christmas. To help you do this we furnish attractive labels requesting the recipient of your packages not to open them until Christmas day.
