

CADWALLADER TELLS REASONS HE THINKS WIFE WAS ALIENATED

Testimony of Plaintiff in Big Damage Suit Against Rich Timberman Taken.

COURTESIES ARE SHOWN

Husband Gives Long List of Incidents, Mostly Little Favors From Employer to Stenographer.

Charles L. Cadwallader, plaintiff in a suit against James E. Cameron, wealthy timberman, for $50,000 damages for alleged alienation of Mrs. Cadwallader's affections, last night related the incidents on which he bases his charges. His testimony was taken in the form of a deposition at the instance of Attorney John McCourt and Elton Wright, attorneys for Mr. Cameron. In substance, his charges are as follows:

Cameron took the witness and his wife, who was employed as Cameron's stenographer, on a "joy ride" on two occasions. Once they went to Chantilly, where they had lunch. Cameron refused to let Cadwallader pay for the lunch. He monopolized the conversation with Mrs. Cadwallader. On the way home, when Mrs. Cadwallader was seated in the rear seat with her husband, Cameron reached back and tried to pinch her knee.

Extended Woman's Courtesy. Somebody whose name the witness could not recall told him that he had seen Mrs. Cadwallader in an automobile with Cameron before that.

During the heavy snow last winter, Cameron called for Mrs. Cadwallader in a taxicab and took her to his office. Cameron and Mrs. Cadwallader met at Seaview, Wash., stopping at the same boarding house. They returned to Portland together.

Cadwallader asked his wife a number of times the year after their marriage in 1912, to resign her position with Cameron, and she refused. The witness said he did not know of any secret meetings between Cameron and Mrs. Cadwallader.

Gave Her Box of Candy.

The first Christmas after the Cadwalladers were married, Cameron gave Mrs. Cadwallader a box of candy. A third person told the witness that Cameron said Cadwallader could not "keep" Dorothy, meaning he could not keep the affections of his wife.

During 1914 Cameron made a practice of leaving the office building at noon and evening with Mrs. Cadwallader. They would walk a block together and then separate.

After the Cadwallader marriage, Cameron seemed more interested in Mrs. Cadwallader than before. He let her off any afternoon to go to a show. Mrs. Cadwallader told the witness if she wasn't married she wouldn't have to cook meals. She refused to give up her position and remain at home so she might rear children.

Cameron told Cadwallader he thought as much of Mrs. Cadwallader as he did of his own daughter. In 1916 Cameron raised Mrs. Cadwallader's salary from $38 a month to $135 a month. The second raise in salary was given in May, about which time Mrs. Cadwallader told her husband she did not love him any more.

MEARS NAMED AS RECEIVER

Appointment is Made for United States Cashier Co.

On petition of A. S. Nichols, a director, Circuit Judge Davis today appointed S. M. Mears as receiver for the United States Cashier company, which had a stormy experience in the federal district court last year when several of the officers of the company were convicted of misuse of the mails in connection with a fraudulent stock-selling scheme.

In his petition, Mr. Nichols relates that the defendant company entered into a contract with the International Money Machine company of Terre Haute, Ind., which was to purchase the defendant company's machine patents for $100,000 and a majority of the stock in the Indiana company.

Publicity in connection with the prosecution of the U. S. Cashier company officials prevented the Indiana company from financing its business, it is alleged. To relieve the Indiana company of the embarrassment of having the U. S. Cashier company as a majority stockholder, the directors of the defendant company, it is related, in August, 1915, returned to the Indiana company 35,000 shares of its stock, which enabled that company to get on its feet financially, and make substantial payments on the $100,000 due the defendant company.

Hardware Company Sued.

Suit for $52,000 alleged damages for injuries received while employed by the Marshall-Wells Hardware company was filed today by Thomas Malloy against the company and R. A. Camp, superintendent. The accident occurred September 11, 1915, when a rope broke in October. A hook in a hole used for hoisting articles in the company's building at Seventeenth and Lovjoy streets. Malloy alleged his back was broken and he sustained

JOSEPH A. HAINES OF MONMOUTH IS DEAD

Joseph A. Haines.

Monmouth, Or., Dec. 13.—Joseph A. Haines, Oregon pioneer, died Monday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. S. Portwood, of this city. He had been ill for the last two years.

Mr. Haines was born in Tazewell county, Ill., August 8, 1828, and was 88 years old. He, with his twin brother, William W. Haines, started to Oregon with an ox team on April 19, 1851, and reached The Dalles October 13 of the same year. From The Dalles he went to Linn county and settled three and one-half miles south of Albany. He was married to Eleanor Chaffee of Albany in 1853, and in 1857 they moved to Scottsburg, Or. They were the parents of 14 children, 10 of whom are living. Mrs. Haines died in Monmouth January 14, 1912.

Mr. Haines will be buried at Eugene.

Handwriting Expert Submits Testimony

Supposedly Spurious Signatures on Documents and Deeds Basis of Evidence in Bankruptcy Case.

A coup to catch a goodly sum of money against rightful disposition, was what J. A. Wesco, handwriting expert, declared in effect, as J. Frazier's supposed affiliations with one W. J. Rogers, to be in the bankruptcy proceedings of Frazier, heard before Referee Cannon yesterday. Rogers was a creature of the brain, was Wesco's contention.

Rogers, whose whereabouts was apparently unfathomable to Frazier, was maintained by the latter in the case to own 48 shares of the 100 in the insolvent Frazier Real Estate Holding and Loan company of Eugene. Hence, it was asserted, close to half of property valued at from $70,000 to $150,000 was not rightfully at the disposal of the creditors.

Supposedly spurious signatures on documents and deeds were the basis of the handwriting expert's argument. A letter to Referee Cannon written ostensibly by Rogers 10 months ago at the request of Frazier was the last heard of the missing man, and he was then supposed to be in San Francisco.

COURT BEFRIENDS WOMAN

Substitution of Wife for Husband, as Prisoner, Narrowly Averted.

Substitution of the wife for the husband as a prisoner in the county jail was averted today when District Judge Jones halted the deputy sheriff and suspended a $100 fine he had just imposed on Mrs. Annie Ferguson.

It was another bootlegging case. Robert and Annie Ferguson were arrested about a week ago at 331 Glisan street on a bootlegging charge. In default of bail, Robert lay in jail a week, while Mrs. Ferguson was released on her own recognizance.

When the case came before Judge Jones for trial today the judge allowed a motion dismissing the charge against the husband. The wife on the witness stand admitted she had sold some liquor. She said her husband was there and both took the money. Judge Jones assessed a fine of $100.

The deputy sheriff started to take the woman from the courtroom. "Don't take her to jail," said the judge. "Let her remain in the custody of an officer until she arranges to pay the fine."

"I can't pay the fine," said Mrs. Ferguson. "Well, in that case," said Judge Jones, "I will take the responsibility for suspending the fine."

Boy Awarded Damages.

For two broken ribs and other injuries sustained by Isadore Jacobson, 7-year-old son of Sara Jacobson, when the lad was struck by an automobile being driven by M. Schneiderman, a jury in Judge Morrow's court today awarded the boy a verdict for $75 damages. The accident occurred July 1 at Second and Sheridan streets. The defendant contended that the accident was not due to his negligence, as he said the boy was playing ball in the street and ran in front of his machine. The father sued for $10,000.

Divorce Suits Filed.

Suits for divorce have been filed as follows: Nettie Gunning vs. Delbert Gunning, married at Vancouver in 1914, desertion; Anna Tonkin vs. George Tonkin, married at Pendleton June 7, 1916, cruelty; Marie Dunn vs. Jay Dunn, married in Washington in 1915, cruelty; L. C. Morgan vs. Elvir E. Morgan, married in Illinois in 1909, desertion.

OWNER WOULD REPEAT LAND TO BE USED AS SHIPBUILDING PLANT

Judge Fenton Appears Before City Council in Interests of Hannah Mason Estate.

LESSEES' NAME NOT GIVEN

Larger Institution Than Any Now in Existence Is Hinted in Remarks Made by Attorney.

W. D. Fenton appeared before the city council this morning to present a plan to replot the district between the river and Bond street and Vermont to Nevada streets in South Portland so as to provide land for the establishment of a shipbuilding plant.

Mr. Fenton said that the name of the shipbuilding company seeking the property is yet undisclosed but that he had been offered a three-year lease at $300 a month with an option to purchase. He said that the company, if it secured the property, will build a large plant than any now in the city. Under the Zeigler amendment the city cannot vacate city property adjacent to the river without receiving an equal amount of private property in exchange for the property vacated. To equalize the vacation of portions of streets now platted, Mr. Fenton proposes to have Bond street widened to 165 feet and give the city a piece of property near Vermont and Bond streets.

With the proposed replating all of River street from Vermont to Nevada, and portions of Vermont, Florida, California and Nevada streets between Bond street and the river would be vacated.

The property is owned by the Hannah Mason estate and the Harbor Realty company. The council favored the plan this morning and instructed Mr. Fenton, representing the Mason estate, to make formal application for a replating.

F. O. Northrup, a broker, is handling the shipbuilding project for clients whom he is not now mentioning. The proposition is, however, to enter into an option for a three-year lease or outright purchase of the property. Northrup's principals are said to be financially responsible and to be prepared to enter the shipbuilding game on a large and active scale.

TO RE-WORD TRAFFIC LAW

Council Proposes New Draft of Ordinance; Same Provisions.

Provisions of the traffic ordinance are to be re-worded to make them more easily understood, under amendments to the ordinance offered the city council by Mayor Albee this morning. It is not proposed to change the regulations, however.

Considerable confusion has arisen as to subdivision of section 12 which prohibits the passing of streets by automobiles within the restricted district. The amendment is to read that no vehicle is to pass either to the right or left of streetcars stopped for passengers within the restricted district and the bridges, but outside of this district vehicles may pass to the left of streetcars so stopped.

The council decided to hold the amendments in abeyance until it was seen if further questions arose. It is further questions arise within the next few days, the amendments are to be made.

TWO SEWER BIDS ARE MADE

Giebisch & Joplin With Price of $309,312 Is Lower.

Although several contractors were expected to offer prices on the reconstruction of Tanner creek sewer, only two bids were received when the council opened proposals this morning.

The lower bid was submitted by Giebisch & Joplin, the price being $309,312. The price is $28,312 in excess of the city engineer's estimate of $273,000. The other bid was submitted by the Jacobsen-Jensen company, its price being $332,520.

The increase in the cost of steel and materials had been figured in the estimates, and just why the contractors should bid so far in excess of the engineer's estimate was the subject of considerable speculation at the city hall this morning. It is said that several out-of-town contractors had figured on the work, and then, at the last moment, decided not to submit bids.

Assessments Are Protested.

Property-owners in the district adjacent to the Union avenue viaduct have protested against the assessments levied against them for the construction of the viaduct. They have presented their protests to the city council and are asking that all or a part of the cost be paid for out of the city's general fund. Commissioner Dieck says that the improvement was sought for by property-owners, and the majority of them agreed not to remonstrate against it or against the assessment. The council has the protests under consideration.

Cars Must Keep Moving.

Frank Shepherd, owner of a bus line to St. Helens and cars operating over the Columbia river highway, is not to be allowed to stand his cars for longer than 15 minutes on Morrison street between First and Second streets, according to a decision reached by the city council today. Mr. Shepherd asked Mayor Albee to be allowed to stop his cars at this place where a depot had been established during the four years cars had been operated, but the council by majority vote turned down his plea.

Jitneys Endanger Children.

Jitneys are to be asked to stop a block north of the Holman school in South Portland instead of a block south as they are now doing, as the result of a petition received by the council today from the Parent-Teachers' association of the Holman school. It was stated that the jitneys along with the street-car and other traffic, made it dangerous for the school children crossing the thoroughfare. Commissioner Daly said he would ask the jitney drivers to change their routing.

Time Granted Contractor.

The city council this morning granted Hans Pederson, general contractor on the public auditorium, 65 days' extension of time on the general contract because of failure of face brick to arrive on time. The delay in the shipping of the brick came as a result of the council canceling the contract of a local brick concern and ordering the brick from an eastern concern.

To Rebuild Furnaces.

The city council today authorized the appointment of an architect to draw plans for the reconstruction of furnaces in the municipal garbage incinerator. Will H. Daly, commissioner of public utilities, said that H. C. Dittreich would be selected. He is to receive 10 per cent of the cost of the work, estimated at $11,000.

Oregon Firms to Bid.

The Oregon Iron & Steel company is to be given opportunity to bid on the 150 tons of cast iron pipe to be purchased soon by the water bureau. The council today ordered the purchasing agent to advertise for bids. Commissioner Daly explained that the company now had a contract for pipe and that it could offer the city a better price now than at other times.

Exemption Is Provided.

Funeral directors and hotel proprietors using their own automobiles in their business are not to be required to pay a license to the city, under the ordinance passed by the council today. Up until today licenses based on seating capacity in funeral cars and hotel buses were required of the owners.

PLACED IN JAIL AT HIS OWN REQUEST TO ESCAPE DRINK HABIT

"Send Me to Penitentiary, Asylum or Any Place," Is Man's Desperate Plea.

WIFE SUPPORTS HERSELF

Applicant Says That He Has Spent $700 on Strong Drink in the Past Six Months.

The most unusual appeal that has come to District Attorney Evans in many a day was made to him this morning by W. E. Brown of Echo, who begged to be imprisoned as a last resort in his fight against liquor.

"I don't care what you do with me, just so you lock me up for six months or a year, until I get this stuff out of my system," said Brown. "Send me to the penitentiary or the insane asylum; any place, just so I will be restrained."

"I have a wife and three children—a fine family as God ever gave a man—and I have been nothing but a disgrace to them for 12 years. I can't leave the booze alone. I've tried and I can't."

"I told my wife when I left her 10 days ago that I wouldn't return until I had straightened up and made a man of myself again. I can't do it alone. I've got to have help."

Brown, whose home is in Umatilla county, is 38 years old. His wife is supporting herself and children by conducting a hotel. In the last six months he said he had squandered $700 on drink. He said he lost when drunk a traveling salesman's job which paid him $200 a year. "The only thing I have made a failure of is this cursed booze," he said. "He would drink anything that had a kick in it. He has taken so-called 'cures,' but they did not last. 'I've either got to quit now or completely ruin my family and go crazy myself," he said.

District Attorney Evans sent the man to the county jail this morning and this afternoon is looking into the law to ascertain what action he may take in such a case. It may be that he can send the man to the insane asylum.
