The naval authorities in their warning relate that the suspected craft was allowed to pass by the patrol off the southwestern coast of Scotland last Sunday under the impression that she was the Dutch steamer Gamma. Later it was learned that the latter was at Kirkwall at the time.

The vessel is described as of 1200 tons, black hull with red bottom, white upper works, one funnel, thought to be plain black.

Naval officers believe the vesse have mines intended to be sown off this port, the most important on this coast to the British navy, or to endanger the travel lanes out of here. taken by all Canadian troop ships,

Under the court's decision the property will go to Mrs. Mattle Tobias and her 7-year-old daughter, Helen, of Seattle. Mrs. Nannie Mathews of Pen-nieton, mother of Mrs. Tobias and daughter of Mrs. Dale, is the one who sought to break the will on the grounds that her mother was mentally incompetent to make a will and that Mrs. Tobias and her husband, David, had unduly influenced Mrs. Dale against her daughter.

Nearly two weeks was taken to hear the case and then Judge Cleeton made a strong appeal to the mother and daughfer to get together and agree upon a division of the property. He took the case under advisement for a week, urging them to compromise in the meantime.

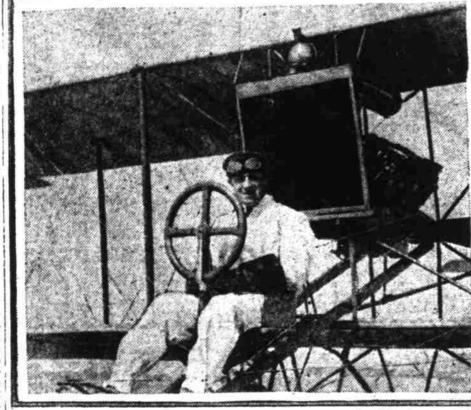

Something Wrong, Says Judge. When the attorneys advised the judge this morning that no compromise had been reached, Judge Cleetor declared his belief that he had not been given all the facts in the case, as nothing had been presented in the testimony which would justify a re-fusal on the part of both mother and daughter to agree to divide the prop-"There is something, somewhere that casts a portentious shadow that keeps these people apart," he said, "and the court has not been advised what it is." Judge Cleeton reviewed at length in hearly an hour's discourse, the tesimony in the case. He said he could find nothing in the testimony to adequately account for Mrs. Dale's es-trangement from her daughter, Mrs. Mathews, but it was apparent that
